"NOTHING can be done to stabilize the price of cotton; that would be an economic sin, against the sacred law of supply and demand." So you are told, and then your read this morning, how Belgium wanted fifty millions from us to stabilize the Belgian franc, and the stabilizing bonds "were gobbled up in less than half an hour after Wall Street offered them."

WHY a Belgian franc, made of paper, should be better security than the cotton crop of America is for high finance to say. Belgium sold her $50,000,000 bonds in New York between ten and ten-thirty yesterday morning, at $96 for a $100 bond, so the buyer gets seven and a half per cent of his money and the banks get their "rake-off."

WE ARE all glad to help dear Belgium, or Mesopotamia, or King Feisal, but what a pity we cannot find a way to help the American cotton grower. He also has some claim on American sympathy. One trouble is that he is not able to offer usurious rates of interest.

NATURE is worrying her children, all over the world, with high winds, earthquakes, tidal waves, electric [illegible] New York City and Paris, 3,[illegible] apart, are swept by a hurricane; in the same twenty-four hours ships are blown over at sea.

Yesterday violent storms were raging all over France, with heavy rain and snow.

Science tells you that the trouble comes from our sun, a giant magnet with electric storms and huge fiery upheavals, in which our earth would be lost like a snowflake in Vesuvius. That is no comfort, but let us consider what might be and be grateful.

THE British empire is having trouble with the free unities that make up its "far-flung" dominions. Britain says "our power protects you, so give preference to British trade." The colonies are cold to that idea. South Africa demands the right to draw any color line it pleases, especially against Hindus that are British subjects.

M'DERMOTT KIN OFFER WIDOW $5,000 REWARD

Letter Mailed to Mrs. Don R. Mellett From Nanty Glo.

SENT TO CANTON

NANTY GLO, Pa., Oct. 28.—A letter from Thomas J. McDermott, brother of Patrick McDermott, so-called "key figure" in the Don R. Mellett murder, to Mrs. Mellett, widow of the Canton publisher, offering her the $5,000 reward he was entitled to receive for Pat's capture, was in the mails today, Thomas McDermott said at his home here.

The letter, addressed to Mrs. Mellett in care of the Canton News, asked her to accept the money, "if not for yourself, for the education of the children of Don R. Mellett," and expressed the sympathy of the McDermott family for the widow.

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 28.—Mrs. Don R. Mellett, widow of the slain Canton, O., publisher, today stated she had received no offer from a brother of Pat McDermott to accept the $5,000 he was entitled to receive for McDermott's return, to assist in the education of her children, as had been reported.

Mrs. Mellett said that the letter may be in the mails, but at yet she had received no such word.

SHEPHERD WINS ESTATE FIGHT

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 28.—William D. Shepherd of Chicago today won his fight for possession of the million dollar estate of "Billy" McClintock, when the state supreme court affirmed the verdict of the Cook county circuit court admitting McClintock's will to probate.

WARREN, O., MAN DIES ON TRAIN

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 28.—John D. Robertson, 50, an official of the Warren Tool and Forge company, Warren, Ohio, died on a train as it was arriving here today.

Legal Battle on Stage Today as Defense Attorneys Renew Fight to Interview Workhouse Inmate.

By BEN STERN.

CANTON, O., Oct. 28.—"Pat McDermott has not confessed."

Despite all reports to the contrary, the alleged "triggerman" in the slaying of Don R. Mellett on the morning of July 16, has not divulged who killed Mellett or under what circumstances the crime was committed.

This was the flat statement made today by Prosecutor C. B. McClintock and Ora Slater, Ohio's detective ace.

They also issued the following statement over their signatures:

"Pat McDermott has not confessed. He has, however, given some important information which cannot be divulged at this time. We are, however, making satisfactory progress.

"ORA SLATER."

Aroused to indignaiton over reports being disseminated that McDermott had confessed and incriminated Ben Rudner and Louis Mazer, both indicted on charges of first degree murder as a result of the Mellett slaying together with an unnamed former member of the Canton police department, Slater and McClintock asked that the statement that such reports were absolutely untrue be published.

"Publication of false reports of this sort obstruct the course of justice and hinder us in our investigation," McClintock said

"We seem to have McDermott on the verge of talking and then by some grapevine intelligence system he learns of these stories and refuses to hold any further conversation, claiming that we are violating his confidences."

A legal battle took the stage today as Edward L. Mills, Canton attorney for Ben Rudner and Louis Mazer, facing trial with McDermott on first degree murder indictments, prepared to face Prosecutor McClintock before Judge A. W. Agler in a contest to decide whether Mills will be permitted to interview McDermott.

Mills today asked to see McDermott on the grounds that the latter is a witness material to Mazer's defense and that he had expressed a desire to talk to the attorney, who upon presenting himself at the Canton work-

60-DAY SENTENCE IS SUSPENDED

Judge Hanley today suspended a 60-day jail sentence meted out to Harry McArtor, of Minerva who was found guilty upon a charge of non-support.

McArtor was arrested upon an affidavit signed by his wife Mrs. Leota McArtor, of Salineville, who charged that the husband had failed to provide for the support of their 17-month-old daughter, Betty, since the child's birth. PARIS DENIES BERLIN REPORT THAT RUMANIAN KING IS DYING

SON IN FRANCE

Hint Queen Marie May Cancel Her American Tour.

PARIS, Oct. 28.—Reports that King Ferdinand of Roumania is critically ill were emphatically denied here today.

Prince Carol's household denied flatly that the prince has been called to the bedside of his father.

VIENNA, Oct. 28.—The condition of King Ferdinand of Roumania is serious and Prince Carol, who renounced his rights to the throne, has been summoned to the king's bedside, according to dispatches published in the local press.

Suffers from Nervous Trouble.

King Ferdinand of Roumania has taken a sudden turn for the worse, and his death may be expected at any time, according to a dispatch today to the Lokal Anzeiger from its Bucharest correspondent.

This news, coming on the heels of the controversy over the reported request from the Bucharest foreign office for Queen Marie to cancel her American tour and return home immediately, revived speculation as to the length of the queen's sojourn in the United States.

It has been known that the king has been suffering for some time from nervous trouble, but it had not been intimated that his condition was critical.

Warning Against Rumors.

The Lokal Anzeiger report is contrary to reports which have been received from other sources, which would indicate that King Ferdinand's condition is not critical.

From the Roumanian foreign office and from the spokesmen for Queen Marie in this country there have come repeated warnings that sensational rumors purporting to come from Bucharest should be discounted.

The first report that King Ferdinand had cabled Queen Marie to come home were officially denied.

A later report was circulated, for which there is no apparent foundation, that the queen's physician had ordered her home.

Now comes the report of the critical illness of King Ferdinand which is received by a single European newspaper and is as yet unconfirmed from other sources.

Queen in Canadian Capital.

OTTAWA, ONT.—(Aboard Queen Marie's Special Train)—Oct. 28.—Facing her most strenuous program of entertaining since coming to America, Queen Marie of Roumania arrived in the Canadian capital today. It was the royal party's last day in the east before penetrating the scenic wonders of the west tomorrow with a 1,200-mile railroad "hop" to Winnipeg.

LONDON PSYCHIC EXPERT CLAIMS RECEIPT OF MESSAGE FROM MARS

Geneva Astronomers Report Planet of Today is Quite Different From That of Two Years Ago.

LONDON, Oct. 28.—A message from Mars has been received on this sphere, according to Dr. Robinson, psychic expert, who yesterday paid commercial rates to have a message to Mars sent out by radio.

Further than this Dr. Robinson declined to go and would not translate his message to Mars, which read "Opesti nipitis secomba."

"Last year I had radio communication with the planet," Dr. Robinson said, "sending and receiving messages while I was in a trance. I understand the Martians' language, which is a language of the brain."

Heavy clouds interfered with the majority of astronomical observations from London and other parts of England during the night. Some dark markings on the surface of the distant planet were distinguished, but all lesser markings were indistinct or almost wholly invisible most of the time.

GENEVA, Oct. 28.—Astronomers report that the Mars of today is quite different from the Mars observed two years ago.

Professor Schaer of the Jungfrau Joch observatory reports that "Mars is a changed planet and now presents a very luminous pale yellow disc with its equatorial continents a dark brown color, while the polar cap, which was very small in August, has now nearly disappeared."

MOTORMAN DIES

Conductor and One Passenger Seriously Injured.

WHEELING, W. VA., Oct. 28.—One man was killed, seven persons were seriously injured, two of whom may die, and a score of other passengers suffered slight injuries here early today when a street car, operating to Mozart park, ran away on a steep grade at the foot of the long hill and crashed through a store as it failed to negotiate a turn.

Joseph Gaus, 46, conductor, suffered a broken leg and internal injuries. He is not expected to live.

Mrs. Anna Hall, 45, suffered internal injuries and may die.

Fog Made Rails Slippery.

The trolley, carrying many to work, had slipped and skidded several times going down the hill, a heavy fog having made the rails slippery. As it struck the last steep grade, the car gathered momentum, careened as it swung around a sharp curve and then darted down the last 200 yards, a straight away stretch of track.

Traveling at terrific speed, it dashed across a bridge, hit the last turn toward the Leel road, reared on its side and crashed all the way through the Leo Peck grocery store, burying the vestibule of the car in the hill at the back of the store.

DEPUTY STATE SUPERVISORS OF ELECTIONS OIL MACHINERY FOR BALLOTING IN 105 PRECINCTS OF COLUMBIANA COUNTY ON TUESDAY

The election board machinery for Columbiana county's balloting on Tuesday, Nov. 2, when state, district and county officials will be chosen, a chief justice and two other judges of the supreme court, as well as one appellate jurist and one common pleas judge named and judgment passed upon a proposed state constitutional amendment and local issues, was oiled today.

The deputy state supervisors will be in session at the East Liverpool office from 1 until 2 p. m. Saturday and Monday to pass upon applications for special registration. East Liverpool electors who neglected to enroll for the presidential election in 1924 or a subsequent balloting, will be given certificates of registration if they were 50 miles distant from their home precinct on each of the four regular registration days —Sept. 30, Oct. 7, 15 and 16.

Registrars, who will receive supplies at the Betz building at 2 p. m. Monday, will be on duty in the city's 21 precincts from 8 to 9 p. m. that day to enroll persons who have been given special certificates and to issue and accept transfers.

More than 100 county voters have applied for ballots under the provisions of the absent elector's law. Time limit for voting under this measure expires Saturday night.

Instructions will be given the 105 presiding judges in the county relative to the counting of ballots Tuesday night. They will be advised to first count the state, district and county ticket, then the judicial and proposed state amendment. Local issues will be the last to be tabulated.

Upon completion of the respective counts, they will telephone the figures to district tabulators in East Liverpool, Wellsville, Salineville, East Rochester, Lisbon, East Palestine and Salem. District representatives, in turn, will forward totals to headquarters here.

Dr. Miskall, his successor, is now interne at a Springfield, Mass., hospital, but will return to this city before the first of the year.

Contagious disease report of Dr. Fraser showed three cases of diphtheria, one of scarlet fever and one of tuberculosis during October. Nine new cases were admitted to the public health clinic. Treatments given during the month totalled 152, of which 118 were for male patients and 34 for female.

Mrs. Alice Davidson, registrar of vital statistics, reported 54 births, 30 males and 24 females, and 31 deaths, of which 18 were male and 13 females.

LONDON PSYCHIC EXPERT CLAIMS RECEIPT OF MESSAGE FROM MARS

Geneva Astronomers Report Planet of Today is Quite Different From That of Two Years Ago.

LONDON, Oct. 28.—A message from Mars has been received on this sphere, according to Dr. Robinson, psychic expert, who yesterday paid commercial rates to have a message to Mars sent out by radio.

Further than this Dr. Robinson declined to go and would not translate his message to Mars, which read "Opesti nipitia secomba."

"Last year I had radio communication with the planet," Dr. Robinson said, "sending and receiving messages while I was in a trance. I understand the Martians' language, which is a language of the brain."

Heavy clouds interfered with the majority of astronomical observations from London and other parts of England during the night. Some dark markings on the surface of the distant planet were distinguished, but all lesser markings were indistinct or almost wholly invisible most of the time.

GENEVA, Oct. 28.—Astronomers report that the Mars of today is quite different from the Mars observed two years ago.

Professor Schaer of the Jungfrau Joch observatory reports that "Mars is a changed planet and now presents a very luminous pale yellow disc with its equatorial continents a dark brown color, while the polar cap, which was very small in August, has now nearly disappeared."

East Liverpool electors who neglected to enroll for the presidential election in 1924 or a subsequent balloting, will be given certificates of registration if they were 50 miles distant from their home precinct on each of the four regular registration days —Sept. 30, Oct. 7, 15 and 16.

McDERMOTT HAS NOT NAMED MELLETT KILLER

Today

Francs and Cotton.
Nature Rampageous.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

Copyright, 1926, by the Star Co.

"NOTHING can be done to stabilize the price of cotton; that would be an economic sin, against the sacred law of supply and demand." So you are told, and then your read this morning, how Belgium wanted fifty millions from us to stabilize the Belgian franc, and the stabilizing bonds "were gobbled up in less than half an hour after Wall Street offered them."

WHY a Belgian franc, made of paper, should be better security than the cotton crop of America is for high finance to say. Belgium sold her $50,000,000 bonds in New York between ten and ten-thirty yesterday morning, at $96 for a $100 bond, so the buyer gets seven and a half per cent of his money and the banks get their "rake-off."

WE ARE all glad to help dear Belgium, or Mesopotamia, or King Feisal, but what a pity we cannot find a way to help the American cotton grower. He also has some claim on American sympathy. One trouble is that he is not able to offer usurious rates of interest.

NATURE is worrying her children, all over the world, with high winds, earthquakes, tidal waves, electric [illegible] New York City and Paris, 3,[illegible] apart, are swept by a hurricane; in the same twenty-four hours ships are blown over at sea.

Yesterday violent storms were raging all over France, with heavy rain and snow.

Science tells you that the trouble comes from our sun, a giant magnet with electric storms and huge fiery upheavals, in which our earth would be lost like a snowflake in Vesuvius. That is no comfort, but let us consider what might be and be grateful.

THE British empire is having trouble with the free unities that make up its "far-flung" dominions. Britain says "our power protects you, so give preference to British trade." The colonies are cold to that idea. South Africa demands the right to draw any color line it pleases, especially against Hindus that are British subjects.

CANTON AUTHORITIES ADMIT PRISONER HAS MADE NO CONFESSION

Signed Statement Issued by Prosecutor C. B. McClintock and Ora Slater, Ohio's Detective Ace.

VALUABLE HINTS GIVEN, HOWEVER

By BEN STERN.

CANTON, O., Oct. 28.—"Pat McDermott has not confessed."

Despite all reports to the contrary, the alleged "triggerman" in the slaying of Don R. Mellett on the morning of July 16, has not divulged who killed Mellett or under what circumstances the crime was committed.

This was the flat statement made today by Prosecutor C. B. McClintock and Ora Slater, Ohio's detective ace.

Gives Important Information.

They also issued the following statement over their signatures:

"Pat McDermott has not confessed. He has, however, given some important information which cannot be divulged at this time. We are, however, making satisfactory progress.

(Signed)

"C. B. McCLINTOCK.
"ORA SLATER."

Aroused to indignaiton over reports being disseminated that McDermott had confessed and incriminated Ben Rudner and Louis Mazer, both indicted on charges of first degree murder as a result of the Mellett slaying together with an unnamed former member of the Canton police department, Slater and McClintock asked that the statement that such reports were absolutely untrue be published.

"Publication of false reports of this sort obstruct the course of justice and hinder us in our investigation," McClintock said

"We seem to have McDermott on the verge of talking and then by some grapevine intelligence system he learns of these stories and refuses to hold any further conversation, claiming that we are violating his confidences."

A legal battle took the stage today as Edward L. Mills, Canton attorney for Ben Rudner and Louis Mazer, facing trial with McDermott on first degree murder indictments, prepared to face Prosecutor McClintock before Judge A. W. Agler in a contest to decide whether Mills will be permitted to interview McDermott.

Mills today asked to see McDermott on the grounds that the latter is a witness material to Mazer's defense and that he had expressed a desire to talk to the attorney, who upon presenting himself at the Canton work-

M'DERMOTT KIN OFFER WIDOW $5,000 REWARD

Letter Mailed to Mrs. Don R. Mellett From Nanty Glo.

NANTY GLO, Pa., Oct. 28.—A letter from Thomas J. McDermott, brother of Patrick McDermott, so-called "key figure" in the Don R. Mellett murder, to Mrs. Mellett, widow of the Canton publisher, offering her the $5,000 reward he was entitled to receive for Pat's capture, was in the mails today, Thomas McDermott said at his home here.

The letter, addressed to Mrs. Mellett in care of the Canton News, asked her to accept the money, "if not for yourself, for the education of the children of Don R. Mellett," and expressed the sympathy of the McDermott family for the widow.

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 28.—Mrs. Don R. Mellett, widow of the slain Canton, O., publisher, today stated she had received no offer from a brother of Pat McDermott to accept the $5,000 he was entitled to receive for McDermott's return, to assist in the education of her children, as had been reported.

Mrs. Mellett said that the letter may be in the mails, but at yet she had received no such word.

PARIS DENIES BERLIN REPORT THAT RUMANIAN KING IS DYING

SON IN FRANCE

Hint Queen Marie May Cancel Her American Tour.

PARIS, Oct. 28.—Reports that King Ferdinand of Roumania is critically ill were emphatically denied here today.

Prince Carol's household denied flatly that the prince has been called to the bedside of his father.

VIENNA, Oct. 28.—The condition of King Ferdinand of Roumania is serious and Prince Carol, who renounced his rights to the throne, has been summoned to the king's bedside, according to dispatches published in the local press.

Suffers from Nervous Trouble.

BERLIN, Oct. 28.—The condition of King Ferdinand of Roumania has taken a sudden turn for the worse, and his death may be expected at any time, according to a dispatch today to the Lokal Anzeiger from its Bucharest correspondent.

This news, coming on the heels of the controversy over the reported request from the Bucharest foreign office for Queen Marie to cancel her American tour and return home immediately, revived speculation as to the length of the queen's sojourn in the United States.

It has been known that the king has been suffering for some time from nervous trouble, but it had not been intimated that his condition was critical.

Warning Against Rumors.

The Lokal Anzeiger report is contrary to reports which have been received from other sources, which would indicate that King Ferdinand's condition is not critical.

From the Roumanian foreign office and from the spokesmen for Queen Marie in this country there have come repeated warnings that sensational rumors purporting to come from Bucharest should be discounted.

The first report that King Ferdinand had cabled Queen Marie to come home were officially denied.

A later report was circulated, for which there is no apparent foundation, that the queen's physician had ordered her home.

Now comes the report of the critical illness of King Ferdinand which is received by a single European newspaper and is as yet unconfirmed from other sources.

Queen in Canadian Capital.

OTTAWA, ONT.—(Aboard Queen Marie's Special Train)—Oct. 28.—Facing her most strenuous program of entertaining since coming to America, Queen Marie of Roumania arrived in the Canadian capital today. It was the royal party's last day in the east before penetrating the scenic wonders of the west tomorrow with a 1,200-mile railroad "hop" to Winnipeg.

GLITTER

By Katharine Brush

BOOK FOUR—XV.

"Yes, come on, go with us, Yvonne," added Cecily.

"Can't," said Yvonnie. "Can't possibly. I'm dead for sleep, and I'm going back to bed as soon as you two leave." She dimpled down at Cecily. "I hate to give you away, honey, but the truth will out! She chattered about you all night, Jock."

"Don't tell him what I said!" begged Cecily.

("My God," thought Jock, "a girl who can blush!")

"Oh, I won't, I'll never tell him," promised Yvonne.

After this Cecily vanished into the bed room, muttering something about "safety pins," and Jock and Yvonne were alone. He kissed her gently, his hands framing her face. "I wish you'd come," he said.

"Honestly, my dear, I don't feel like it."

They exchanged a long look, Jock's quizzical, Yvonne's even and smiling. "What is the trouble?" she asked at last. "If a person just doesn't want any breakfast—"

She let the sentence hang there, and presently Jock opened a new topic. "What did you do about Cecily's mother?"

"Oh, I telephoned her after we got here last night, in my best drawing-room voice, and told her I was Mrs. Somebody-or-other — Cecily gave me the name—and that her daughter was spending the night with my daughter and would be home this morning some time. You'll have to drive her out there later on. And don't scold her too much, will you? She thinks you're simply going to lay her low, and she's worried to death. She explained it all to me at great length—said, 'you see I'm sort of a pupil of his'—" Yvonne broke off to laugh reminiscently. "Isn't she the cunningest?" she finished. "You know, I'm wild about her."

Then Cecily re-entered, looking down at the shortened skirt as she walked and kicking her legs forward to get the effect, somewhat in the manner of a goose-stepping soldier. "How is it?" she inquired. "I had to use plain pins in some places. And I borrowed a pair of stockings, Yvonne, and these pumps, because red ones look too ridic at breakfast time. Oh, and this hat, too. You don't mind, do you?"

Yvonne said that indeed she didn't mind, and Jock reflected that Yvonne really ought to give Cecily the hat as a present, so wonderfully it suited her. And he bundled her into her soft gray squirrel coat, and off they went, calling back good-byes to Yvonne from the hall.

"Good-bye!" echoed Yvonne gayly.

XVI.

"I'm going to bawl you out, as I said," began Jock, when they were face to face over two orange-juice wells sunk into two miniature icebergs. "But first I'm going to tell you that I think the transformation is—is miraculous. Duckling into swan, and all in one short year—I don't see how you did it."

"Year and two months," Cecily corrected him. "Well, you don't know how hard I've worked at it!"

"You must have."

"I've remembered every last thing you told me, Jock. Did you notice the dress I had on last night, for instance? 'Get red,' you said, 'something that knocks 'em in the eye.' Did it knock you in the eye, Jock? Say it did!"

But Jock had grown severe. "Right here," he asserted, "is where the fight starts. Did I, or did I not, tell you to run around with men like Loomis, who is one of the lower and lousier gutter-pups, as anybody can see at a glance—and did I ever tell you to go getting potted like you were last night?

"I'll tell you, Cecily," he went on, "the way I feel about it. I feel as though I'd met you up on the top of a nice little white hill, and I'd said, 'Here, here's a sled.' And you'd climbed aboard, and I'd given you a little push, and it turned out to be a big push after all and took you whizzing past where I wanted you to go. It's got me all worried, and I wish I'd left you just where you were."

Cecily sighed. "Oh, dear, I just knew you'r take it that way!"

"Well, sure! How else would I take it? When I was the egg who—

"Shoot."

Cecily put both elbows on the table and dug a determined small chin into the back of one hand. "I don't know just where to begin," she said, "but here's the way it was. This whole year and two months has been one long preparation for the time when I'd see you again. Not because it was you, particularly," she amended quickly, "but—well, you know. Like studying a lesson and then reciting. I wanted you to see how hard I'd tried and how—how well I'd got along, so you'd know that all your trouble wasn't just for nothing. You see what I mean, don't you?"

"That was why I blubbered and blubbered last night," Cecily went on. "You thought it was one of those weeping jags, didn't you? Well, it wasn't. It because, after all that waiting, I had to be intoxicated when you saw me again. Why, Jock—" Her voice rose to a sudden small wail—"I never was intoxicated in my life before! I never was! And I never was on a party with Perry Loomis, and I never would have been if he hadn't told me there were going to be ten of us or something. Jock, you—believe me, don't you?" she pleaded.

"Of, course, Cecily."

"I don't know what happened," Cecily said dismally. "I swear I don't. I've had a couple of drinks lots of evenings, and they've never affected me a bit. But we got to that Tavern place, and Perry said we'd have to wait a while till the others came in, and we waited and waited, and I had two drinks, that was all. And the first I knew everything was kind of floating in a funny way, and some man who looked exactly like you only a little fuzzy around the edges—you know how—was playing the banjo. And then, while I was trying to figure out whether it could be you and what you'd be doing playing the banjo—you see, Dopey's moved away from East Orange and I never see him now, so I didn't know—then Perry started saying that there weren't any others coming after all, and—and saying other things—"

She stopped, quite out of breath, and peered anxiously into Jock's face. "You're not still angry, are you?"

"Not at you. But if I ever see that—well, but go on."

"That's all there is," said Cecily. "I just wanted you to know that I'm not a confirmed drunkard."

The Improved Anchor Hot Blast Heater Has No Equal

Wherever heating stoves are used, the Anchor Hot Blast Heater proves its superiority—proves that in downright efficiency, in convenience, in actual economy, it is without an equal.

This superiority is not an accident, but is the result of many years of practical and scientific heating-stove manufacture and practical tests.

The features of construction in the Anchor Hot Blast Heater meet every requirement of heating-stove efficiency and long-time service. Highest quality materials, expert workmanship, and scientific design combine to give a heating result unequalled in this type of heater.

The Anchor Hot Blast will burn any fuel—hard coal, soft coal, lignite, wood, or coke, giving a uniform heat under perfect control, and a slow, economical combustion. BOOK FOUR—XV.

"Yes, come on, go with us, Yvonne," added Cecily.

"Can't," said Yvonnie. "Can't possibly. I'm dead for sleep, and I'm going back to bed as soon as you two leave." She dimpled down at Cecily. "I hate to give you away, honey, but the truth will out! She chattered about you all night, Jock."

"Don't tell him what I said!" begged Cecily.

("My God," thought Jock, "a girl who can blush!")

"Oh, I won't, I'll never tell him," promised Yvonne.

After this Cecily vanished into the bed room, muttering something about "safety pins," and Jock and Yvonne were alone. He kissed her gently, his hands framing her face. "I wish you'd come," he said.

"Honestly, my dear, I don't feel like it."

They exchanged a long look, Jock's quizzical, Yvonne's even and smiling. "What is the trouble?" she asked at last. "If a person just doesn't want any breakfast—"

She let the sentence hang there, and presently Jock opened a new topic. "What did you do about Cecily's mother?"

"Oh, I telephoned her after we got here last night, in my best drawing-room voice, and told her I was Mrs. Somebody-or-other — Cecily gave me the name—and that her daughter was spending the night with my daughter and would be home this morning some time. You'll have to drive her out there later on. And don't scold her too much, will you? She thinks you're simply going to lay her low, and she's worried to death. She explained it all to me at great length—said, 'you see I'm sort of a pupil of his'—" Yvonne broke off to laugh reminiscently. "Isn't she the cunningest?" she finished. "You know, I'm wild about her."

Then Cecily re-entered, looking down at the shortened skirt as she walked and kicking her legs forward to get the effect, somewhat in the manner of a goose-stepping soldier. "How is it?" she inquired. "I had to use plain pins in some places. And I borrowed a pair of stockings, Yvonne, and these pumps, because red ones look too ridic at breakfast time. Oh, and this hat, too. You don't mind, do you?"

Yvonne said that indeed she didn't mind, and Jock reflected that Yvonne really ought to give Cecily the hat as a present, so wonderfully it suited her. And he bundled her into her soft gray squirrel coat, and off they went, calling back good-byes to Yvonne from the hall.

XVI.

"I'm going to bawl you out, as I said," began Jock, when they were tact to face over two orange-juice wells sunk into two miniature icebergs. "But first I'm going to tell you that I think the transformation is—is miraculous. Duckling into swan, and all in one short year—I don't see how you did it."

"Year and two months," Cecily corrected him. "Well, you don't know how hard I've worked at it!"

"You must have."

"I've remembered every last thing you told me, Jock. Did you notice the dress I had on last night, for instance? 'Get red,' you said, 'something that knocks 'em in the eye.' Did it knock you in the eye, Jock? Say it did!"

But Jock had grown severe. "Right here," he asserted, "is where the fight starts. Did I, or did I not, tell you to run around with men like Loomis, who is one of the lower and lousier gutter-pups, as anybody can see at a glance—and did I ever tell you to go getting potted like you were last night?

"I'll tell you, Cecily," he went on, "the way I feel about it. I feel as though I'd met you up on the top of a nice little white hill, and I'd said, 'Here, here's a sled.' And you'd climbed aboard, and I'd given you a little push, and it turned out to be a big push after all and took you whizzing past where I wanted you to go. It's got me all worried, and I wish I'd left you just where you were."

Cecily sighed. "Oh, dear, I just knew you'r take it that way!"

"Well, sure! How else would I take it? When I was the egg who—

"Shoot."

Cecily put both elbows on the table and dug a determined small chin into the back of one hand. "I don't know just where to begin," she said, "but here's the way it was. This whole year and two months has been one long preparation for the time when I'd see you again. Not because it was you, particularly," she amended quickly, "but—well, you know. Like studying a lesson and then reciting. I wanted you to see how hard I'd tried and how—how well I'd got along, so you'd know that all your trouble wasn't just for nothing. You see what I mean, don't you?"

"That was why I blubbered and blubbered last night," Cecily went on. "You thought it was one of those weeping jags, didn't you? Well, it wasn't. It because, after all that waiting, I had to be intoxicated when you saw me again. Why, Jock—" Her voice rose to a sudden small wail—"I never was intoxicated in my life before! I never was! And I never was on a party with Perry Loomis, and I never would have been if he hadn't told me there were going to be ten of us or something. Jock, you—believe me, don't you?" she pleaded.

"I don't know what happened," Cecily said dismally. "I swear I don't. I've had a couple of drinks lots of evenings, and they've never affected me a bit. But we got to that Tavern place, and Perry said we'd have to wait a while till the others came in, and we waited and waited, and I had two drinks, that was all. And the first I knew everything was kind of floating in a funny way, and some man who looked exactly like you only a little fuzzy around the edges—you know how—was playing the banjo. And then, while I was trying to figure out whether it could be you and what you'd be doing playing the banjo—you see, Dopey's moved away from East Orange and I never see him now, so I didn't know—then Perry started saying that there weren't any others coming after all, and—and saying other things—"

She stopped, quite out of breath, and peered anxiously into Jock's face. "You're not still angry, are you?"

"Not at you. But if I ever see that—well, but go on."

"That's all there is," said Cecily. "I just wanted you to know that I'm not a confirmed drunkard."

The Improved Anchor Hot Blast Heater Has No Equal

Wherever heating stoves are used, the Anchor Hot Blast Heater proves its superiority—proves that in downright efficiency, in convenience, in actual economy, it is without an equal.

This superiority is not an accident, but is the result of many years of practical and scientific heating-stove manufacture and practical tests.

The features of construction in the Anchor Hot Blast Heater meet every requirement of heating-stove efficiency and long-time service. Highest quality materials, expert workmanship, and scientific design combine to give a heating result unequalled in this type of heater.

The Anchor Hot Blast will burn any fuel—hard coal, soft coal, lignite, wood, or coke, giving a uniform heat under perfect control, and a slow, economical combustion. Because of the hot-blast feature, the gases from soft coal are completely burned, making a ton of soft coal about equal to a ton of the more expensive hard coal.

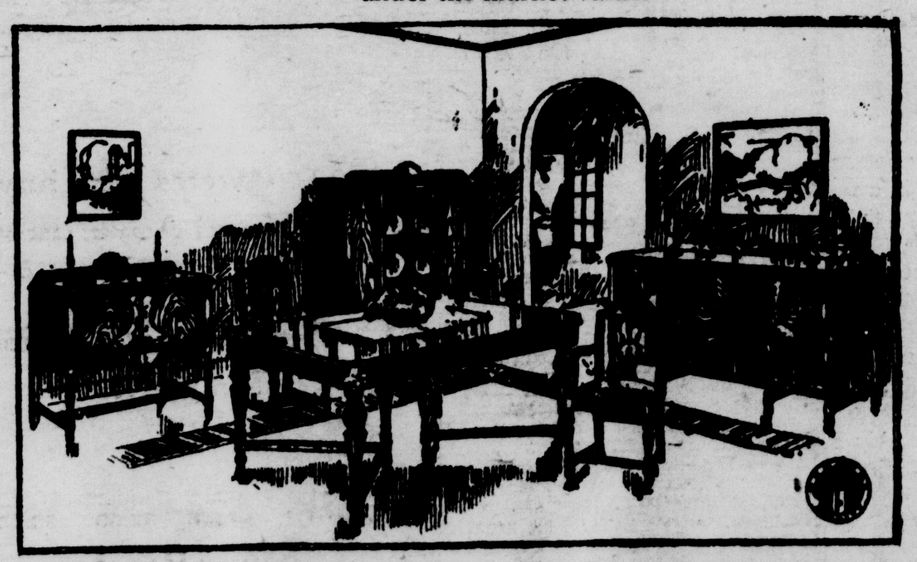

Careful attention has been applie dto every detail of construction. And it is mounted absolutely air-tight and remains air-tight, because these details have been perfected and made practical.

In addition to a fine appearance that will last the life of the stove, the Anchor Hot Blast offers real home comfort and a saving of 25% on your fuel bill.

Logical Gubernatorial Choice

Political campaigns never become what you would call hot until they get close to voting time. The present one seems now to be warming up, not in the matter of bitter attacks, but in the public's interest in the candidates. The whole thing so far has been very pleasingly decent. There have been no personal jibes of any sort. Mr. Donahey goes about talking of what he has done, Mr. Cooper of what he expects to do, and that certainly is fair enough.

The Republican candidate, who comes right out of the world of business rather than politics, has made some rather interesting statements. It has been stated as fact—and public records were used as the source of the information—that the state of Ohio has consumed enough gasoline in a twelve-month period to travel 3,000,000 miles. We own more automobiles, many of them pleasure cars, than any state in the union. If that charge is true, Mr. Donahey should receive only the votes of those families for which he has provided limousines and gasoline. It it isn't true, the governor should leave not the slightest shadow of doubt about its falsity.

Politics, at its very best, is one of the greatest evils of the greatest nation on earth. It may be a necessary evil, but we doubt very much if it need to be so terribly evil. Imagine taxpayers throughout the entire state, scraping together hard-earned money to pay their fair share of the cost of government without the hope of owning an automobile—and there are some left who do not have them. If pleasure cars are bought out of state funds for political job-holders then we certainly have had enough of machine politics.

Cooper looks like a new deal in state affairs. He has never been in politics, has never been a candidate before, and promises real business methods in managing the affairs of the state. Undoubtedly he is a capable man who has been successful, is thoroughly respected and is a solid, Christian citizen. That pretty well describes the kind of governor we ought to have.

The Review-Tribune has no fear in recommending Myers Cooper as the most logical gubernatorial choice on the ground that the state of Ohio needs a capable executive, schooled in the wide world of business affairs. Governor Donahey has certainly had no mistreatment in these columns. If he is re-elected, he may expect none. Praise and criticism will be unstinted according to the fairest possible analysis of his official conduct and methods. But, frankly, we believe the best interests of the state will be served by the election of Myers Cooper at the polls next Tuesday because, for one thing, we are sorely tired of politics, and we strongly urge the adoption of strict, honest, dollar-for-dollar business dealing in transacting the tremendously important affairs of Ohio. Let us, for a change, elect a governor on a pure platform of common-sense business administration, and then insist that he adhere to it strictly.

Man Wanted

Rosa Penselle, the American opera star, is advertising for an American husband. At least that is what it sounds like in a recent interview. Here, brethren, are the specifications:

"I don't want to marry anyone in my own profession." Evidently one artist in a family is enough. She doesn't want an artistic rival, but a man who would "admire her art." Which is one of the things husbands are for.

'A fine type of business man, or perhaps a great publisher or lawyer, would do." Tell that to the Rotary, Kiwanis and Lions clubs, and the bar and publishers' association.

She wants a man she "can trust and admire," preferably a blond. And most particularly, he must be a "big man." She is tired of little fellows.

Rosa says a woman ought to marry before 30, and so she is in a hurry.

Buried Treasure

Paul Oriakoski, a Pittsburgh convict, sentenced to death for killing two prison guards, goes to his death "bearing with him the secret of where $100,000 loot is hidden." The money was gained in bank robberies.

Myths will grow up around that treasure. It may be sought for by thousands of men in hundreds of places. More money may be spent in hunting for it than the treasure itself amounts to.

It may be another Captain Kidd affair, on a smaller scale and with less picturesque trimmings. But let people cherish their romance. It is doubtful whether the great Captain Kidd himself ever buried any more treasure than Oriakoski. Human imagination magnifies the fame of picturesque rogues as the years pass, and there is no lure more powerful than that of "buried treasure."

Personally speaking, one of the things we're glad we don't have to worry about is the queen's cigarets.

Another wise provision of nature. "More boys than girls will be born," says an astrologer. They'll be needed to compete with the girls.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—It is estimated New York spends five millions a year on press agency. This enormous expenditure ranges from the theatrical press agent who averages $200 a week to those super "merchants of glory" who ballyhoo corporations for $50,000 a year.

The circusey methods of giving stage ladies milk baths or putting toothless lions in hotel rooms as pets are not recognized any more. The calling has grown a trifle more dignified. City editors often recognize men who furnish honest facts just as they recognize other news sources.

A law protects newspapers from spurious "hippodroming." Every shrewd observer who depends on the public for patronage knows that the only sure results are from straight away paid advertisements. No reader is induced to buy a diamond ring from the proprietor of a shop who, for instance, is mentioned as giving $50,000 to a charity bazaar.

Newspapers realize the only value of self glorification is a sop to one's personal vanity and this has little cash value. And it is for this reason that press agency has not been entirely routed. A "staged" publicity stunt these days receives a ha-ha.

There has, however, grown up in the publicity field a number of purely puff journals, simulating names of more honest contemporaries, whose livlihood depends entirely upon a weakness of vanity in those they victimize.

The victim is read a glowing tribute of himself by the representative and is asked casually if he would like 500 or a thousand copies for friends. If he does not give a substantial order the writeup does not appear.

The majority of press agents are attached to the stage and movie fields. Stories about players are a matter of public interest and require no duplicity to have them printed.

Outside of Anna Held's milk ablution the hotsy-totsiest theatrical press stunt was paving the street in front of Mrs. Pat Campbell's hotel with tan bark on her visit here. This was to deaden the noise and save her nerves from the dreadful jangle. Such a stunt today would not net a line.

As a slight indication of wasted publicity efforts I find in the mail today mimeographed praise for a new manicure parlor, an antique shop, seven night clubs, a patented milk bottle, a dancing academy, a private bank and a riding school.

The three balls of the pawnshop are disappearing save on the Bowery. In uptown centers the pawnshop has more of the air of a private bank with glass windows stained black and a small brass door plate reading "Loans." There are no window displays of unredeemed pledges and the word "pawn" never appears.

I know of no men so patient as those fishermen who angle for human souls in rescue missions of the East Side. Day after day the "converted" stray from the path and return trembling and weak and in search of spiritual solace. The mission men are always ready for them with words of hope and confidence. To them no sheep is ever lost. The rewards indeed seem few but they never give up and it is for this reason no doubt that now and then they meet with success.

Two smart hotels in the upper Fashionable Fifties have lifted the ban on dogs. The managers said they often lost patronage they desired by enforcing the rule.

HASKINS' LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Farm Education or Legislation.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 28.—Farm relief legislation is a problem that will worry congress again this winter, and there is a growing group of national leaders who are beginning to doubt that it will ever be solved with anything approaching general satisfaction. These leaders are saying that no legislative panacea can be devised that will cure the ills and troubles of the American farmer, of which so much has been heard in recent years.

The fundamental problem of agriculture, they point out, is how to farm successfully and profitably, and they profess the belief that there is more hope for the farmer in education than in all the laws that could be enacted. Good farming will pay even under adverse conditions, it is contended, and legislation can not make good farmers; education can and does.

This argument is supported by the results that have attended the new Farm Radio Service of the United States Department of Agriculture. This service, intended to give farmers throughout the country the broad practical principles of successful agriculture and at the same time to aid them in meeting daily emergencies and in overcoming daily difficulties, was inaugurated in an experimental way early last spring. It was received enthusiastically from the outset, and there were widespread demands for its continuation and enlargement.

Accordingly more comprehensive programs were worked out for the present season. Broadcasting was begun on October 4, to be continued until May 20, next, and hundreds of thousands of farm families are being afforded every day educational advantages which they could never enjoy if it were not for the radio, which is now recognized as the greatest aid to education since the invention of the printing press. Managers of broadcasting stations are reporting that the features of the Farm Radio Service are proving the most popular programs which they put on the air from day to day, and enthusiastic fan letters are being received by the hundreds and thousands.

Letters Prove Value of Service.

These letters attest the practical educational value of the service. A typical one came from the head of a farm family in a western state. It said that he had never had a book, a magazine, or a newspaper in his home because he and his family never had a chance to read; they had to work too hard ever to take time to try to learn anything. But he had chanced to be in a neighbor's home for a midday meal when, while they were eating, the radio had given them fifteen minutes of the Department's noon farm flashes, and he had been told that there were even better programs at supper-time. He wanted to tell the department that he thought that was the greatest thing he had ever heard of. He had secured a receiving set and already had had more benefit out of it than from anything he'd ever had on the place, and he had some tolerable good machinery, too!

Another letter from a middle west farmer said that he and his family had been barely scratching a living out of a small farm, and that no matter how hard they worked it seemed that nothing ever went right. They heard of the Farm Radio Service and went to a neighbor's where they listened in three or four times a week. Almost from the beginning they began to learn why things had gone wrong with them— they had wrong ideas about crops, etc., and used wrong methods. He had corrected some of his mistakes and could see where he would get better results, and he knew he would learn a lot more before the winter was over.

There are four sections of the Farm Radio Service, the first being the noon farm flashes, a fifteen-minute, five-day a week program of interest-holding dialogue between a farm and an agricultural expert. The listener hears both ends of an intelligent, instructive conversation—questions and answers bearing on the most timely current farm problems, as well as small talk, humor, and gossip.

For instance, the farmer wants to know about the potato crop and prospective prices. He is told that the crop now figures about seven per cent above last season's very light production, but that with 26,000,000 bushels more than last year, and with the good crop of almost all other long-keeping vegetables, the price might be expected to run somewhat lower, unless serious and widespread trouble from late freezing or decay should alter the situation. Or the farmer may want to know how to poison rabbits that threaten to ruin his orchard, and he is told that strychnine will do the work and that the Department has a bulletin giving detailed information of the subject.

Farm Radio School.

Next comes the Farm Radio School, for 15 minutes broadcast, Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, in the evening, covering all phases of livestock, poultry, and dairy problems. There are 24 courses of eight lessons, each 7½ minutes in length, each lesson given as a monologue.

Every farmer, regularly enrolled, is a student in this great radio classroom where concise, timely lessons, which dovetail with the daily farm work, are presented interestingly by

In these modern times when the moving picture industry offers openings to those who screen well before the camera, this story loses something of its original force. Even so, it has its merits as showing how a naturally kind hearted man will strive to make the best of a fellow-being's shortcomings.

In a group of newspaper workers in Indianapolis the social imperfections of a certain unpopular individual were being discussed.

Logical Gubernatorial Choice

Political campaigns never become what you would call hot until they get close to voting time. The present one seems now to be warming up, not in the matter of bitter attacks, but in the public's interest in the candidates. The whole thing so far has been very pleasingly decent. There have been no personal jibes of any sort. Mr. Donahey goes about talking of what he has done, Mr. Cooper of what he expects to do, and that certainly is fair enough.

The Republican candidate, who comes right out of the world of business rather than politics, has made some rather interesting statements. It has been stated as fact—and public records were used as the source of the information—that the state of Ohio has consumed enough gasoline in a twelve-month period to travel 3,000,000 miles. We own more automobiles, many of them pleasure cars, than any state in the union. If that charge is true, Mr. Donahey should receive only the votes of those families for which he has provided limousines and gasoline. It it isn't true, the governor should leave not the slightest shadow of doubt about its falsity.

Politics, at its very best, is one of the greatest evils of the greatest nation on earth. It may be a necessary evil, but we doubt very much if it need to be so terribly evil. Imagine taxpayers throughout the entire state, scraping together hard-earned money to pay their fair share of the cost of government without the hope of owning an automobile—and there are some left who do not have them. If pleasure cars are bought out of state funds for political job-holders then we certainly have had enough of machine politics.

Cooper looks like a new deal in state affairs. He has never been in politics, has never been a candidate before, and promises real business methods in managing the affairs of the state. Undoubtedly he is a capable man who has been successful, is thoroughly respected and is a solid, Christian citizen. That pretty well describes the kind of governor we ought to have.

The Review-Tribune has no fear in recommending Myers Cooper as the most logical gubernatorial choice on the ground that the state of Ohio needs a capable executive, schooled in the wide world of business affairs. Governor Donahey has certainly had no mistreatment in these columns. If he is re-elected, he may expect none. Praise and criticism will be unstinted according to the fairest possible analysis of his official conduct and methods. But, frankly, we believe the best interests of the state will be served by the election of Myers Cooper at the polls next Tuesday because, for one thing, we are sorely tired of politics, and we strongly urge the adoption of strict, honest, dollar-for-dollar business dealing in transacting the tremendously important affairs of Ohio. Let us, for a change, elect a governor on a pure platform of common-sense business administration, and then insist that he adhere to it strictly.

Man Wanted

Rosa Penselle, the American opera star, is advertising for an American husband. At least that is what it sounds like in a recent interview. Here, brethren, are the specifications:

"I don't want to marry anyone in my own profession." Evidently one artist in a family is enough. She doesn't want an artistic rival, but a man who would "admire her art." Which is one of the things husbands are for.

'A fine type of business man, or perhaps a great publisher or lawyer, would do." Tell that to the Rotary, Kiwanis and Lions clubs, and the bar and publishers' associatian.

Logical Gubernatorial Choice

Political campaigns never become what you would call hot until they get close to voting time. The present one seems now to be warming up, not in the matter of bitter attacks, but in the public's interest in the candidates. The whole thing so far has been very pleasingly decent. There have been no personal jibes of any sort. Mr. Donahey goes about talking of what he has done, Mr. Cooper of what he expects to do, and that certainly is fair enough.

The Republican candidate, who comes right out of the world of business rather than politics, has made some rather interesting statements. It has been stated as fact—and public records were used as the source of the information—that the state of Ohio has consumed enough gasoline in a twelve-month period to travel 3,000,000 miles. We own more automobiles, many of them pleasure cars, than any state in the union. If that charge is true, Mr. Donahey should receive only the votes of those families for which he has provided limousines and gasoline. It it isn't true, the governor should leave not the slightest shadow of doubt about its falsity.

Politics, at its very best, is one of the greatest evils of the greatest nation on earth. It may be a necessary evil, but we doubt very much if it need to be so terribly evil. Imagine taxpayers throughout the entire state, scraping together hard-earned money to pay their fair share of the cost of government without the hope of owning an automobile—and there are some left who do not have them. If pleasure cars are bought out of state funds for political job-holders then we certainly have had enough of machine politics.

Cooper looks like a new deal in state affairs. He has never been in politics, has never been a candidate before, and promises real business methods in managing the affairs of the state. Undoubtedly he is a capable man who has been successful, is thoroughly respected and is a solid, Christian citizen. That pretty well describes the kind of governor we ought to have.

The Review-Tribune has no fear in recommending Myers Cooper as the most logical gubernatorial choice on the ground that the state of Ohio needs a capable executive, schooled in the wide world of business affairs. Governor Donahey has certainly had no mistreatment in these columns. If he is re-elected, he may expect none. Praise and criticism will be unstinted according to the fairest possible analysis of his official conduct and methods. But, frankly, we believe the best interests of the state will be served by the election of Myers Cooper at the polls next Tuesday because, for one thing, we are sorely tired of politics, and we strongly urge the adoption of strict, honest, dollar-for-dollar business dealing in transacting the tremendously important affairs of Ohio. Let us, for a change, elect a governor on a pure platform of common-sense business administration, and then insist that he adhere to it strictly.

Man Wanted

Rosa Penselle, the American opera star, is advertising for an American husband. At least that is what it sounds like in a recent interview. Here, brethren, are the specifications:

"I don't want to marry anyone in my own profession." Evidently one artist in a family is enough. She doesn't want an artistic rival, but a man who would "admire her art." Which is one of the things husbands are for.

'A fine type of business man, or perhaps a great publisher or lawyer, would do." Tell that to the Rotary, Kiwanis and Lions clubs, and the bar and publishers' associatian.

She wants a man she "can trust and admire," preferably a blond. And most particularly, he must be a "big man." She is tired of little fellows.

Rosa says a woman ought to marry before 30, and so she is in a hurry.

Buried Treasure

Paul Oriakoski, a Pittsburgh convict, sentenced to death for kiling two prison guards, goes to his death "bearing with him the secret of where $100,000 loot is hidden." The money was gained in bank robberies.

Myths will grow up around that treasure. It may be sought for by thousands of men in hundreds of places. More money may be spent in hunting for it than the treasure itself amounts to.

It may be another Captain Kidd affair, on a smaller scale and with less picturesque trimmings. But let people cherish their romance. It is doubtful whether the great Captain Kidd himself ever buried any more treasure than Oriakoski. Human imagination magnifies the fame of picturesque rogues as the years pass, and there is no lure more powerful than that of "buried treasure."

Personally speaking, one of the things we're glad we don't have to worry about is the queen's cigarets.

Another wise provision of nature. "More boys than girls will be born," says an astrologer. They'll be needed to compete with the girls.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—It is estimated New York spends five millions a year on press agency. This enormous expenditure ranges from the theatrical press agent who averages $200 a week to those super "merchants of glory" who ballyhoo corporations for $50,000 a year.

The circusey methods of giving stage ladies milk baths or putting toothless lions in hotel rooms as pets are not recognized any more. The calling has grown a trifle more dignified. City editors often recognize men who furnish honest facts just as they recognize other news sources.

A law protects newspapers from spurious "hippodroming." Every shrewd observer who depends on the public for patronage knows that the only sure results are from straight away paid advertisements. No reader is induced to buy a diamond ring from the proprietor of a shop who, for instance, is mentioned as giving $50,000 to a charity bazaar.

Newspapers realize the only value of self glorification is a sop to one's personal vanity and this has little cash value. And it is for this reason that press agency has not been entirely routed. A "staged" publicity stunt these days receives a ha-ha.

There has, however, grown up in the publicity field a number of purely puff journals, simulating names of more honest contemporaries, whose livlihood depends entirely upon a weakness of vanity in those they victimize.

The victim is read a glowing tribute of himself by the representative and is asked casually if he would like 500 or a thousand copies for friends. If he does not give a substantial order the writeup does not appear.

The majority of press agents are attached to the stage and movie fields. Stories about players are a matter of public interest and require no duplicity to have them printed.

Outside of Anna Held's milk ablution the hotsy-totsiest theatrical press stunt was paving the street in front of Mrs. Pat Campbell's hotel with tan bark on her visit here. This was to deaden the noise and save her nerves from the dreadful jangle. Such a stunt today would not net a line.

As a slight indication of wasted publicity efforts I find in the mail today mimeographed praise for a new manicure parlor, an antique shop, seven night clubs, a patented milk bottle, a dancing academy, a private bank and a riding school.

The three balls of the pawnshop are disappearing save on the Bowery. In uptown centers the pawnshop has more of the air of a private bank with glass windows stained black and a small brass door plate reading "Loans." There are no window displays of unredeemed pledges and the word "pawn" never appears.

I know of no men so patient as those fishermen who angle for human souls in rescue missions of the East Side. Day after day the "converted" stray from the path and return trembling and weak and in search of spiritual solace. The mission men are always ready for them with words of hope and confidence. To them no sheep is ever lost. The rewards indeed seem few but they never give up and it is for this reason no doubt that now and then they meet with success.

Two smart hotels in the upper Fashionable Fifties have lifted the ban on dogs. The managers said they often lost patronage they desired by enforcing the rule.

HASKINS' LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Farm Education or Legislation.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 28.—Farm relief lefislation is a problem that will worry congress again this winter, and there is a growing group of national leaders who are beginning to doubt that it will ever be solved with anything approaching general satisfaction. These leaders are saying that no legislative panacea can be devised that will cure the ills and troubles of the American farmer, of which so much has been heard in recent years.

The fundamental problem of agriculture, they point out, is how to farm successfully and profitably, and they profess the belief that there is more hope for the farmer in education than in all the laws that could be enacted. Good farming will pay even under adverse conditions, it is contended, and legislation can not make good farmers; education can and does.

This argument is supported by the results that have attended the new Farm Radio Service of the United States Department of Agriculture. This service, intended to give farmers throughout the country the broad practical principles of successful agriculture and at the same time to aid them in meeting daily emergencies and in overcoming daily difficulties, was inaugurated in an experimental way early last spring. It was received enthusiastically from the outset, and there were widespread demands for its continuation and enlargement.

Accordingly more comprehensive programs were worked out for the present season. Broadcasting was begun on October 4, to be continued until May 20, next, and hundreds of thousands of farm families are being afforded every day educational advantages which they could never enjoy if it were not for the radio, which is now recognized as the greatest aid to education since the invention of the printing press. Managers of broadcasting stations are reporting that the features of the Farm Radio Service are proving the most popular programs which they put on the air from day to day, and enthusiastic fan letters are being received by the hundreds and thousands.

Letters Prove Value of Service.

These letters attest the practical educational value of the service. A typical one came from the head of a farm family in a western state. It said that he had never had a book, a magazine, or a newspaper in his home because he and his family never had a chance to read; they had to work too hard ever to take time to try to learn anything. But he had chanced to be in a neighbor's home for a midday meal when, while they were eating, the radio had given them fifteen minutes of the Department's noon farm flashes, and he had been told that there were even better programs at supper-time. He wanted to tell the department that he thought that was the greatest thing he had ever heard of. He had secured a receiving set and already had had more benefit out of it than from anything he'd ever had on the place, and he had some tolerable good machinery, too!

Another letter from a middle west farmer said that he and his family had been barely scratching a living out of a small farm, and that no matter how hard they worked it seemed that nothing ever went right. They heard of the Farm Radio Service and went to a neighbor's where they listened in three or four times a week. Almost from the beginning they began to learn why things had gone wrong with them— they had wrong ideas about crops, etc., and used wrong methods. He had corrected some of his mistakes and could see where he would get better results, and he knew he would learn a lot more before the winter was over.

There are four sections of the Farm Radio Service, the first being the noon farm flashes, a fifteen-minute, five-day a week program of interest-holding dialogue between a farm and an agricultural expert. The listener hears both ends of an intelligent, instructive conversation—questions and answers bearing on the most timely current farm problems, as well as small talk, humor, and gossip.

For instance, the farmer wants to know about the potato crop and prospective prices. He is told that the crop now figures about seven per cent above last season's very light production, but that with 26,000,000 bushels more than last year, and with the good crop of almost all other long-keeping vegetables, the price might be expected to run somewhat lower, unless serious and widespread trouble from late freezing or decay should alter the situation. Or the farmer may want to know how to poison rabbits that threaten to ruin his orchard, and he is told that strychnine will do the work and that the Department has a bulletin giving detailed information of the subject.

Farm Radio School.

Next comes the Farm Radio School, for 15 minutes broadcast, Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, in the evening, covering all phases of livestock, poultry, and dairy problems. There are 24 courses of eight lessons, each 7½ minutes in length, each lesson given as a monologue.

My Favorite Stories

THE SOLE VIRTUE OF THE ABSENTEE

In these modern times when the moving picture industry offers openings to those who screen well before the camera, this story loses something of its original force. Even so, it has its merits as showing how a naturally kind hearted man will strive to make the best of a fellow-being's shortcomings.

In a group of newspaper workers in Indianapolis the social imperfections of a certain unpopular individual were being discussed.

"He's an infernal fop," said one critic. "Put him in front of a mirror and he's perfectly happy."

"Conceited puppy," said a second.

"Deserted his wife and children, I'm told."

"I never heard anybody who had a good word for him."

"That's because he hasn't any redeeming qualities," stated another, summing up the collective judgment of the party. "What could anybody say in his favor?"

Kin Hubbard, the Hoosier humorist, who up until this point had taken no part in the clinic, now spoke:

"Well," said Kin, gently, "you must concede that he takes a good photograph."

CONTINUING PROSPERITY OR INDUSTRIAL CHAOS?

THE CONTRAST

Under a "Competitive Tariff."	Under the Coolidge Tariff.
Wages in Ohio $1.50 to $1.75 for a 9 or 10 hour day.	More men employed.
27 applicants in Cleveland for every position.	Higher Wages.
300,000 men out of work in Ohio.	Greater Prosperity for the average man than was ever before attained in any country in the world's history.

DO YOU WISH THE RETURN OF A "COMPETITIVE" TARIFF, SUCH AS BROUGHT THE INTOLERABLE CONDITIONS OF 1913-14, OR A CONTINUANCE OF THE CONDITIONS OF PROSPERITY EXISTING TODAY?

THIS IS THE QUESTION FACING THE VOTERS OF OHIO WHO SELECT A UNITED STATES SENATOR ON TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 2nd,

THE CONTRAST

AS A MEMBER OF THE SENATE:

The Democratic candidate voted 400 times against protection for the American workingman. Only on potash and peanuts, neither of which are produced in Ohio did he ever vote for protection for American labor and American standards of living. His party pledges him now to vote again as he did before, and in his party the caucus rules regardless of personal views.	Senator Frank B. Willis, Candidate for re-election, voted every time for the protection of American industry and American standards of life. He is pledged, both personally and by his party to continue this policy.

Let us not have a repetition of the Conditions when only 40% of the people of Ohio were working or had any chance to work.

THESE ARE THE BIG ISSUES IN THE SENATORIAL FIGHT:

Shall American Industry be protected from the 16 cent per day labor of Europe?

Shall the policies of President Coolidge be Sustained?

SENATOR FRANK B. WILLIS HAS BEEN AND IS A STAUNCH SUPPORTER of the policies of the President, under which the people of the United States have enjoyed for four years a prosperity unparalleled in the world's history. No President can achieve, unless the Congress sustains him. Ohio voted for Coolidge 700,000 strong. Let us now not tie his hands by electing a man who's every vote, judged by his past record, would be cast against the Presidential policies.

Senator Willis has voted three times for taxation reduction. His opponent, despite Ohio's 500,000 vote for Harding, voted "No" on the Harding taxation reduction bill of 1921.

The fight successfully waged by Senator Willis against the "Chicago Water Steal" is one of the greatest in recent Senatorial history, and of the utmost importance to the industrial life of Ohio.

Chairman of a most important Senate Committee, a member of three more big committees, Senator Willis, as recently stated by one of the country's great newspapers, "rightfully takes his place beside such illustrious Republican predecessors as John Sherman, Marcus A. Hanna, Joseph B. Foraker, Theodore E. Burton, and Warren G. Harding."

IF YOU BELIEVE IN OHIO AND THE NATION, IF YOU WISH TO CONTINUE THE ABUNDANT PROSPERITY YOU NOW ENJOY, VOTE AGAINST THE RETURN OF A "COMPETITIVE" TARIFF AND WAGE SCALES BELOW THE AMERICAN STANDARD OF LIVING. VOTE FOR A CONTINUANCE OF GREAT AMERICAN POLICIES BY HELPING TO RE-ELECT FRANK B. WILLIS AS UNITED STATES SENATOR ON NOVEMBER 2nd.

YOU CAN COUNT ON WILLIS!

CONTINUING PROSPERITY OR INDUSTRIAL CHAOS?

THE CONTRAST

1913-14	1926
Under a "Competitive Tariff." Wages in Ohio $1.50 to $1.75 for a 9 or 10 hour day. 27 applicants in Cleveland for every position. 300,000 men out of work in Ohio.	Under the Coolidge Tariff. More men employed. Higher Wages. Greater Prosperity for the average man than was ever before attained in any country in the world's history.

DO YOU WISH THE RETURN OF A "COMPETITIVE" TARIFF, SUCH AS BROUGHT THE INTOLERABLE CONDITIONS OF 1913-14, OR A CONTINUANCE OF THE CONDITIONS OF PROSPERITY EXISTING TODAY?

THIS IS THE QUESTION FACING THE VOTERS OF OHIO WHO SELECT A UNITED STATES SENATOR ON TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 2nd,

THE CONTRAST

AS A MEMBER OF THE SENATE:

The Democratic candidate voted 400 times against protection for the American workingman. Only on potash and peanuts, neither of which are produced in Ohio did he ever vote for protection for American labor and American standards of living. His party pledges him now to vote again as he did before, and in his party the caucus rules regardless of personal views.	Senator Frank B. Willis, Candidate for re-election, voted every time for the protection of American industry and American standards of life. He is pledged, both personally and by his party to continue this policy.

Let us not have a repetition of the Conditions when only 40% of the people of Ohio were working or had any chance to work.

THESE ARE THE BIG ISSUES IN THE SENATORIAL FIGHT:

Shall American Industry be protected from the $6 cent per day labor of Europe?

Shall the policies of President Coolidge be Sustained?

SENATOR FRANK B. WILLIS HAS BEEN AND IS A STAUNCH SUPPORTER of the policies of the President, under which the people of the United States have enjoyed for four years a prosperity unparalleled in the world's history. No President can achieve, unless the Congress sustains him. Ohio voted for Coolidge 700,000 strong. Let us now not tie his hands by electing a man who's every vote, judged by his past record, would be cast against the Presidential policies.

Senator Willis has voted three times for taxation reduction. His opponent, despite Ohio's 500,000 vote for Harding, voted "No" on the Harding taxation reduction bill of 1921.

The fight successfully waged by Senator Willis against the "Chicago Water Steal" is one of the greatest in recent Senatorial history, and of the utmost importance to the industrial life of Ohio.

Chairman of a most important Senate Committee, a member of three more big committees, Senator Willis, as recently stated by one of the country's great newspapers, "rightfully takes his place beside such illustrious Republican predecessors as John Sherman, Marcus A. Hanna, Joseph B. Foraker, Theodore E. Burton, and Warren G. Harding."

IF YOU BELIEVE IN OHIO AND THE NATION, IF YOU WISH TO CONTINUE THE ABUNDANT PROSPERITY YOU NOW ENJOY, VOTE AGAINST THE RETURN OF A "COMPETITIVE" TARIFF AND WAGE SCALES BELOW THE AMERICAN STANDARD OF LIVING. VOTE FOR A CONTINUANCE OF GREAT AMERICAN POLICIES BY HELPING TO RE-ELECT FRANK B. WILLIS AS UNITED STATES SENATOR ON NOVEMBER 2nd.

YOU CAN COUNT ON WILLIS!

COSTIVE BOWELS; HEADACHE, COLDS TAKE "CASCARETS"

No Headache, Sour Stomach, Bad Cold or Constipation by morning

Furred Tongue, Bad Colds, Indigestion, Sallow Skin and Miserable Headaches come from a torpid liver and clogged bowels, which cause your stomach to become filled with undigested food, which sours and ferments like garbage in a swill barrel. That's the first step to untold misery—indigestion, foul gases, bad breath, yellow skin, mental fears, everything that is horrible and nauseating. A Cascaret tonight will give your constipated bowels a thorough cleansing and straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist will keep you feeling good for months. Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then to keep their stomach, liver and bowels regulated, and never know a miserable moment. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good, gentle cleansing, too.

xperts. Students are given the results of Uncle Sam's recent investigations and recommendations which ay be applied to their business. aboratory assignments are given that all for putting into practice the lessons taught. Enrolled students are also furnished printed copies of the radio talks and a file of bulletins, and when they complete a course satisfactorily they are awarded certificates signed by the secretary of agriculture and respective chiefs of the bureaus sponsoring the courses.

The third section of the service is known as Housekeepers' Chat, an informal five-day a week fifteen-minute program featuring Backyard Gossip, Questions Women Are Asking, and What Shall We Have for Dinner, contributed by the Bureau of Home Economics. It covers answers to all questions of general interest to housewives; a suggestion as to what to cook expressed in terms of menus for the food requirements of an average family, and, last, an entertaining discussion of such important household subjects as nutrition, clothing, health, home decorating, and the like.

Special Farm Features, t ten-minute varied program for each week day, constitutes the final division of the service. Monday there is "The Weekly Letter to Dad," in which a farmer boy at college gives his family some of the high lights of his studies of agriculture which he believes might well be put into practice on the old home place. Tuesday comes "Autobiographies of Infamous Bugs and Rodents." The Weather Man talks on Wednesday. Thursday is given over to the Primer for Town Farmers." On Friday there is "An Inter-view with the Agricultural Economist" on such subjects as cooperative marketing, price trends, agricultural finance, warehousing, and farm management, and on Saturday the farmers get a summary of the important news items of the week that are of especial interest to them.

The Farm Radio Service is directed by Sam Pickard, whose official title is Chief of Radio, U. S. Department of Agriculture. He says he realizes he has a big job, and he solicits assistance in the way of questions and suggestions. He even welcomes complaints that are constructive, and although he does not say so, it may be mentioned that a friendly boost now and then is a big help in almost any line of endeavor.

TWO ESCAPE FROM WELLSVILLE DETENTION ROOM

HINT OUTSIDE AID IN FLIGHT OF PRISONERS

Dory Clutter and Raymond Hertzen Make Getaway.

DRY LAW CASES

Clutter Was Awaiting Hearing; Companion Had Been Fined.

Dory Clutter, of McQueen's Run hollow, and Raymond Hertzen, whose habitat until recently was a houseboat below Boring's Crossing, escaped from the detention room in Wellsville city hall building Tuesday night, it developed today. Outside aid was given the prisoners, police believe.

Both Clutter and Hertzen made their getaway without leaving clues. Police are frankly baffled by the circumstances surrounding the escape.

There are but two means of egress from the room, one by a window overlooking Fifth street and the other, the door.

A heavy iron guard over the window bore evidence of having been tampered with, but apparently was not moved sufficiently to permit the prisoners to escape if they had gone through the window, they would have been forced either to crawl along a narrow ledge to an adjoining window into the lavatory, or grab a nearby rain spout and slide to the pavement. The spout did not show any marks and there was no visible indication that the lavatory route had been used.

The key to the detention room was hanging on the wall, along with the other cell keys, just inside the door of police headquarters.

Clutter was arrested by police Monday on a charge of manufacturing liquor. His case had not been disposed of. Hertzen had been fined on a charge of transporting liquor approximately two weeks ago and had not been able to pay.

EDUCATION OF EACH STUDENT COSTING $58.90

Per Capita Rate Here Lower Than in Many Cities.

AVERAGE IS $75

Cuyahoga County Paying $114 for Each Pupil.

Wellsville taxpayers are paying a rate of $58.90 a year, under existing conditions, for the education of each child in the local public school, according to statistics compiled by the local board of education in its campaign for the approval of a four-mill levy at the polls next Tuesday.

While there is no definite standard of education costs, which vary with local conditions, the board has ascertained that the people of Cuyahoga county are expending $146 annually for every child enrolled in the public schools; the people of Franklin county are expending annually $108 per capita and $114 is deemed necessary in Hamilton county.

These figures, the board explains, are taken from progressive communities that feel a narrow curriculum of studies will not meet the demands of life in a complex civilization.

The average cost, per pupil, in the entire state, it is found, is $75 per capita.

Answering charges made in some instances that teachers' salaries should be reduced, the board points out that the hod carrier's daily wage is higher than that of the teacher's.

Figures produced by the board to show the comparative cost of public and private education show that, in the best of private schools, the tuition and board ranges from $750 to $1,000 per year. The man with three children in school, points out the board, would necessarily have to spend at least $2,000 annually if he wanted his children educated.

TWO ESCAPE FROM WELLSVILLE DETENTION ROOM

HINT OUTSIDE AID IN FLIGHT OF PRISONERS

DRY LAW CASES

Clutter Was Awaiting Hearing; Companion Had Been Fined.

Dory Clutter, of McQueen's Run hollow, and Raymond Hertzen, whose habitat until recently was a houseboat below Boring's Crossing, escaped from the detention room in Wellsville city hall building Tuesday night, it developed today. Outside aid was given the prisoners, police believe.

Both Clutter and Hertzen made their getaway without leaving clues. Police are frankly baffled by the circumstances surrounding the escape.

There are but two means of egress from the room, one by a window overlooking Fifth street and the other, the door.

A heavy iron guard over the window bore evidence of having been tampered with, but apparently was not moved sufficiently to permit the prisoners to escape. If they had gone through the window, they would have been forced either to crawl along a narrow ledge to an adjoining window into the lavatory, or grab a nearby rain spout and slide to the pavement. The spout did not show any marks and there was no visible indication that the lavatory route had been used.

The key to the detention room was hanging on the wall, along with the other cell keys, just inside the door of police headquarters.

Clutter was arrested by police Monday on a charge of manufacturing liquor. His case had not been disposed of. Hertzen had been fined on a charge of transporting liquor approximately two weeks ago and had not been able to pay.

EDUCATION OF EACH STUDENT COSTING $58.90

Per Capita Rate Here Lower Than in Many Cities.

AVERAGE IS $75

Cuyahoga County Paying $114 for Each Pupil.

Wellsville taxpayers are paying a rate of $58.90 a year, under existing conditions, for the education of each child in the local public school, according to statistics compiled by the local board of education in its campaign for the approval of a four-mill levy at the polls next Tuesday.

While there is no definite standard of education costs, which vary with local conditions, the board has ascertained that the people of Cuyahoga county are expending $146 annually for every child enrolled in the public schools; the people of Franklin county are expending annually $108 per capita and $114 is deemed necessary in Hamilton county.

These figures, the board explains, are taken from progressive communities that feel a narrow curriculum of studies will not meet the demands of life in a complex civilization.

The average cost, per pupil, in the entire state, it is found, is $75 per capita.

Answering charges made in some instances that teachers' salaries should be reduced, the board points out that the hod carrier's daily wage is higher than that of the teacher's.

Figures produced by the board to show the comparative cost of public and private education show that, in the best of private schools, the tuition and board ranges from $750 to $1,000 per year. The man with three children in school, points out the board, would necessarily have to spend at least $2,000 annually if he wanted his children educated.

POLITICAL FOES FLAYED BY BOND

Suspended State Auditor Now Under Charges Breaks Silence.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Oct. 28.—In a scathing denunciation of personal enemies who, he said, sought to ruin him, John C. Bond, suspended state auditor, today charged that he was being made a political scapegoat on the eve of the West Virginia elections.

Bond, who filed a petition in bankruptcy here yesterday while a grand jury was considering evidence presented against him by Governor Howard Gore to determine whether criminal charges are to be filed, broke his silence for the first time since his name became linked with a political scandal here.

The deposed official declared that he had sought bankruptcy to protect his creditors after judgments were threatened against him on notes which he had endorsed.

Bond predicted that he would be indicted by the grand jury, "Because my enemies seek to make a showing."

POLITICAL FOES FLAYED BY BOND

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Oct. 28.—In a scathing denunciation of personal enemies who, he said, sought to ruin him, John C. Bond, suspended state auditor, today charged that he was being made a political scapegoat on the eve of the West Virginia elections.

Bond, who filed a petition in bankruptcy here yesterday while a grand jury was considering evidence presented against him by Governor Howard Gore to determine whether criminal charges are to be filed, broke his silence for the first time since his name became linked with a political scandal here.

"The gang that has been fighting me first brought charges which caused the governor to remove me from office," Bond declared. "Now they would ruin me financially by making me defendant in a criminal case on the eve of election."

The deposed official declared that he had sought bankruptcy to protect his creditors after judgments were threatened against him on notes which he had endorsed.

Bond predicted that he would be indicted by the grand jury, "Because my enemies seek to make a showing."

STATE EDUCATOR BOOST SCHOOLS

The highest standard in instruction and scholarship is maintained in the counties of the northern panhandle of West Virginia, according to Robert Clarke, supervisor of teachers training of the state department of education.

The northern counties of the state were foremost in securing teachers of advanced ranking.

The state supervisor of teachers training believes that the best results are obtained in the counties which have been administered for period of years by the same men. His opinion is that a change in school administration is liable to prove harmful to school affairs, and for this reason advocates restraining school officials for long periods wherever possible.

GOSPEL POWER IS STRESSED BY EVANGELIST

Rev. Mel Morris Hits Man Ashamed of Religion.

PRAYER SERVICE

Maryland Pastor is Speaker at Baptist Church Meet.

Deprecating the tendency of many Christians to be seemingly ashamed of their religious convictions, Rev. Mel Morris eloquently stressed the need of constant loyalty to the bulwarks of their profession at the Baptist church service last evening. His subject was "Shame-faced Religion."

When worldly men about you belittle your belief or speak skeptically about it what do you do?" he asked. "Do you defend the basis of your spiritual activity or do you simply ignore the subject? I wonder if Jesus Christ is not ashamed at times of our defense of Him.

Following the sermon by Rev. Mr Morris, Marion Ball, accompanying singer, sang "The Name of Jesus is So Sweet." In the preliminary song service he sang "The End of the Road," and, with Mrs. Rev. A. H. O'Brien, "Nothing Between My Love and My Saviour.' Later, also by request of Rev. Mr. O'Brien, he repeated the solo, "The Old Fashioned Meeting." A duet by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Chilton, "Only a Sinner," concluded the pre-sermon musical program.

The invocation was made by Harvey Pickens, a layman of the church.

Announcement was made of two prayer services to precede tonight's service, one in the auditorium for the members of the congregation and the other in the class room by the board of deacons. Both will begin at 7 o'clock.

Paul's assertions to the Romans: 'I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ for it is the power of salvation to every one who believeth," formed Rev. Mr. Morris' text.

"The word gospel is one of the first words used in the New Testament," he said. "It heads the introductory statements of Mathew, Mark, Luke and John. All harmonize without contradiction. They form not four, but one gospel.

"The gospel was referred to in the final message of Christ before he ascended into heaven following His resurrection when He commanded: 'Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature.'

"And the word gospel really means dynamite. It isthus the dynamite of God, a power able to save sinners into the uttermost.

"We have great power in the world now, that which causes ships to fly, others to move under sea, waves to scintillate in the air and carry speech to every clime on earth. Great has been scientific and engineering progress in recent years. But outstanding as those accomplishments are none has the capacity to save the human soul from its sin. Only the gospel, the glad tidings initiated by Jesus Christ and felt so strongly by Paul that he preached it can do that."

"And this power of which Paul, once feeling it, was never thereafter ashamed, came to us by the spilling of blood under the cross. I love that blood for what it has done for me, for mankind everywhere in the past and for what it is destined to do in making every knee ultimely bend to Him. It [illegible] justice-making power. I know scoffers deny this assertion and unbelievers ridicule similar statements but just the same this gospel of Jesus Christ remains what it has always been—the Alpha and the Omega, the beginning and the end, a Calvary as fresh now as when drawn from Immanuel's veins.

"Stephen Halcomb, a gambler, fatally wounded a friend who accused him of cheating. Acquitted in court he failed to find peace of mind. Succumbing to prayer he found surcease in the blood of Jesus Christ, the gospel, functioning, cleansed, washed and redeemed him."

Distress Call Picked Up at Coastal Station.

NEW YORK, Oct. 28. — The Peruvian submarines, R-1 and R-2, reported seriously disabled 130 miles off Cape May, N. J., did not send out an S. O. S. call last night and are in no danger of sinking, naval communications reported this morning. The R-1, carrying a crew of 22, accompanied by her sister ship with a crew of 21, left Newport, R. I., last Tuesday for Peru.

The distress call picked up at various coastal stations last night apparently was actuated by the fact that the R-2's engine was temporarily disabled and that she was being towed by her sister ship, the R-1 informed naval communications. The R-1 said the R-2 was in no danger and that her disabled engine was being repaired by the crew.

The S. O. S. call that the R-1 was in distress was believed to have been sent by the steamer Veendijk. The revenue cutters Gresham, Hammond and Seneca were standing by the submarine this morning after a quick dash out to sea, according to reports received at the coast guard base at Cape May, N. J.

Although the S. O. S. call was received at Boston and Philadelphia, the Cape May coast guard station and naval communications here did not pick it up. The message read:

"S. O. S. Peruvian R-1 with brake engines, latitude 38:24, longitude 71:20. Sinking. Make every effort to tow. S. O. S."

A report that one of the submarines was sinking was dispelled when the R-1 sent a wireless asking for radio compass bearings, and at 6 o'clock this morning naval communications characterized the S O. S. call as a "fluke."

Receipt of the S. O S. call last evening resulted in a general suspension of radio broadcasting from 6:35 to 7:57 p. m.

Paris Denies Report

Queen Marie, Princess Ileana and Prince Nicolas awakened in excellent spirits. The prince, usually nervously bored, wore a smile as broad as the "wide open spaces" ahead of him. His youthful energy smothered beneath a never-ending wave of formal entertainments, the potential Heir to the Roumanian throne had his fling in Toronto and was happy. It was not much of a fling, merely an escape from the worshipping multitude to visit places and things he wanted to see—alone, or nearly so.

"I am tired of high hats," exploded the prince. "I have seen the best tables in the United States and Canada but nothing else."

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—For the first time in transportation history the volume of weekly freight traffic on American railroads exceeded 1,000,000 cars, according to the Railway association's report for October 16, issued today. This was the most important factor in the financial district in the early trading, causing further retreat of the bears in the speculative favorites.

The stock market was buoyant in the first hour, but only in isolated cases were price guns more than a point or two. Shorts in U. S. Steel and General Motors paid about a point more for stock than they could have purchased it for yesterday afternoon. On the other hand there were some conspicuous weak spots, both the railroad and industrial groups, Hudson Motors being the outstanding example in the latter group.

Wall Street was disposed to look for some more favorable announcements from the directors' meetings of important corporations today, including Bethlehem Steel, which is believed to be on the threshold of dividend resumption. Consolidated Gas of New York, and household products. Thus far this week the record has been excellent in the matter of dividend increases. Commodity markets were steady in the early trading and call money unchanged at 4½ per cent.

The market drifted into a reactionary trend in the second hour. Traders were ready to take profits on stocks bought yesterday and professionals to renew short selling in anticipation of a dull market over election day. Dupont, New York, graduating from the curb, was in good demand around 162, while cast iron pipe, General Electric and American Can reached slightly higher price levels in active trading. Oils were firm, coppers and sugars steady.

ELEANOR MILLS' BODY EXHUMED

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Oct. 28.—The coffin containing the body of Mrs. Eleanor Mills, who was murdered four years ago with the Rev. Edward W. Hall, was removed from its grave this afternoon. An autopsy will be performed later in the day to determine how the fatal bullets entered the slain woman's head, and whether her tongue was cut out, as has been reported.

Royal Mounted Police Band Comes to Ceramic Theatre

The Royal Northwest Mounted Police band of Canada, a 12-man organization, attired in striking red coated uniforms, will appear as a special attraction with the motion picture hit, "Laddie," at the Ceramic theatre today, tomorrow and Saturday.

The name of Gene Stratton-Porter, for years the most widely read novelist of this or any other generation, is enough to insure the worth of a motion picture, basing that criterion on "The Girl of the Limberlost" and "The Keeper of the Bees." When, added to that name, a sterling cast enacts the roles and the clever direction of J. Lee Meehan, the late novelist's son-in-law makes the story stand out, the acme of entertainment is reached.

Such a picture is "Laddie." It is heralded as the most absorbing production F. B. O. has ever released.

Little Gene Stratton, who created such a sensation in "The Keeper of the Bees," again has an important role in the cast. The granddaughter of the celebrated author takes the part of "Little Sister," and repeats her triumph with accrued interest. John Bowers does splendidly in the titular role, while Bess Flowers, David Torrence, Eugenia Gilbert, Neil Neely, Fanny Midgely, Arthur Clayton and John Fox, Jr., are all fine in the characters assigned to them.

VOTE STRAIGHT G. O. P. TICKET, URGES MRS. HALLIE Q. BROWN

Former Chautauqua Entertainer Makes Address at Colored Women's Republican Club Rally Here.

Electors were urged to "vote the straight Republican ticket" at next Tuesday's election by Mrs. Hallie Q. Brown, former chautauqua entertainer and a member of the state Republican speakers' bureau, in an address at G. O. P. headquarters in the Carmarda garage building, West Fifth street, last night. The rally, which was under the auspices of the Colored Women's Republican club, was largely attended.

Mrs. Mae Joseph, president of the East Liverpool Women's Republican club, presided. Mrs. Brown was introduced by Mrs. Ila Marshall Cronin. At the conclusion of the address, Mrs. Maude Good recited a poem of her own composition, "Ethiopia's Plea," written shortly after the signing of the Armistice.

Mrs. Joseph, one of the captains of the organization, urging ratification of the proposed 2.3 mill school levy, voiced a plea for support of the proposal at the polls. Mayor Ralph Benedum asked approval of the proposed $225,000 municipal building bond issue. Councilman George Hughes accompanied the mayor to the meeting.

Attorney W. H. Vodrey and Mrs. Mary Vodrey Nease also spoke briefly, urging that every one vote at Tuesday's election.

Mrs. Brown left last evening for Springfield, where she will speak at a Republican rally tonight.

McDermott Silent

Court Will Hear Motion.

Charging that refusal to admit him to McDermott's cell is a violation of both state and federal constitutional provisions guaranteeing the defendant a fair trial, Mills asserted that unless the defense attorneys are permitted to talk with McDermott they will be unable to prepare their case for November 8, the date set for the trial of Mazer.

Prediction of defeat of the motion by Judge Agler who overruled Mills' motion, presented Tuesday, that he be permitted to see McDermott because the latter so desired, was freely made by Canton attorneys.

Filing of this motion marked the fifth attempt instigated by defense attorneys to gain access to witnesses, held incommunicado by the prosecution.

Slater and McClintock will question McDermott again sometime again today, they announced.

Find Cleveland Haven.

Acting upon a tip from Ora Slater, Mellett case detective, Detective Inspector Cornelius Cody and a squad of men raided the apartment, which turned out to be a modestly furnished four room flat, at 10414 Barrett avenue, on the east side. They found clothing with McDermott's laundry mark, and other articles which may reveal evidence invaluable in the Mellett investigation.

McDermott, they learned, lived in the place with a companion described by neighbors as a "black-haired man." The latter came and went frequently from the apartment, but McDermott kept closely inside, except at night, they said.

Hunt for Second Hangout.

A woman visited the apartment on one occasion, neighbors said, and police found a woman's undergarments in the place.

A squad of detectives, headed by Captain Emmett Potts, and inspector C. W. Cody this morning resumed the search for another apartment, believed to have been occupied by McDermott and his "dark-haired" companion after they moved from the first apartment.

The latest place occupied by the two men was believed to have been located on Kinsman road, according to information furnished the detectives by McDermott's brother.

KIWANIS HEARS HEALTH TALK

Dr. J. M. King Speaks at Club's Noon Luncheon.

Periodic health examinations were urged by Dr. J. M. King, Wellsville physician, in an address before 60 members of the Kiwanis club and their guests in Larkins' annex, Market street, at noon today. His subject was "The Value of the Periodic Health Examination."

He was introduced by Dr. W. A. Hobbs, vice president. Clarence Cline presided. Chorus singing was in charge of Prof. H. F. Laughlin, Claire Chambers being the accompanist. The guests included Common Pleas Judge W. H. Spence, Lisbon.

Dr. King, who was a member of the draft board of Columbiana county, District No. 1, during the war, asserted that more than one-third of the youths registered were unable to pass the physical examination required for military service.

"Medicine's greatest objective is the preservation of disease," he said. "Doctors believe in the old saying that 'an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.'

"Most of your men are healthy and the purpose of the periodic physical examinations is to keep you healthy. Go to your physician for advice regarding health matters every few months.

"The average span of life during the past 50 years has been increased by 20 years. With the adoption of the periodic health examinations by all, this span can be increased. People in general fail to consult a physician soon enough and only seek medical aid when they are forced to take to their bed."

The physician stated that recently a large insurance company examined 16,000 men. Defects of a minor nature were found in a majority of these. Eighty per cent of these defects were cured and, as a result, lives of the men were prolonged.

GOSPEL POWER IS STRESSED BY EVANGELIST

Rev. Mel Morris Hits Man Ashamed of Religion.

PRAYER SERVICE

Maryland Pastor is Speaker at Baptist Church Meet.

Deprecating the tendency of many Christians to be seemingly ashamed of their religious convictions, Rev. Mel Morris eloquently stressed the need of constant loyalty to the bulwarks of their profession at the Baptist church service last evening. His subject was "Shame-faced Religion."

When worldly men about you belittle your belief or speak skeptically about it what do you do?" he asked. "Do you defend the basis of your spiritual activity or do you simply ignore the subject? I wonder if Jesus Christ is not ashamed at times of our defense of Him.

Following the sermon by Rev. Mr Morris, Marion Ball, accompanying singer, sang "The Name of Jesus is So Sweet." In the preliminary song service he sang "The End of the Road," and, with Mrs. Rev. A. H. O'Brien, "Nothing Between My Love and My Saviour.' Later, also by request of Rev. Mr. O'Brien, he repeated the solo, "The Old Fashioned Meeting." A duet by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Chilton, "Only a Sinner," concluded the pre-sermon musical program.

The invocation was made by Harvey Pickens, a layman of the church.

Announcement was made of two prayer services to precede tonight's service, one in the auditorium for the members of the congregation and the other in the class room by the board of deacons. Both will begin at 7 o'clock.

Paul's assertions to the Romans: 'I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ for it is the power of salvation to every one who believeth," formed Rev. Mr. Morris' text.

"The word gospel is one of the first words used in the New Testament," he said. "It heads the introductory statements of Mathew, Mark, Luke and John. All harmonize without contradiction. They form not four, but one gospel.

"The gospel was referred to in the final message of Christ before he ascended into heaven following His resurrection when He commanded: 'Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature.'

"And the word gospel really means dynamite. It isthus the dynamite of God, a power able to save sinners unto the uttermost.

"We have great power in the world now, that which causes ships to fly, others to move under sea, waves to scintillate in the air and carry speech to every clime on earth. Great has been scientific and engineering progress in recent years. But outstanding as those accomplishments are none has the capacity to save the human soul from its sin. Only the gospel, the glad tidings initiated by Jesus Christ and felt so strongly by Paul that he preached it can do that."

'And this power of which Paul, once feeling it, was never thereafter ashamed, came to us by the spilling of blood under the cross. I love that blood for what it has done for me, for mankind everywhere in the past and for what it is destined to do in making every knee ultimely bend to Him. It is cleansing, purifying, sacrificing, justice-making power. I know scoffers deny this assertion and unbelievers ridicule similar statements but just the same this gospel of Jesus Christ remains what it has always been—the Alpha and the Omega, the beginning and the end, a Calvary as fresh now as when drawn from Immanuel's veins.

"Stephen Halcomb, a gambler, fatally wounded a friend who accused him of cheating. Acquitted in court he failed to find peace of mind. Succumbing to prayer he found surcease in the blood of Jesus Christ, the gospel, functioning, cleansed, washed and redeemed him."

THE interstate commerce commission is considering regulation of motor bus traffic because it takes passengers from railroads. Next should come regulation of a man's right to use his own automobile, then a law compelling citizens over twenty-one to travel so many miles a year by rail, whether they want to or not.

What will the interstate commerce commission do when flying machines carry passengers across the continent in twentyfour hours for twenty-five dollars? That will come.

TWO PERUVIAN UNDER-WATER VESSELS SAFE

CARRY 43 MEN

Distress Call Picked Up at Coastal Station.

NEW YORK, Oct. 28. — The Peruvian submarines, R-1 and R-2, reported seriously disabled 130 miles off Cape May, N. J., did not send out an S. O. S, call last night and are in no danger of sinking, naval communications reported this morning. The R-1, carrying a crew of 22, accompanied by her sister ship with a crew of 21, left Newport, R. I., last Tuesday for Peru.

The distress call picked up at various coastal stations last night apparently was actuated by the fact that the R-2's engine was temporarily disabled and that she was being towed by her sister ship, the R-1 informed naval communications. The R-1 said the R-2 was in no danger and that her disabled engine was being repaired by the crew.

The S. O. S. call that the R-1 was in distress was believed to have been sent by the steamer Veendijk. The revenue cutters Gresham, Hammond and Seneca were standing by the submarine this morning after a quick dash out to sea, according to reports received at the coast guard base at Cape May, N. J.

Although the S. O. S. call was received at Boston and Philadelphia, the Cape May coast guard station and naval communications here did not pick it up. The message read:

"S. O. S. Peruvian R-1 with brake engines, latitude 38:24, longitude 71: 20. Sinking. Make every effort to tow. S. O. S."

A report that one of the submarines was sinking was dispelled when the R-1 sent a wireless asking for radio compass bearings, and at 6 o'clock this morning naval communications characterized the S O. S. call as a "fluke."

Receipt of the S. O S. call last evening resulted in a general suspension of radio broadcasting from 6:35 to 7:57 p. m.

Paris Denies Report

Queen Marie, Princess Ileana and Prince Nicolas awakened in excellent spirits. The prince, usually nervously bored, wore a smile as broad as the "wide open spaces" ahead of him. His youthful energy smothered beneath a never-ending wave of formal entertainments, the potential Heir to the Roumanian throne had his fling in Toronto and was happy. It was not much of a fling, merely an escape from the worshipping multitude to visit places and things he wanted to see—alone, or nearly so.

"I am tired of high hats," exploded the prince. "I have seen the best tables in the United States and Canada but nothing else."

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—For the first time in transportation history the volume of weekly freight traffic on American railroads exceeded 1,000,000 cars, according to the Railway association's report for October 16, issued today. This was the most important factor in the financial district in the early trading, causing further retreat of the bears in the speculative favorites.

The stock market was buoyant in the first hour, but only in isolated cases were price guns more than a point or two. Shorts in U. S. Steel and General Motors paid about a point more for stock than they could have purchased it for yesterday afternoon. On the other hand there were some conspicuous weak spots, both the railroad and industrial groups, Hudson Motors being the outstanding example in the latter group.

Wall Street was disposed to look for some more favorable announcements from the directors' meetings of important corporations today, including Bethlehem Steel, which is believed to be on the threshold of dividend resumption. Consolidated Gas of New York, and household products. Thus far this week the record has been excellent in the matter of dividend increases. Commodity markets were steady in the early trading and call money unchanged at 4½ per cent.

The market drifted into a reactionary trend in the second hour. Traders were ready to take profits on stocks bought yesterday and professionals to renew short selling in anticipation of a dull market over election day. Dupont, New York, graduating from the curb, was in good demand around 162, while cast iron pipe, General Electric and American Can reached slightly higher price levels in active trading. Oils were firm, coppers and sugars steady.

An autopsy will be performed later in the day to determine how the fatal bullets entered the slain woman's head, and whether her tongue was cut out, as has been reported.

Royal Mounted Police Band Comes to Ceramic Theatre

The Royal Northwest Mounted Police band of Canada, a 12-man organization, attired in striking red coated uniforms, will appear as a special attraction with the motion picture hit, "Laddie," at the Ceramic theatre today, tomorrow and Saturday.

The name of Gene Stratton-Porter, for years the most widely read novelist of this or any other generation, is enough to insure the worth of a motion picture, basing that criterion on "The Girl of the Limberlost" and "The Keeper of the Bees." When, added to that name, a sterling cast enacts the roles and the clever direction of J. Lee Meehan, the late novelist's son-in-law makes the story stand out, the acme of entertainment is reached.

Such a picture is "Laddie." It is heralded as the most absorbing production F. B. O. has ever released.

Little Gene Stratton, who created such a sensation in "The Keeper of the Bees," again has an important role in the cast. The granddaughter of the celebrated author takes the part of "Little Sister," and repeats her triumph with accrued interest. John Bowers does splendidly in the titular role, while Bess Flowers, David Torrence, Eugenia Gilbert, Neil Neely, Fanny Midgely, Arthur Clayton and John Fox, Jr., are all fine in the characters assigned to them.

VOTE STRAIGHT G. O. P. TICKET, URGES MRS. HALLIE Q. BROWN

Electors were urged to "vote the straight Republican ticket" at next Tuesday's election by Mrs. Hallie Q. Brown, former chautauqua entertainer and a member of the state Republican speakers' bureau, in an address at G. O. P. headquarters in the Carmarda garage building, West Fifth street, last night. The rally, which was under the auspices of the Colored Women's Republican club, was largely attended.

Mrs. Mae Joseph, president of the East Liverpool Women's Republican club, presided. Mrs. Brown was introduced by Mrs. Ila Marshall Cronin. At the conclusion of the address, Mrs. Maude Good recited a poem of her own composition, "Ethiopia's Plea," written shortly after the signing of the Armistice.

Mrs. Joseph, one of the captains of the organization, urging ratification of the proposed 2.3 mill school levy, voiced a plea for support of the proposal at the polls. Mayor Ralph Benedum asked approval of the proposed $225,000 municipal building bond issue. Councilman George Hughes accompanied the mayor to the meeting.

Attorney W. H. Vodrey and Mrs. Mary Vodrey Nease also spoke briefly, urging that every one vote at Tuesday's election.

Mrs. Brown left last evening for Springfield, where she will speak at a Republican rally tonight.

Court Will Hear Motion.

Charging that refusal to admit him to McDermott's cell is a violation of both state and federal constitutional provisions guaranteeing the defendant a fair trial, Mills asserted that unless the defense attorneys are permitted to talk with McDermott they will be unable to prepare their case for November 8, the date set for the trial of Mazer.

Prediction of defeat of the motion by Judge Agler who overruled Mills' motion, presented Tuesday, that he be permitted to see McDermott because the latter so desired, was freely made by Canton attorneys.

Filing of this motion marked the fifth attempt instigated by defense attorneys to gain access to witnesses, held incommunicado by the prosecution.

Slater and McClintock will question McDermott again sometime again today, they announced.

Find Cleveland Haven.

Acting upon a tip from Ora Slater, Mellett case detective, Detective Inspector Cornelius Cody and a squad of men raided the apartment, which turned out to be a modestly furnished four room flat, at 10414 Barrett avenue, on the east side. They found clothing with McDermott's laundry mark, and other articles which may reveal evidence invaluable in the Mellett investigation.

McDermott, they learned, lived in the place with a companion described by neighbors as a "black-haired man." The latter came and went frequently from the apartment, but McDermott kept closely inside, except at night, they said.

Hunt for Second Hangout.

A woman visited the apartment on one occasion, neighbors said, and police found a woman's undergarments in the place.

A squad of detectives, headed by Captain Emmett Potts, and inspector C. W. Cody this morning resumed the search for another apartment, believed to have been occupied by McDermott and his "dark-haired" companion after they moved from the first apartment.

The latest place occupied by the two men was believed to have been located on Kinsman road, according to information furnished the detectives by McDermott's brother.

KIWANIS HEARS HEALTH TALK

Dr. J. M. King Speaks at Club's Noon Luncheon.

Periodic health examinations were urged by Dr. J. M. King, Wellsville physician, in an address before 60 members of the Kiwanis club and their guests in Larkins' annex, Market street, at noon today. His subject was "The Value of the Periodic Health Examination."

He was introduced by Dr. W. A. Hobbs, vice president. Clarence Cline presided. Chorus singing was in charge of Prof. H. F. Laughlin, Claire Chambers being the accompanist. The guests included Common Pleas Judge W. H. Spence, Lisbon.

Dr. King, who was a member of the draft board of Columbiana county, District No. 1, during the war, asserted that more than one-third of the youths registered were unable to pass the physical examination required for military service.

"Medicine's greatest objective is the preservation of disease," he said. "Doctors believe in the old saying that 'an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.'

"Most of your men are healthy and the purpose of the periodic physical examinations is to keep you healthy. Go to your physician for advice regarding health matters every few months.

"The average span of life during the past 50 years has been increased by 20 years. With the adoption of the periodic health examinations by all, this span can be increased. People in general fail to consult a physician soon enough and only seek medical aid when they are forced to take to their bed."

The physician stated that recently a large insurance company examined 16,000 men. Defects of a minor nature were found in a majority of these. Eighty per cent of these defects were cured and, as a result, lives of the men were prolonged.

GOSPEL POWER IS STRESSED BY EVANGELIST

Rev. Mel Morris Hits Man Ashamed of Religion.

PRAYER SERVICE

Maryland Pastor is Speaker at Baptist Church Meet.

Deprecating the tendency of many Christians to be seemingly ashamed of their religious convictions, Rev. Mel Morris eloquently stressed the need of constant loyalty to the bulwarks of their profession at the Baptist church service last evening. His subject was "Shame-faced Religion."

When worldly men about you belittle your belief or speak skeptically about it what do you do?" he asked. "Do you defend the basis of your spiritual activity or do you simply ignore the subject? I wonder if Jesus Christ is not ashamed at times of our defense of Him.

Following the sermon by Rev. Mr Morris, Marion Ball, accompanying singer, sang "The Name of Jesus is So Sweet." In the preliminary song service he sang "The End of the Road," and, with Mrs. Rev. A. H. O'Brien, "Nothing Between My Love and My Saviour.' Later, also by request of Rev. Mr. O'Brien, he repeated the solo, "The Old Fashioned Meeting." A duet by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Chilton, "Only a Sinner," concluded the pre-sermon musical program.

The invocation was made by Harvey Pickens, a layman of the church.

Announcement was made of two prayer services to precede tonight's service, one in the auditorium for the members of the congregation and the other in the class room by the board of deacons. Both will begin at 7 o'clock.

Paul's assertions to the Romans: 'I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ for it is the power of salvation to every one who believeth," formed Rev. Mr. Morris' text.

"The word gospel is one of the first words used in the New Testament," he said. "It heads the introductory statements of Mathew, Mark, Luke and John. All harmonize without contradiction. They form not four, but one gospel.

"The gospel was referred to in the final message of Christ before he ascended into heaven following His resurrection when He commanded: 'Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature.'

"And the word gospel really means dynamite. It isthus the dynamite of God, a power able to save sinners into the uttermost.

"We have great power in the world now, that which causes ships to fly, others to move under sea, waves to scintillate in the air and carry speech to every clime on earth. Great has been scientific and engineering progress in recent years. But outstanding as those accomplishments are none has the capacity to save the human soul from its sin. Only the gospel, the glad tidings initiated by Jesus Christ and felt so strongly by Paul that he preached it can do that."

'And this power of which Paul, once feeling it, was never thereafter ashamed, came to us by the spilling of blood under the cross. I love that blood for what it has done for me, for mankind everywhere in the past and for what it is destined to do in making every knee ultimely bend to Him. It is cleansing, purifying, sacrificing, justice-making power. I know scoffers deny this assertion and unbelievers ridicule similar statements but just the same this gospel of Jesus Christ remains what it has always been—the Alpha and the Omega, the beginning and the end, a Calvary as fresh now as when drawn from Immanuel's veins.

"Stephen Halcomb, a gambler, fatally wounded a friend who accused him of cheating. Acquitted in court he failed to find peace of mind. Succumbing to prayer he found surcease in the blood of Jesus Christ, the gospel, functioning, cleansed, washed and redeemed him."

South Africa says Britain must not interfere, even if it is embarrassing.

MUSSOLINI says: "I love Switzerland, and she has nothing to fear from Italy ever." Switzerland says: "Much obliged," and continues to keep prepared, every young Swiss taught to fight, every able-bodied man owning his rifle and ammunition and compelled to keep both in order.

The way to be safe is to be ready, and Switzerland knows that.

It would cost more to conquer Switzerland than the conquest would be worth.

Ten million dollars' worth of airplanes, bonds and gas sent against this nation at the right time might collect ten thousand millions of genuine dollars.

THE interstate commerce commission is considering regulation of motor bus traffic because it takes passengers from railroads. Next should come regulation of a man's right to use his own automobile, then a law compelling citizens over twenty-one to travel so many miles a year by rail, whether they want to or not.

What will the interstate commerce commission do when flying machines carry passengers across the continent in twentyfour hours for twenty-five dollars? That will come.

The River Shannon will be harnessed to supply the free state with power, and somebody will write a song about "the turbines of the Shannon." It will be less romanic than "The Bells of Shannon," but will mean more to Irish comfort and happiness.

One hundred thousand horse-power would do more for Ireland than many songs—and she already has the songs.

Submarines R-1 and R-2 Did Not Flash S. O. S.

Distress Call Picked Up at Coastal Station.

NEW YORK, Oct. 28. —The Peruvian submarines, R-1 and R-2, reported seriously disabled 130 miles off Cape May, N. J., did not send out an S. O. S. call last night and are in no danger of sinking, naval communications reported this morning. The R-1, carrying a crew of 22, accompanied by her sister ship with a crew of 21, left Newport, R. I., last Tuesday for Peru.

The distress call picked up at various coastal stations last night apparently was actuated by the fact that the R-2's engine was temporarily disabled and that she was being towed by her sister ship, the R-1 informed naval communications. The R-1 said the R-2 was in no danger and that her disabled engine was being repaired by the crew.

The S. O. S. call that the R-1 was in distress was believed to have been sent by the steamer Veendijk. The revenue cutters Gresham, Hammond and Seneca were standing by the submarine this morning after a quick dash out to sea, according to reports received at the coast guard base at Cape May, N. J.

Although the S. O. S. call was received at Boston and Philadelphia, the Cape May coast guard station and naval communications here did not pick it up. The message read:

"S. O. S. Peruvian R-1 with brake engines, latitude 38:24, longitude 71:20. Sinking. Make every effort to tow. S. O. S."

A report that one of the submarines was sinking was dispelled when the R-1 sent a wireless asking for radio compass bearings, and at 6 o'clock this morning naval communications characterized the S. O. S. call as a "fluke."

Receipt of the S. O. S. call last evening resulted in a general suspension of radio broadcasting from 6:35 to 7:57 p. m.

Paris Denies Report

Queen Marie, Princess Ileana and Prince Nicolas awakened in excellent spirits. The prince, usually nervously bored, wore a smile as broad as the "wide open spaces" ahead of him. His youthful energy smothered beneath a never-ending wave of formal entertainments, the potential Heir to the Roumanian throne had his fling in Toronto and was happy. It was not much of a fling, merely an escape from the worshipping multitude to visit places and things he wanted to see—alone, or nearly so.

"I am tired of high hats," exploded the prince. "I have seen the best tables in the United States and Canada but nothing else."

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—For the first time in transportation history the volume of weekly freight traffic on American railroads exceeded 1,000,000 cars, according to the Railway association's report for October 16, issued today. This was the most important factor in the financial district in the early trading, causing further retreat of the bears in the speculative favorites.

The stock market was buoyant in the first hour, but only in isolated cases were price guns more than a point or two. Shorts in U. S. Steel and General Motors paid about a point more for stock than they could have purchased it for yesterday afternoon. On the other hand there were some conspicuous weak spots, both the railroad and industrial groups, Hudson Motors being the outstanding example in the latter group.

Wall Street was disposed to look for some more favorable announcements from the directors' meetings of important corporations today, including Bethlehem Steel, which is believed to be on the threshold of dividend resumption. Consolidated Gas of New York, and household products. Thus far this week the record has been excellent in the matter of dividend increases. Commodity markets were steady in the early trading and call money unchanged at 4½ per cent.

The market drifted into a reactionary trend in the second hour. Traders were ready to take profits on stocks bought yesterday and professionals to renew short selling in anticipation of a dull market over election day. Dupont, New York, graduating from the curb, was in good demand around 162, while cast iron pipe, General Electric and American Can reached slightly higher price levels in active trading. Oils were firm, coppers and sugars steady.

Royal Mounted Police Band Comes to Ceramic Theatre

The Royal Northwest Mounted Police band of Canada, a 12-man organization, attired in striking red coated uniforms, will appear as a special attraction with the motion picture hit, "Laddie," at the Ceramic theatre today, tomorrow and Saturday.

The name of Gene Stratton-Porter, for years the most widely read novelist of this or any other generation, is enough to insure the worth of a motion picture, basing that criterion on "The Girl of the Limberlost" and "The Keeper of the Bees." When, added to that name, a sterling cast enacts the roles and the clever direction of J. Lee Meehan, the late novelist's son-in-law makes the story stand out, the acme of entertainment is reached.

Such a picture is "Laddie." It is heralded as the most absorbing production F. B. O. has ever released.

Little Gene Stratton, who created such a sensation in "The Keeper of the Bees," again has an important role in the cast. The granddaughter of the celebrated author takes the part of "Little Sister," and repeats her triumph with accrued interest. John Bowers does splendidly in the titular role, while Bess Flowers, David Torrence, Eugenia Gilbert, Neil Neely, Fanny Midgely, Arthur Clayton and John Fox, Jr., are all fine in the characters assigned to them.

VOTE STRAIGHT G. O. P. TICKET, URGES MRS. HALLIE Q. BROWN

Electors were urged to "vote the straight Republican ticket" at next Tuesday's election by Mrs. Hallie Q. Brown, former chautauqua entertainer and a member of the state Republican speakers' bureau, in an address at G. O. P. headquarters in the Carmarda garage building, West Fifth street, last night. The rally, which was under the auspices of the Colored Women's Republican club, was largely attended.

Mrs. Mae Joseph, president of the East Liverpool Women's Republican club, presided. Mrs. Brown was introduced by Mrs. Ila Marshall Cronin. At the conclusion of the address, Mrs. Maude Good recited a poem of her own composition, "Ethiopia's Plea," written shortly after the signing of the Armistice.

Mrs. Joseph, one of the captains of the organization, urging ratification of the proposed 2.3 mill school levy, voiced a plea for support of the proposal at the polls. Mayor Ralph Benedum asked approval of the proposed $225,000 municipal building bond issue. Councilman George Hughes accompanied the mayor to the meeting.

Attorney W. H. Vodrey and Mrs. Mary Vodrey Nease also spoke briefly, urging that every one vote at Tuesday's election.

Mrs. Brown left last evening for Springfield, where she will speak at a Republican rally tonight.

McDermott Silent

Court Will Hear Motion.

Charging that refusal to admit him to McDermott's cell is a violation of both state and federal constitutional provisions guaranteeing the defendant a fair trial, Mills asserted that unless the defense attorneys are permitted to talk with McDermott they will be unable to prepare their case for November 8, the date set for the trial of Mazer.

Prediction of defeat of the motion by Judge Agler who overruled Mills' motion, presented Tuesday, that he be permitted to see McDermott because the latter so desired, was freely made by Canton attorneys.

Filing of this motion marked the fifth attempt instigated by defense attorneys to gain access to witnesses, held incommunicado by the prosecution.

Slater and McClintock will question McDermott again sometime again today, they announced.

Find Cleveland Haven.

Acting upon a tip from Ora Slater, Mellett case detective, Detective Inspector Cornelius Cody and a squad of men raided the apartment, which turned out to be a modestly furnished four room flat, at 10414 Barrett avenue, on the east side. They found clothing with McDermott's laundry mark, and other articles which may reveal evidence invaluable in the Mellett investigation.

McDermott, they learned, lived in the place with a companion described by neighbors as a "black-haired man." The latter came and went frequently from the apartment, but McDermott kept closely inside, except at night, they said.

Hunt for Second Hangout.

A woman visited the apartment on one occasion, neighbors said, and police found a woman's undergarments in the place.

A squad of detectives, headed by Captain Emmett Potts, and inspector C. W. Cody this morning resumed the search for another apartment, believed to have been occupied by McDermott and his "dark-haired" companion after they moved from the first apartment.

The latest place occupied by the two men was believed to have been located on Kinsman road, according to information furnished the detectives by McDermott's brother.

KIWANIS HEARS HEALTH TALK

Dr. J. M. King Speaks at Club's Noon Luncheon.

Periodic health examinations were urged by Dr. J. M. King, Wellsville physician, in an address before 60 members of the Kiwanis club and their guests in Larkins' annex, Market street, at noon today. His subject was "The Value of the Periodic Health Examination."

He was introduced by Dr. W. A. Hobbs, vice president. Clarence Cline presided. Chorus singing was in charge of Prof. H. F. Laughlin, Claire Chambers being the accompanist. The guests included Common Pleas Judge W. H. Spence, Lisbon.

Dr. King, who was a member of the draft board of Columbiana county, District No. 1, during the war, asserted that more than one-third of the youths registered were unable to pass the physical examination required for military service.

"Medicine's greatest objective is the preservation of disease," he said. "Doctors believe in the old saying that 'an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.'

"Most of your men are healthy and the purpose of the periodic physical examinations is to keep you healthy. Go to your physician for advice regarding health matters every few months.

"The average span of life during the past 50 years has been increased by 20 years. With the adoption of the periodic health examinations by all, this span can be increased. People in general fail to consult a physician soon enough and only seek medical aid when they are forced to take to their bed."

The physician stated that recently a large insurance company examined 16,000 men. Defects of a minor nature were found in a majority of these. Eighty per cent of these defects were cured and, as a result, lives of the men were prolonged.

Girl Gained 7 Pounds Nine Years An Invalid

That's just what McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets did for the Babcock Girl—and is doing as much for tens of thousands of thin, underweight, weak and discouraged people all over America.

These sugar coated, pleasant to take, tablets should be given to children instead of the vile stomach upsetting oil itself—they surely do help the frail, delicate little ones and 60 tablets cost but 60 cents at Mathews Med. store or any druggist.

Read this letter if you have a child that needs to gain health and strength:

"My little girl was stricken with infantile paralysis when she was 5 months old and was an invalid for 9 years—when I saw an ad in the paper that McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets would build up wasted tissues. I bought a box and she gained very slowly at first and after taking eight boxes, she gained seven pounds. Thanks to McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets, after trying almost everything else on the market. She is on the road to recovery and goes to school every day." Mrs. L. Babcock, Appleton, Wis.

Continuing Prosperity or Industrial Chaos?
For Which Does Ohio Stand?

Democratic Party pledged to destruction of the protective tariff and restoration of a "Competitive" tariff like the Underwood-Simmons bill which plunged Ohio and the Nation into two of its greatest depressions.

SELDOM in the history of the United States have our people been so universally prosperous as today. Not every person is employed, of course—there is no time, under ordinary conditions, when everyone can be employed as desired; but compared with other days and other countries, the United States is today the industrial and business paradise of the world. 1926 has produced a business record almost unprecented. Expenditures for homes, for household conveniences, for all the things that go to make life in the United States far different from what it is anywhere in the world, have increased beyond the fondest dreams of men a few years ago.

Bank resources are immense. Building and Loan assets are more than three times what they were ten years ago.

Automobile sales have mounted to undreamed of heights. And 95 per cent of the automobiles owned in the world are in the United States. In seven years the number of automobiles used in the United States has tripled.

The greatest railway day in the history of the world was in September, 1926. Capacity use of the car facilities of our great lines are not sufficient to meet the transportation demands.

The promise for 1927 is much greater than was the promise a year ago for 1926.

Nowhere in the world—save in isolated spots like Australia—is there, for the average man, employer or employee—anything approaching the conditions of life in the United States.

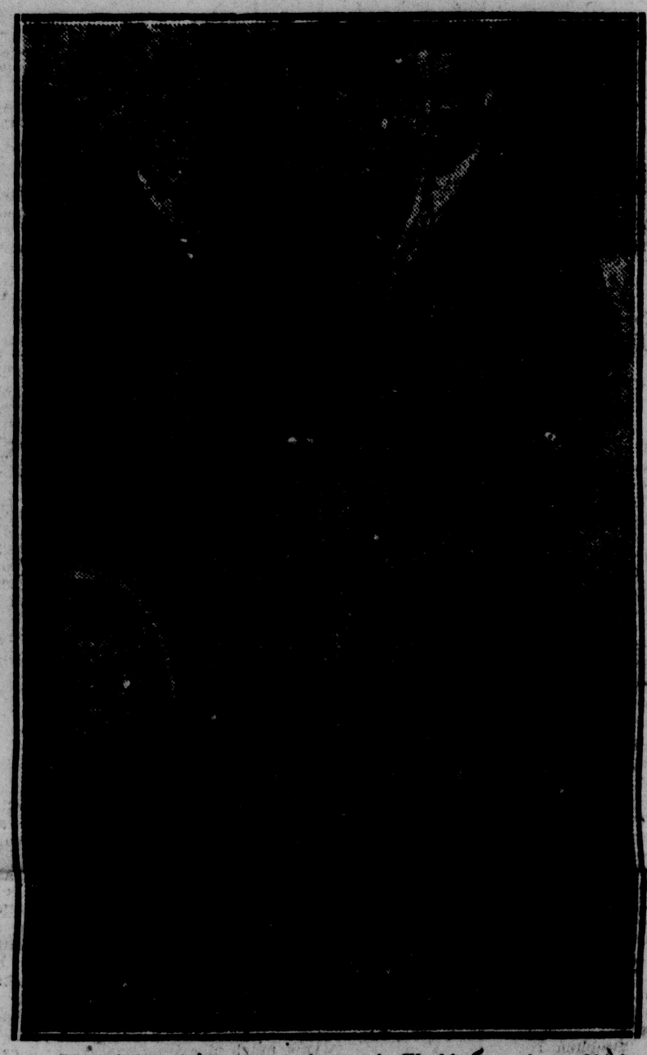

This is not wholly due to our great resources or the capabilities of our people. Others can duplicate us in the necessary production qualities. To protect ourselves, in our growing days, we have erected barriers that have enabled us to create the wonderful life we have on this continent.

And a fundamental feature of this system is the protective tariff we have created, giving our industry, and our workingmen just that margin of protection that eliminated the differences of production in European and Oriental countries and enables us to go ahead.

To sweep away these barriers now, would be to throw every American business and workingman open to the free competition of the world, with the vastly different conditions that prevail in other countries.

This result would be inevitable.

Every time we have done so, industrial chaos has ensued. Millions of our workingmen have walked the streets unemployed. Soup houses have furnished the only relief and life itself to many of these millions. Factories have everywhere been closed. The cheaper imports of Europe have poured in, but there has been no money to buy. American workingmen must be employed at American wage standards, American industries must be maintained on American standards, if our prosperity is to be maintained.

This picture, taken two weeks ago in Washington, shows Ohio's senior Senator in conference with President Coolidge, under whose leadership the nation has attained a degree of prosperity never before attained. The President has no more loyal or able supporter than Senator Willis. Ohio can show its approval of the President's policies, and help in their continuance, in no other way than by the return of Senator Willis and Republican Congressmen at the election on November 2nd.

THE LEADERS of the Democratic party in the nation pledge their party, and their nominees for Senate and House in Ohio and elsewhere, to the restoration of the Underwood-Simmons or a similar tariff, if the next Congress is controlled by the Democratic party.

OHIO HAS HAD ONE EXPERIENCE WITH THE UNDERWOOD-SIMMONS TARIFF.

It was enacted October 3, 1913, and was in force up to the beginning of the war. The then Democratic Senator from Ohio—who is now the candidate for re-election in Ohio—voted for every low duty schedule this tariff contained.

HERE ARE OHIO RESULTS as gleaned from the Ohio State Journal, the Cleveland Plain Dealer, and the Cincinnati Enquirer of the times:

November—Lestonia Steel Company, Lestonia, Ohio, went bankrupt.

November—Commercial Travelers report German cutlery crowding out American goods.

November—The Iron Trade Review of Cleveland "Seldom has the trade seen such stagnation as exists in pig iron markets."

November—Cincinnati Associated Charities reported a 30% increase in destitution over November, 1912.

November—Mahoning Valley Tin Plate started down grade.

December 24—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune published article showing that the clothing trade was severely feeling the effects of the tariff.

December 25—Christmas Day 7,000 men out of work in Columbus.

December 26—New York Sun said machinery and tool manufacturers in Ohio were "Almost paralyzed" by the Underwood Tariff.

December 26—The Columbus Iron & Sheet Company went on half time; Buckeye Steel Casting Company—only 500 were working out of a full force of 3,000.

One Columbus furnace out of six was running.

January 20—Continental Sugar Company at Fremont was ordered closed.

February 14—Youngstown Bar Works cut employees 50 per cent.

March 2—8,000 men out of work in Columbus.

April—Youngstown [illegible] reported.

May 1—Foundries at Cincinnati began half time.

May 4—2,000 men thrown out of Aetna Mills, Martins Ferry.

May—Cleveland issued $100,000 bonds to care for the unemployed.

June 15—Central Labor Union, Akron, reported that very recently 1,000 men were laid off in the rubber plants.

July—Perry County potteries all closed except two. 600 carloads of surplus products on hand.

July—In Zanesville, factories employed only 60% of their usual number of men and those for only four days a week.

July—Wages in Steubenville and throughout the county were from $1.50 to $1.75 for a 9 or 10 hour day.

July—Cleveland City Labor Exchange estimated that at one time between the passage of the Underwood Tariff and the beginning of the war, there were 61,000 men out of employment in Cleveland alone. There were 27 applicants for every job the Labor Exchange listed.

The war over, "war babies" were no longer the products of industry, and we slid quickly back to the 1913-1914 conditions.

In 1919-20, once again millions of men walked our streets. January, 1921, was a "blue day" in Ohio and throughout the nation.

But with the enactment of the emergency tariff, and the later enactment of the present tariff—both strenuously opposed by the then Democratic senator from Ohio—by January, 1922, these conditions were largely remedied and our factories again in almost full production employment.

WIPE OUT THE TARIFF, AS IS PLEDGED BY THE NATIONAL DEMOCRATIC LEADERS, AND YOU WIPE OUT THE INDUSTRIAL PROSPERITY OF OHIO, ONE OF THE GREATEST INDUSTRIAL CENTERS IN THE WORLD.

Senator Pomerene's Record on the Tariff ---Almost 400 Low Tariff Votes

DOCUMENT 556, 63rd Congress, Second Session, gives votes on the Underwood-Simmons Tariff Bill, which opened soup houses in every industrial city in Ohio. An examination of the record in this pamphlet shows that Senator Pomerene voted with but two exceptions for the low duties reported by the committee, made up largely of southerners, headed by Senator Simmons. He never voted once in favor of an amendment to increase any Ohio duties, although there were a large number of amendments offered proposing to increase the rates reported by the Committee.

Document 264, 67th Congress, Second Session, gives the Yea and Nay vote on the Fordney-McCumber Tariff Bill. An examination of the roll calls shows that Senator Pomerene was absent or paired 103 times. He voted 171 times. Every time he voted for the lowering of proposed duties — never once was he able to see his way clear to vote for an increase, no matter what duty was proposed.

In between these two Tariff Bills, there was passed the Emergency Tariff Bill. The record shows Senator Pomerene was for every lower duty proposed in connection with that bill. He voted, of course, against the Fordney-McCumber Bill and the Emergency Tariff Bill.

The record shows that he voted, also, against the Taxation Bill of 1921, under which the first large reduction in taxes was made by the Harding Administration. This, of course, was the only tax reduction upon which he had a chance to vote.

DOES OHIO GO AHEAD OR BACKWARD?

Because of our belief that the return of Senator Willis, who stands always staunchly for the protection of American industries and American standards of living, is absolutely essential to the continuance of the present conditions of unparalleled prosperity, this advertisement is inserted by business men of Ohio to call attention of our fellow citizens to the critical situation that exists, so far as our representation is concerned.

The cheaper imports of Europe have poured in, but there has been no money to buy. American workingmen must be employed at American wage standards, American industries must be maintained on American standards, if our prosperity is to be maintained.

THE LEADERS of the Democratic party in the nation pledge their party, and their nominees for Senate and House in Ohio and elsewhere, to the restoration of the Underwood-Simmons or a similar tariff, if the next Congress is controlled by the Democratic party.

This picture, taken two weeks ago in Washington, shows Ohio's senior Senator in conference with President Coolidge, under whose leadership the nation has attained a degree of prosperity never before attained. The President has no more loyal or able supporter than Senator Willis. Ohio can show its approval of the President's policies, and help in their continuance, in no other way than by the return of Senator Willis and Republican Congressmen at the election on November 2nd.

OHIO HAS HAD ONE EXPERIENCE WITH THE UNDERWOOD-SIMMONS TARIFF.

It was enacted October 3, 1913, and was in force up to the beginning of the war. The then Democratic Senator from Ohio—who is now the candidate for re-election in Ohio—voted for every low duty schedule this tariff contained.

HERE ARE OHIO RESULTS as gleaned from the Ohio State Journal, the Cleveland Plain Dealer, and the Cincinnati Enquirer of the times:

November—Leetonia Steel Company, Leetonia, Ohio, went bankrupt.

November—Commercial Travelers report German cutlery crowding out American goods.

November—The Iron Trade Review of Cleveland "Seldom has the trade seen such stagnation as exists in pig iron markets."

November—Cincinnati Associated Charities reported a 30% increase in destitution over November, 1912.

November—Mahoning Valley Tin Plate started down grade.

December 24—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune published article showing that the clothing trade was severely feeling the effects of the tariff.

December 25—Christmas Day 7,000 men out of work in Columbus.

December 26—New York Sun said machinery and tool manufacturers in Ohio were "Almost paralyzed" by the Underwood Tariff.

December 26—The Columbus Iron & Sheet Company went on half time; Buckeye Steel Casting Company—only 500 were working out of a full force of 3,000.

One Columbus furnace out of six was running.

January 20—Continental Sugar Company at Fremont was ordered closed.

February 14—Youngstown Bar Works cut employees 50 per cent.

March 2—8,000 men out of work in Columbus.

April—Youngstown [illegible] reported.

May 1—Foundries at Cincinnati began half time.

May 4—2,000 men thrown out of Aetna Mills, Martins Ferry.

May—Cleveland issued $100,000 bonds to care for the unemployed.

June 15—Central Labor Union, Akron, reported that very recently 1,600 men were laid off in the rubber plants.

July—Perry County potteries all closed except two. 600 carloads of surplus products on hand.

July—In Zanesville, factories employed only 60% of their usual number of men and those for only four days a week.

July—Wages in Steubenville and throughout the county were from $1.50 to $1.75 for a 9 or 10 hour day.

July—Cleveland City Labor Exchange estimated that at one time between the passage of the Underwood Tariff and the beginning of the war, there were 61,000 men out of employment in Cleveland alone. There were 27 applicants for every job the Labor Exchange listed.

The war over, "war babies" were no longer the products of industry, and we slid quickly back to the 1913-1914 conditions.

In 1919-20, once again millions of men walked our streets. January, 1921, was a "blue day" in Ohio and throughout the nation.

But with the enactment of the emergency tariff, and the later enactment of the present tariff—both strenuously opposed by the then Democratic senator from Ohio—by January, 1922, these conditions were largely remedied and our factories again in almost full production employment.

WIPE OUT THE TARIFF, AS IS PLEDGED BY THE NATIONAL DEMOCRATIC LEADERS, AND YOU WIPE OUT THE INDUSTRIAL PROSPERITY OF OHIO, ONE OF THE GREATEST INDUSTRIAL CENTERS IN THE WORLD.

Senator Pomerene's Record on the Tariff ---Almost 400 Low Tariff Votes

DOCUMENT 556, 63rd Congress, Second Session, gives votes on the Underwood-Simmons Tariff Bill, which opened soup houses in every industrial city in Ohio. An examination of the record in this pamphlet shows that Senator Pomerene voted with but two exceptions for the low duties reported by the committee, made up largely of southerners, headed by Senator Simmons. He never voted once in favor of an amendment to increase any Ohio duties, although there were a large number of amendments offered proposing to increase the rates reported by the Committee.

Document 264, 67th Congress, Second Session, gives the Yea and Nay vote on the Fordney-McCumber Tariff Bill. An examination of the roll calls shows that Senator Pomerene was absent or paired 103 times. He voted 171 times. Every time he voted for the lowering of proposed duties — never once was he able to see his way clear to vote for an increase, no matter what duty was proposed.

In between these two Tariff Bills, there was passed the Emergency Tariff Bill. The record shows Senator Pomerene was for every lower duty proposed in connection with that bill. He voted, of course, against the Fordney-McCumber Bill and the Emergency Tariff Bill.

The record shows that he voted, also, against the Taxation Bill of 1921, under which the first large reduction in taxes was made by the Harding Administration. This, of course, was the only tax reduction upon which he had a chance to vote.

DOES OHIO GO AHEAD OR BACKWARD?

Because of our belief that the return of Senator Willis, who stands always staunchly for the protection of American industries and American standards of living, is absolutely essential to the continuance of the present conditions of unparalleled prosperity, this advertisement is inserted by business men of Ohio to call attention of our fellow citizens to the critical situation that exists, so far as our representation is concerned.

Girl Gained 7 Pounds Nine Years An Invalid

That's just what McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets did for the Babcock Girl—and is doing as much for tens of thousands of thin, underweight, weak and discouraged people all over America.

These sugar coated, pleasant to take, tablets should be given to children instead of the vile stomach upsetting oil itself—they surely do help the frail, delicate little ones and 60 tablets cost but 60 cents at Mathews Med. store or any druggist.

Read this letter if you have a child that needs to gain health and strength:

"My little girl was stricken with infantile paralysis when she was 5 months old and was an invalid for 9 years—when I saw an ad in the paper that McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets would build up wasted tissues. I bought a box and she gained very slowly at first and after taking eight boxes, she gained seven pounds. Thanks to McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets, after trying almost everything else on the market. She is on the road to recovery and goes to school every day." Mrs. L. Babcock, Appleton, Wis.

Continuing Prosperity or Industrial Chaos?

For Which Does Ohio Stand?

Democratic Party pledged to destruction of the protective tariff and restoration of a "Competitive" tariff like the Underwood-Simmons bill which plunged Ohio and the Nation into two of its greatest depressions.

SELDOM in the history of the United States have our people been so universally prosperous as today. Not every person is employed, of course—there is no time, under ordinary conditions, when everyone can be employed as desired; but compared with other days and other countries, the United States is today the industrial and business paradise of the world. 1926 has produced a business record almost unprecented. Expenditures for homes, for household conveniences, for all the things that go to make life in the United States far different from what it is anywhere in the world, have increased beyond the fondest dreams of men a few years ago.

Bank resources are immense. Building and Loan assets are more than three times what they were ten years ago.

Automobile sales have mounted to undreamed of heights. And 95 per cent of the automobiles owned in the world are in the United States. In seven years the number of automobiles used in the United States has tripled.

The greatest railway day in the history of the world was in September, 1926. Capacity use of the car facilities of our great lines are not sufficient to meet the transportation demands.

The promise for 1927 is much greater than was the promise a year ago for 1926.

Nowhere in the world—save in isolated spots like Australia—is there, for the average man, employer or employee—anything approaching the conditions of life in the United States.

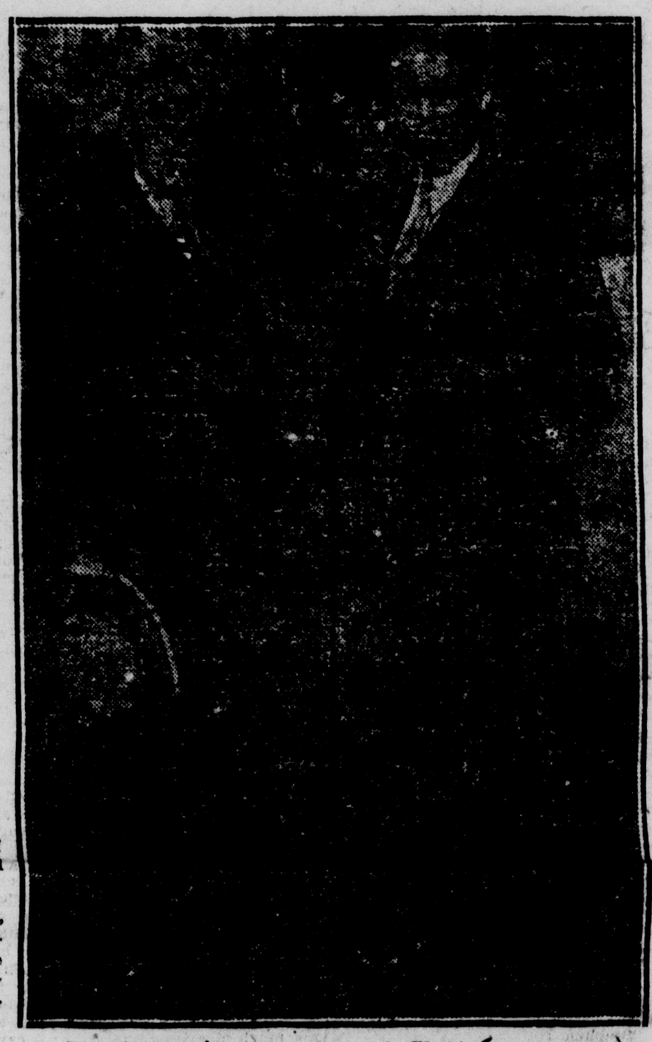

This is not wholly due to our great resources or the capabilities of our people. Others can duplicate us in the necessary production qualities. To protect ourselves, in our growing days, we have erected barriers that have enabled us to create the wonderful life we have on this continent.

And a fundamental feature of this system is the protective tariff we have created, giving our industry, and our workingmen just that margin of protection that eliminated the differences of production in European and Oriental countries and enables us to go ahead.

To sweep away these barriers now, would be to throw every American business and workingman open to the free competition of the world, with the vastly different conditions that prevail in other countries.

This result would be inevitable.

Every time we have done so, industrial chaos has ensued. Millions of our workingmen have walked the streets unemployed. Soup houses have furnished the only relief and life itself to many of these millions. Factories have everywhere been closed. The cheaper imports of Europe have poured in, but there has been no money to buy. American workingmen must be employed at American wage standards, American industries must be maintained on American standards, if our prosperity is to be maintained.

This picture, taken two weeks ago in Washington, shows Ohio's senior Senator in conference with President Coolidge, under whose leadership the nation has attained a degree of prosperity never before attained. CHURCH EVENT BEING PLANNED

Centennial of Christian Church Will be Observed Next eYar.

The centennial of the organization of the Christian church in Columbiana county will be observed at Lisbon during 1927, according to preliminary announcement made by Rev. R. J. Bennett, pastor of the Lisbon Christian church.

The observance of this event will include all churches of this denomination. The program which is to be arranged later will be designed to cover a period of eight days, from one Sunday to and including the following. The month of August will likely be selected as the time of the centennial celebration.

It was in August, 1827, when the Mahoning Baptist association met at Lisbon, and as a result of a sermon delivered by Walter Scott that the congregation then called the Disciples of Christ was formed, those taking part in the meeting of the Baptist association, almost to a man agreeing to drop the name Baptist, and forming the new congregation.

Scott continued his work in Columbiana county, and he soon built up a congregation of about 1,000 men and women. Not a single congregation of this body was in existence when Elder Scott began his plea in 1827.

Sidney Rigdon, who came to Lisbon to take part in the meeting of the Baptist association later became the assistant to Joseph Smith, the founder of the Mormon church in the United States.

Unless preliminary plans miscarry representatives of the Christian church in all states will take part in the centennial services now proposed by the Lisbon congregation.

All Mash-Feeding Test at Experiment Station Successful

As a direct result of using an all-mash method of feeding hens for egg production, it has been explained by County Agent Floyd Lower, of the Farm Bureau, that experiments conducted at the Ohio experiment station with 2,500 layers during the last two years, egg production has been increased.

This information has been given Lower by D. C. Kennard and R. M. Bethke, who have been in charge of the test under the all-mash feeding.

As the all-mash method of feeding is such a radical departure from the customary practice of feeding scratch grain and mash, many poultry keepers may hesitate to change, it has been explained, from the traditional practice, even though they may have employed the new method with the young stock.

It is declared that by following the new method, laying hens eat clean feed from a feeder; whereas, when scratch grain is fed in the litter, the hens pick up some of the contaminated material along with the grain, especially when they are hungry and greedy. Mr. Lower has also pointed out that the litter is often damp and as it is difficult to feed just the correct amount of scratch grain, a surplus is sometimes left in the damp litter and becomes contaminated with must or mould before it is finally picked up by the hens. "The all-mash method of feeding for egg production promises to become a general practice among poultry raisers," Mr. Lower suggested.

Cooper will do exactly the same thing for Ohio—as any other good, solid business man could if you could get him into the governor's job. You have the opportunity to get Cooper.

Myers Cooper was practically drafted into the primary campaign, although he never was a candidate before. He won in the primaries and should be elected because he knows how to handle business affairs as such. That's all we need in this great, prosperous state, and we need it a great deal more than we need a personal political machine, which Cooper doesn't understand and wouldn't have if he did. Cooper, as governor, can afford to be independent of politics because he is not a politician and has no political entanglements whatsoever.

CHURCH EVENT BEING PLANNED

Centennial of Christian Church Will be Observed Next eYar.

The centennial of the organization of the Christian church in Columbiana county will be observed at Lisbon during 1927, according to preliminary announcement made by Rev. R. J. Bennett, pastor of the Lisbon Christian church.

The observance of this event will include all churches of this denomination. The program which is to be arranged later will be designed to cover a period of eight days, from one Sunday to and including the following. The month of August will likely be selected as the time of the centennial celebration.

It was in August, 1827, when the Mahoning Baptist association met at Lisbon, and as a result of a sermon delivered by Walter Scott that the congregation then called the Disciples of Christ was formed, those taking part in the meeting of the Baptist association, almost to a man agreeing to drop the name Baptist, and forming the new congregation.

Scott continued his work in Columbiana county, and he soon built up a congregation of about 1,000 men and women. Not a single congregation of this body was in existence when Elder Scott began his plea in 1827.

Sidney Rigdon, who came to Lisbon to take part in the meeting of the Baptist association later became the assistant to Joseph Smith, the founder of the Mormon church in the United States.

Unless preliminary plans miscarry representatives of the Christian church in all states will take part in the centennial services now proposed by the Lisbon congregation.

All Mash-Feeding Test at Experiment Station Successful

As a direct result of using an all-mash method of feeding hens for egg production, it has been explained by County Agent Floyd Lower, of the Farm Bureau, that experiments conducted at the Ohio experiment station with 2,500 layers during the last two years, egg production has been increased.

This information has been given Lower by D. C. Kennard and R. M. Bethke, who have been in charge of the test under the all-mash feeding.

As the all-mash method of feeding is such a radical departure from the customary practice of feeding scratch grain and mash, many poultry keepers may hesitate to change, it has been explained, from the traditional practice, even though they may have employed the new method with the young stock.

"The all-mash method of feeding for egg production promises to become a general practice among poultry raisers," Mr. Lower suggested.

CHURCH EVENT BEING PLANNED

Centennial of Christian Church Will be Observed Next eYar.

The centennial of the organization of the Christian church in Columbiana county will be observed at Lisbon during 1927, according to preliminary announcement made by Rev. R. J. Bennett, pastor of the Lisbon Christian church.

The observance of this event will include all churches of this denomination. The program which is to be arranged later will be designed to cover a period of eight days, from one Sunday to and including the following. The month of August will likely be selected as the time of the centennial celebration.

It was in August, 1827, when the Mahoning Baptist association met at Lisbon, and as a result of a sermon delivered by Walter Scott that the congregation then called the Disciples of Christ was formed, those taking part in the meeting of the Baptist association, almost to a man agreeing to drop the name Baptist, and forming the new congregation.

Scott continued his work in Columbiana county, and he soon built up a congregation of about 1,000 men and women. Not a single congregation of this body was in existence when Elder Scott began his plea in 1827.

Sidney Rigdon, who came to Lisbon to take part in the meeting of the Baptist association later became the assistant to Joseph Smith, the founder of the Mormon church in the United States.

Unless preliminary plans miscarry representatives of the Christian church in all states will take part in the centennial services now proposed by the Lisbon congregation.

All Mash-Feeding Test at Experiment Station Successful

As a direct result of using an all-mash method of feeding hens for egg production, it has been explained by County Agent Floyd Lower, of the Farm Bureau, that experiments conducted at the Ohio experiment station with 2,500 layers during the last two years, egg production has been increased.

This information has been given Lower by D. C. Kennard and R. M. Bethke, who have been in charge of the test under the all-mash feeding.

As the all-mash method of feeding is such a radical departure from the customary practice of feeding scratch grain and mash, many poultry keepers may hesitate to change, it has been explained, from the traditional practice, even though they may have employed the new method with the young stock.

It is declared that by following the new method, laying hens eat clean feed from a feeder; whereas, when scratch grain is fed in the litter, the hens pick up some of the contaminated material along with the grain, especially when they are hungry and greedy. Mr. Lower has also pointed out that the litter is often damp and as it is difficult to feed just the correct amount of scratch grain, a surplus is sometimes left in the damp litter and becomes contaminated with must or mould before it is finally picked up by the hens. "The all-mash method of feeding for egg production promises to become a general practice among poultry raisers," Mr. Lower suggested.

High Gridders to Renew Hostilities With Lisbon Saturday

Strength of Team Will be Saved for Important Clash With Red and Black; Locals Favorites in Game With County Seaters.

Still doubtful as to whether the Larkins-Bromby-McConville trio will be sufficiently recovered from injuries as to get into action Saturday, Coach George Kidder is putting his squad through the paces for its second county contest here on Saturday with Lisbon.

The Blue and White mentor is brushing up the team on its air attack this week, with other contests of the card in mind rather than this week's engagement with the county seaters.

The pass was about 50 percent effective in the Toronto battle and possibly would have been worth more to the team's chances had the receivers gotten out more rapidly than they did. End Dick McKee, who was shifted to a backfield berth, executed his heaves in unerring style but his receivers were slow in getting under them.

Unless strength has been recruited in the last few days the Lisbon eleven of 1926 wil bear no resemblance to the Blue and White machine of bygone years that held rule over county scholastic teams. Only last Saturday the county seat lads were forced to take the short end of a 10-0 count at East Palestine and the locals were one touchdown better, in actuality, than East Palestine, and probably two in theory.

In the event that Center Larkins, and halves Bromby and McConville are in shape, it is hardly possible that Kidder will risk them Saturday with the Salem game looming on November 6. The clash with the Red and Black which a week ago rolled up a 29-0 count at Wellsville, will be staged at Salem.

With this trio back in harness there is little question that the locals can hold their own on straight football but the north countians have a very elaborate pass system which they use to good advantage and this is the threat for which the Blue and White must be prepared.

DEMPSEY SET FOR COMEBACK

Will Fight in Rickard's Heavyweight Campaign.

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—There will be plenty of bozos on the heavyweight hoof doing their buck and wing for local diversion within the ensuing ten months and Jack Dempsey will be in there elevating the instep with the best or the worst of them.

This is the deep, conniving plan of Tex Rickard as outlined to the writer todsy for the greatest heavyweight campaign in the history of boxing. Before he is through, Mr. Rickard will have approximately $2,500,000 of the customers' money and the customers will have approximately all they wish to see of men who were intended to be piano movers but thought better of it. The main idea is to build Dempsey back to where he was in 1919. The customer, ever on the alert in an emergency, will do the rest.

Three Bouts for Jack.

Dempsey, as I understand it, will take part in possibly three matches before October next and one of them will be with Gene Tunney, the man who made him what he is today. Of course, John or Jack, as he is sometimes known, first must clear a hurdle or so before he can presume again to know our Mr. Tunney professionally. In this way, John may be able to convince himself and, at the same time, incite the customers to rioting at the turnstiles. The latter consideration is merely mentioned; it is highly unimportant.

The first victim, or maybe the next champion for all I know, will be Harry Persson, the Swede with a bald head and a general idea. Rickard says Persson is the best looking prospect among the heavyweight contenders. Dempsey agrees with him. That settles it. He's in—unless some unthinking lunkhead in a moment of abstraction knocks him out.

If and provided John gets by this Hombre, the next opponent will be either Jim Maloney or Jack Sharkey. This will be an outdoor shot, if it is held at all. So will any bout involving Dempsey and Berlenbach. All of these gentlemen have ideas and they run into thousands.

Will Do for the Garden.

Persson will do for the garden, however. Being a bit naive or something, he probably will be willing to go there for $1.68 and carfare to the arena. This automatically makes Dempsey and Persson a very desirable indoor attraction. Any guy who will fight for the price of his breakfast ought to be indoors, according to the standards of pugilistica; in fact, they will tell you he ought to be in Mattewan.

Dempsey is scheduled to return to California next week to take stock of himself and see what he has. He says he will quit the ring if he finds he can't fight as he once did. That is plain, undiluted and unpalatable bunk, for the fighter doesn't live who thinks he can't fight, even at the age of 90. Dempsey will be back. So will the customers. More power to both of them, meaning Dempsey and the customers. Unfortunately, there will be more than two customers.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON, Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans.

If you demonstrate the back swing action, as described yesterday, you can next compare it with a start of the back swing in which the left arm moves out away from the body. This will reveal quickly the wrong actions that a shoving out of the left arm can bring about. The swing of the club is really simple and it is such seemingly unimportant details as these that keep many players from advancing greatly in the game. Of course the ball can be hit solidly even when the left arm is shoved outward at the start of the back swing, and often it makes as good a flight as you should want. Still, many of the fives and sixes you take could be turned into fours if the ball didn't fall just short of the green or did not go off direction just enough to drop into trouble. Correct arm action keeps the ball straight.

Breaks Deciding Factor In Case And Oberlin Tilt

Both Teams Expected to Seek Gains by Short Pass.

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 28.—The team which gets the breaks — and takes advantage of them — will win Saturday's contest between Oberlin and Case here in the outstanding Ohio conference clash, according to the gridiron experts.

It will be a case of two teams attempting to conquer with the same style, the short pass. Case has particular need of this type of offensive tactics as her backfield is weak and her attack somewhat impotent.

Art Winters, assistant coach at Case, mastered the short pass while playing at Oberlin. For the last two seasons he has dinned this style into his pupils.

But Coach Savage, of Oberlin, has not let down in perfecting the play at his institution hence an aerial contest is predicted.

While Case is attempting to master the conference-leading Oberlin team, Western Reserve will have its hands full with Cincinnati at Cleveland. Locke's men are said to have the edge in the early dope.

WELLSVILLE ELEVEN IDLE

Shattered Mingo Team Cancels Saturday Game.

With little more left of the original team than the uniforms, wrecked, morally and physically as a result of inroads within the last two weeks, Mingo Junction's high school football eleven, scheduled to play at Wellsville Saturday, has cancelled the engagement and, as a result, the Orange and Black gridders will enjoy a well earned rest.

Faculty Manager Trumbull has been negotiating for three days in an effort to line up a suitable opponent for Klinck's eleven, but the fact that practically all schedules are more or less settled at this stage of the proceedings precluded the booking of a good attraction.

ILLINOIS RING RULES BAR TWO

Sarmiento and McDermott Suspended and Fined.

CHICAGO, Oct. 28.—Pete Sarmiento and Jimmy McDermott, who were thrown out of the ring by Referee Davey Miller for their poor showing in the wind-up bout at Johnny Coulon's show Monday night, today stand suspended.

The Illinois state athletic commission banned the two fighters for six months following an investigation of Monday night's fiasco.

Sarmiento was fined $500 by the commission, and McDermott will forfeit $166.67. The fines, it is said, represent one third of the boxer's purse.

Mingo played four games this season and was unusually unlucky in the matter of injuries and misfortune of one kind or another. Several of the team's stars are suffering from injuries. Others have taken to their beds with attacks of illness, and still others within the last two weeks have withdrawn from school, according to the story of Mingo school authorities. Consequently, the school decided to call off this week's game and, possibly the remainder of the season's contests.

The enforced idleness, however, will not hurt the Orange and Black. One or two of Coach Klinck's mainstays are not in the best of condition as a result of the grueling battle with Salem last Saturday and the rest will do them good. Eschbacher, halfback, is nursing an injured leg and probably will not take part in any strenuous practice sessions until next week.

The next game will take the Wellsville eleven to East Palestine on Saturday, November 6.

SMITH WINNER IN CUE MATCH

Elmer Smith defeated Grant Trout in last night's match in the American billiard tournament. The score was 100 to 72.

Lester Herbert and Bart Shevers are scheluded to play tonight at 8:30.

Big Green Handicapped.

HANOVER, N. H., Oct. 28. — Dartmouth's chances of defeating Brown were further decreased today by an injury to Eddie Dooley's hand, which probably will keep him out of the game. This misfortune upsets the Green's passing attack, in which Dooley was the most imporant cog.

Chester Facing Hard Battle With Toronto

Playing Toronto Saturday afternoon at Chester and taking a layoff on the following week-end, Coach Ray Wilde's Chester eleven has two weeks more of grace before it reaches the crucial game stage of the present campaign.

The West Virginians are hitting their stride, as evidenced in their showing last week against Wellsburg. The Brooke countians were trampled under a rush of touchdowns that netted the Chesterites a 32 to 0 victory and gave the down staters one of their biggest surprises in years.

If they can maintain that pace against Toronto day after tomorrow, this game will be worth seeing, for the Torontoans were good enough to beat the Blue and White of East Liverpool last week by a 6-0 count, although Kidder sent his squad into action minus the services of Captain Larkins at center, and Halfbacks Bromby and McConville.

The November 6 date on the Chester card is open and will remain open, Coach Wilde announced today, unless an easy opponent can be picked up for a practice session. Wilde hesitates to take chances of injuries at this stage of the season with two important contests looking at the fag end of the card.

The first of these two games will be played at East Liverpool and the constantly growing rivalry between the two foes will make the battle a high spot of the scholastic season here.

Another week and a half of rest for the Wilde eleven will follow and then the Purple and Gold will reach the top of its climb at New Cumberland in the contest that will determine the Hancock county scholastic championship.

Both Chester and New Cumberland have triumphed over Weirton, the other member of the triumvirate and, consequently, the Thanksgiving clash will mark the end of the race.

Brick Muller Looms as Pro Rival of Famous Red Grange

CHICAGO, Oct. 28.—Sun-kissed "Brick" Muller, the former university of California star, is looming as a genuine rival of "Red" Grange in America's professional football ranks.

Wide interest in Muller and his Los Angeles Nationals or Buccaneers has been shown in early season play of the pros.

Muller is the stocky California end who made history on the slopes of the Pacific in 1921 when he forward-passed to victory the Golden Bear eleven over the powerful Ohio State team.

The game was played in Pasadena's poinsettia-decked Rose Bowl and when Muller was through throwing 50 yard passes the Bears had hung up a 28 to 0 win.

Five years have rolled by since Muller was in his prime but he has kept in condition to some extent by playing club football on the coast. He also has been active as a coach since he graduated at Berkeley and his knowledge of the game is thorough.

With Muller is "Tut" Imlay, the former University of California halfback, a sensation in coast ranks in recent years. He also has another California back in Young and Maul, fullback, formerly played at Berkeley.

Nolan and McArthur, the Los Angeles guards, played their college days at Santa Clara university, the California school long noted as a producer of star football players.

Newmeyer, Maul and Hufford and other former Californians are with the Muller outfit.

Polish Up Defense.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 28.—The Navy squad concentrated today on perfecting a defense against Michigan's aerial game, and on improving its own passing game. Saturday's contest bids fair to be a battle of the air.

Army Has Light Drill.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 28.—A light workout was scheduled for the Army squad today following a week of hard work. Trapnell is recovering and may get into the Yale game.

High Gridders to Renew Hostilities With Lisbon Saturday

Strength of Team Will be Saved for Important Clash With Red and Black; Locals Favorites in Game With County Seaters.

Still doubtful as to whether the Larkins-Bromby-McConville trio will be sufficiently recovered from injuries as to get into action Saturday, Coach George Kidder is putting his squad through the paces for its second county contest here on Saturday with Lisbon.

The Blue and White mentor is brushing up the team on its air attack this week, with other contests of the card in mind rather than this week's engagement with the county seaters.

The pass was about 50 percent effective in the Toronto battle and possibly would have been worth more to the team's chances had the receivers gotten out more rapidly than they did. End Dick McKee, who was shifted to a backfield berth, executed his heaves in unerring style but his receivers were slow in getting under them.

Unless strength has been recruited in the last few days the Lisbon eleven of 1926 will bear no resemblance to the Blue and White machine of bygone years that held rule over county scholastic teams. Only last Saturday the county seat lads were forced to take the short end of a 10-0 count at East Palestine and the locals were one touchdown better, in actuality, than East Palestine, and probably two in theory.

In the event that Center Larkins, and halves Bromby and McConville are in shape, it is hardly possible that Kidder will risk them Saturday with the Salem game looming on November 6. The clash with the Red and Black which a week ago rolled up a 29-0 count at Wellsville, will be staged at Salem.

With this trio back in harness there is little question that the locals can hold their own on straight football but the north countians have a very elaborate pass system which they use to good advantage and this is the threat for which the Blue and White must be prepared.

DEMPSEY SET FOR COMEBACK

Will Fight in Rickard's Heavyweight Campaign.

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—There will be plenty of bozos on the heavyweight hoof doing their buck and wing for local diversion within the ensuing ten months and Jack Dempsey will be in there elevating the instep with the best or the worst of them.

This is the deep, conniving plan of Tex Rickard as outlined to the writer today for the greatest heavyweight campaign in the history of boxing. Before he is through, Mr. Rickard will have approximately $2,500,000 of the customers' money and the customers will have approximately all they wish to see of men who were intended to be piano movers but thought better of it. The main idea is to build Dempsey back to where he was in 1919. The customer, ever on the alert in an emergency, will do the rest.

Three Bouts for Jack.

Dempsey, as I understand it, will take part in possibly three matches before October next and one of them will be with Gene Tunney, the man who made him what he is today. Of course, John or Jack, as he is sometimes known, first must clear a hurdle or so before he can presume again to know our Mr. Tunney professionally. In this way, John may be able to convince himself and, at the same time, incite the customers to rioting at the turnstiles. The latter consideration is merely mentioned; it is highly unimportant.

The first victim, or maybe the next champion for all I know, will be Harry Persson, the Swede with a bald head and a general idea. Rickard says Persson is the best looking prospect among the heavyweight contenders. Dempsey agrees with him. That settles it. He's in—unless some unthinking lunkhead in a moment of abstraction knocks him out.

If and provided John gets by this Hombre, the next opponent will be either Jim Maloney or Jack Sharkey. This will be an outdoor shot, if it is held at all. So will any bout involving Dempsey and Berlenbach. All of these gentlemen have ideas and they run into thousands.

Will Do for the Garden.

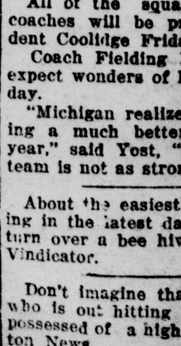

Persson will do for the garden, however. Being a bit naive or something, he probably will be willing to go there for $1.68 and carfare to the arena. This automatically makes Dempsey and Persson a very desirable indoor attraction. Any guy who will fight for the price of his breakfast ought to be indoors, according to the standards of pugilistica; in fact, they will tell you he ought to be in Mattewan.

Dempsey is scheduled to return to California next week to take stock of himself and see what he has. He says he will quit the ring if he finds he can't fight as he once did. That is plain, undiluted and unpalatable bunk, for the fighter doesn't live who thinks he can't fight, even at the age of 90. Dempsey will be back. So will the customers. More power to both of them, meaning Dempsey and the customers. Unfortunately, there will be more than two customers.

INSIDE Ggolf

By CHESTER HORTON, Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans.

If you demonstrate the back swing action, as described yesterday, you can next compare it with a start of the back swing in which the left arm moves out away from the body. This will reveal quickly the wrong actions that a shoving out of the left arm can bring about. The swing of the club is really simple and it is such seemingly unimportant details as these that keep many players from advancing greatly in the game. Of course the ball can be hit solidly even when the left arm is shoved outward at the start of the back swing, and often it makes as good a flight as you should want. Still, many of the fives and sixes you take could be turned into fours if the ball didn't fall just short of the green or did not go off direction just enough to drop into trouble. Correct arm action keeps the ball straight.

"Michigan realizes that it is meeting a much better team than last year," said Yost, "and the Michigan team is not as strong as last year."

The first of these two games will be played at East Liverpool and the constantly growing rivalry between the two foes will make the battle a high spot of the scholastic season here.

Another week and a half of rest for the Wilde eleven will follow and then the Purple and Gold will reach the top of its climb at New Cumberland in the contest that will determine the Hancock county scholastic championship.

Both Chester and New Cumberland have triumphed over Weirton, the other member of the triumvirate and, consequently, the Thanksgiving clash will mark the end of the race.

Brick Muller Looms as Pro Rival of Famous Red Grange

CHICAGO, Oct. 28.—Sun-kissed "Brick" Muller, the former university of California star, is looming as a genuine rival of "Red" Grange in America's professional football ranks.

Wide interest in Muller and his Los Angeles Nationals or Buccaneers has been shown in early season play of the pros.

Muller is the stocky California end who made history on the slopes of the Pacific in 1921 when he forward-passed to victory the Golden Bear eleven over the powerful Ohio State team.

The game was played in Pasadena's poinsettia-decked Rose Bowl and when Muller was through throwing 50 yard passes the Bears had hung up a 28 to 0 win.

Five years have rolled by since Muller was in his prime but he has kept in condition to some extent by playing club football on the coast. He also has been active as a coach since he graduated at Berkeley and his knowledge of the game is thorough.

With Muller is "Tut" Imlay, the former University of California halfback, a sensation in coast ranks in recent years. He also has another California back in Young and Maul, fullback, formerly played at Berkeley.

Nolan and McArthur, the Los Angeles guards, played their college days at Santa Clara university, the California school long noted as a producer of star football players.

Newmeyer, Maul and Hufford and other former Californians are with the Muller outfit.

Polish Up Defense.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 28.—The Navy squad concentrated today on perfecting a defense against Michigan's aerial game, and on improving its own passing game. Saturday's contest bids fair to be a battle of the air.

Army Has Light Drill.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 28.—A light workout was scheduled for the Army squad today following a week of hard work. Trapnell is recovering and may get into the Yale game.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON,
Maker of 51 Golf Champions.
"Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans.

If you demonstrate the back swing action, as described yesterday, you can next compare it with a start of the back swing in which the left arm moves out away from the body. This will reveal quickly the wrong actions that a shoving out of the left arm can bring about. The swing of the club is really simple and it is such seemingly unimportant details as these that keep many players from advancing greatly in the game. Of course the ball can be hit solidly even when the left arm is shoved outward at the start of the back swing, and often it makes as good a flight as you should want. Still, many of the fives and sixes you take could be turned into fours if the ball didn't fall just short of the green or did not go off direction just enough to drop into trouble. Correct arm action keeps the ball straight.

MICHIGAN OFF FOR NAVY GAME

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 28.—Thirty four football men, representing Michigan's threat to eastern intersectional supremacy will leave here this afternoon for Baltimore, Md., to engage the United States Naval academy eleven Saturday.

All of the squad members and coaches will be presented to President Coolidge Friday night.

"Michigan realizes that it is meeting a much better team than last year," said Yost, "and the Michigan team is not as strong as last year."

Greenwich Village Follies Comes To Ceramic Tuesday

Mail Orders Now Being Received for New York Revue Headed by McIntyre and Heath.

Mail orders are now being received and filled in order of their receipt for the "Greenwich Village Follies" which is scheduled for the local presentation at the Ceramic theatre, Tuesday, Nov. 2.

The latest all new edition of the "Greenwich Village Follies" is as usual, a gorgeous spectacle, overflowing with beautiful girls, brilliant, dazzling and gay. It is a typical John Murray Anderson revue, skillfully assembled and produced with a touch of glamour that is satisfying.

It is one of the most expensive organizations to visit this city in years. Two acts and some 35 scenes being required to reveal its gorgeous splendor.

The "Follies" has plenty of good comedy, excellent comedians and specialty dancers and a stunning chorus of 40 vivacious dancing beauties who contribute much to the success of perennial spectacle.

The cast is headed by McIntyre and Heath, two of the best known comedians on the American stage. Other revue notables are Janet Winters, Leonard Sillman Bob Brandies, Bud Williamson, Miriam Meade, James Cushman, Elsbeth Holman, Dorothy Cadwell, Elsie James, Rosemary Farmar, Eva Scase and others.

LADIES!

Don't wave your hair daily—or even every week. Here's a way to keep it wavy for days at a time. BEFORE you use your iron, or curlers, DAMPEN the hair with DANDERINE. Just a few DROPS on comb or towel. Your locks will then behave for a MONTH! Of course, you know what Danderine does to dandruff; dissolves every speck, within five minutes of rubbing into the scalp. But as a wave-preserver on the hair itself, Danderine is a JOY. The best dressing in the world because it doesn't show. Any permanent wave or water wave lasts much longer and looks much nicer when Danderine is used instead of water to "set" the wave.

Ask Your Druggist

Get a bottle of Danderine and start its benefits today. Every drugstore in America has it, for only 35c. For the finest dressing you could find, and the best aid to hair health yet discovered, just try—

Woman Loves Housework, Has Good Time

"I had stomach gas so bad that work was a burden and I was always drowsy. Adlerika is the best medicine I ever took. Since taking it, I feel like doing my work and enjoy life again."—Mrs. W. H. Clintsman.

Adlerika gives the system a REAL cleansing and brings out old poisons which may have caused trouble for a long time. Unlike most medicines, it acts upon BOTH upper and lower bowel. Just one spoonful relieves GAS and takes away that full, bloated feeling so that you can eat better and sleep better. Even if bowels move daily, Adlerika brings out much additional poison which you never thought was in your system and which caused sour, gassy stomach, nervousness, headache. No matter what you have tried for your stomach and bowels, Adlerika will surprise you. At druggists. In East Liverpool at the Economy Drug Store, and other Druggists.

Do You Like My Hair?

By Edna Wallace Hopper

That fluff, that curl, that sheen? Then go use what I use to get it—a hair dress which great experts made especially for me. I have no time for a hairdresser, never have a Marcel wave. I simply apply this dressing of mine twice a week.

It is a wonderful thing in summer. Hair always looks tidy and curly. It looks abundant. It doubles the beauty of my hair in an hour.

All toilet counters supply this dressing at 75c a bottle. It is called Edna Wallace Hopper's Wave and Sheen. My guarantee comes with each bottle. Go try it now and learn what I did. You will be delighted. It's a find.

Greenwich Village Follies Comes To Ceramic Tuesday

Mail Orders Now Being Received for New York Revue Headed by McIntyre and Heath.

Mail orders are now being received and filled in order of their receipt for the "Greenwich Village Follies" which is scheduled for the local presentation at the Ceramic theatre, Tuesday, Nov. 2.

The latest all new edition of the "Greenwich Village Follies" is as usual, a gorgeous spectacle, overflowing with beautiful girls, brilliant, dazzling and gay. It is a typical John Murray Anderson revue, skillfully assembled and produced with a touch of glamour that is satisfying.

It is one of the most expensive organizations to visit this city in years. Two acts and some 35 scenes being required to reveal its gorgeous splendor.

The "Follies" has plenty of good comedy, excellent comedians and specialty dancers and a stunning chorus of 40 vivacious dancing beauties who contribute much to the success of perennial spectacle.

The cast is headed by McIntyre and Heath, two of the best known comedians on the American stage. Other revue notables are Janet Winters, Leonard Sillman Bob Brandies, Bud Williamson, Miriam Meade, James Cushman, Elsbeth Holman, Dorothy Cadwell, Elsie James, Rosemary Farmar, Eva Scase and others.

LADIES!

Don't wave your hair daily—or even every week. Here's a way to keep it wavy for days at a time. BEFORE you use your iron, or curlers, DAMPEN the hair with DANDERINE. Just a few DROPS on comb or towel. Your locks will then behave for a MONTH! Of course, you know what Danderine does to dandruff; dissolves every speck, within five minutes of rubbing into the scalp. But as a wave-preserver on the hair itself, Danderine is a JOY. The best dressing in the world because it doesn't show. Any permanent wave or water wave lasts much longer and looks much nicer when Danderine is used instead of water to "set" the wave.

Ask Your Druggist

Get a bottle of Danderine and start its benefits today. Every drugstore in America has it, for only 35c. For the finest dressing you could find, and the best aid to hair health yet discovered, just try—

Woman Loves Housework, Has Good Time

Adlerika gives the system a REAL cleansing and brings out old poisons which may have caused trouble for a long time. Unlike most medicines, it acts upon BOTH upper and lower bowel. Just one spoonful relieves GAS and takes away that full, bloated feeling so that you can eat better and sleep better. Even if bowels move daily, Adlerika brings out much additional poison which you never thought was in your system and which caused sour, gassy stomach, nervousness, headache. No matter what you have tried for your stomach and bowels, Adlerika will surprise you. At druggists. In East Liverpool at the Economy Drug Store, and other Druggists.

Do You Like My Hair?

By Edna Wallace Hopper

That fluff, that curl, that sheen? Then go use what I use to get it—a hair dress which great experts made especially for me. I have no time for a hairdresser, never have a Marcel wave. I simply apply this dressing of mine twice a week.

It is a wonderful thing in summer. Hair always looks tidy and curly. It looks abundant. It doubles the beauty of my hair in an hour.

All toilet counters supply this dressing at 75c a bottle. It is called Edna Wallace Hopper's Wave and Sheen. My guarantee comes with each bottle. Go try it now and learn what I did. You will be delighted. It's a find.

Greenwich Village Follies Comes To Ceramic Tuesday

Mail Orders Now Being Received for New York Revue Headed by McIntyre and Heath.

Mail orders are now being received and filled in order of their receipt for the "Greenwich Village Follies" which is scheduled for the local presentation at the Ceramic theatre, Tuesday, Nov. 2.

The latest all new edition of the "Greenwich Village Follies" is as usual, a gorgeous spectacle, overflowing with beautiful girls, brilliant, dazzling and gay. It is a typical John Murray Anderson revue, skillfully assembled and produced with a touch of glamour that is satisfying.

It is one of the most expensive organizations to visit this city in years. Two acts and some 35 scenes being required to reveal its gorgeous splendor.

The "Follies" has plenty of good comedy, excellent comedians and specialty dancers and a stunning chorus of 40 vivacious dancing beauties who contribute much to the success of perennial spectacle.

The cast is headed by McIntyre and Heath, two of the best known comedians on the American stage. Other revue notables are Janet Winters, Leonard Sillman Bob Brandies, Bud Williamson, Miriam Meade, James Cushman, Elsbeth Holman, Dorothy Cadwell, Elsie James, Rosemary Farmar, Eva Scase and others.

LADIES!

Don't wave your hair daily—or even every week. Here's a way to keep it wavy for days at a time. BEFORE you use your iron, or curlers, DAMPEN the hair with DANDERINE. Just a few DROPS on comb or towel. Your locks will then behave for a MONTH! Of course, you know what Danderine does to dandruff; dissolves every speck, within five minutes of rubbing into the scalp. But as a wave-preserver on the hair itself, Danderine is a JOY. The best dressing in the world because it doesn't show. Any permanent wave or water wave lasts much longer and looks much nicer when Danderine is used instead of water to "set" the wave.

Ask Your Druggist

Get a bottle of Danderine and start its benefits today. Every drugstore in America has it, for only 35c. For the finest dressing you could find, and the best aid to hair health yet discovered, just try—

Woman Loves Housework, Has Good Time

"I had stomach gas so bad that work was a burden and I was always drowsy. Adlerika is the best medicine I ever took. Since taking it, I feel like doing my work and enjoy life again."—Mrs. W. H. Clintsman.

Adlerika gives the system a REAL cleansing and brings out old poisons which may have caused trouble for a long time. Unlike most medicines, it acts upon BOTH upper and lower bowel. Just one spoonful relieves GAS and takes away that full, bloated feeling so that you can eat better and sleep better. Even if bowels move daily, Adlerika brings out much additional poison which you never thought was in your system and which caused sour, gassy stomach, nervousness, headache. No matter what you have tried for your stomach and bowels, Adlerika will surprise you. At druggists. In East Liverpool at the Economy Drug Store, and other Druggists.

Do You Like My Hair?

By Edna Wallace Hopper

That fluff, that curl, that sheen? Then go use what I use to get it—a hair dress which great experts made especially for me. I have no time for a hairdresser, never have a Marcel wave. I simply apply this dressing of mine twice a week.

It is a wonderful thing in summer. Hair always looks tidy and curly. It looks abundant. It doubles the beauty of my hair in an hour.

All toilet counters supply this dressing at 75c a bottle. It is called Edna Wallace Hopper's Wave and Sheen. My guarantee comes with each bottle. Go try it now and learn what I did. You will be delighted. It's a find.

COLLEEN MOORE AT AMERICAN

"We Moderns," a story of the younger British generation, with the ever ebullient Colleen Moore as the star, will prove a surprise to patrons of the American theatre, where it will begin a two-day run tomorrow.

Pitched against a canvas that fairly palpitates with the din and bustle of London life, photographed in the actuality, Miss Moore is seen not only in an entirely new frame, but presents a distinctly British after-the-war development, in her characterisation of Mary Sundale.

The play is adapted from an Israel Zangwell novel, with June Mathis responsible for the screen version. It was directed by John Francis Dillon, who gave screen fans those two flapper epics, "The Perfect Flapper" and "Flaming Youth," by means of which Colleen originally climbed to stellar heights on the screen.

The picture was produced by John McCormick for First National.

COLLEEN MOORE AT AMERICAN

"We Moderns," a story of the younger British generation, with the ever ebullient Colleen Moore as the star, will prove a surprise to patrons of the American theatre, where it will begin a two-day run tomorrow.

Pitched against a canvas that fairly palpitates with the din and bustle of London life, photographed in the actuality, Miss Moore is seen not only in an entirely new frame, but presents a distinctly British after-the-war development, in her characterization of Mary Sundale.

The play is adapted from an Israel Zangwell novel, with June Mathias responsible for the screen version. It was directed by John Francis Dillon, who gave screen fans those two flapper epics, "The Perfect Flapper" and "Flaming Youth," by means of which Colleen originally climbed to steller heights on the screen.

Do Your Gums Bleed and Recede from the Teeth?

Tender, sore or bleeding gums, or gums fissured or receding from the teeth, indicate DEADLY PYORRHEA—the teeth's worst enemy. The disease first attacks the gums, later the tooth structure. As the gums recede from the teeth, pus pockets are formed, in which toxic poisons develop to be absorbed by the system and become the possible sources of other dangerous diseases. Don't let Pyorrhea endanger your health. The ravages of this terrible disease can be stopped, the gums healed and the poison the system has been absorbing checked, by the use of VINCENT'S PYORRHEA TREATMENT. For further particulars write,

Francs and Cotton.
Nature Rampageous.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune.)

Copyright, 1926, by the Star Co.

"NOTHING can be done to stabilize the price of cotton; that would be an economic sin, against the sacred law of supply and demand." So you are told, and then your read this morning, how Belgium wanted fifty millions from us to stabilize the Belgian franc, and the stabilizing bonds "were gobbled up in less than half an hour after Wall Street offered them."

WHY a Belgian franc, made of paper, should be better security than the cotton crop of America is for high finance to say. Belgium sold her $50,000,000 bonds in New York between ten and ten-thirty yesterday morning, at $96 for a $100 bond, so the buyer gets seven and a half per cent of his money and the banks get their "rake-off."

WE ARE all glad to help dear Belgium, or Mesopotamia, or King Feisal, but what a pity we cannot find a way to help the American cotton grower. He also has some claim on American sympathy. One trouble is that he is not able to offer usurious rates of interest.

NATURE is worrying her children, all over the world, with high winds, earthquakes, tidal waves, electric ... New York City and Paris, 3,... apart, are swept by a hurricane; in the same twenty-four hours ships are blown over at sea.

Yesterday violent storms were raging all over France, with heavy rain and snow.

Science tells you that the trouble comes from our sun, a giant magnet with electric storms and huge fiery upheavals, in which our earth would be lost like a snowflake in Vesuvius. That is no comfort, but let us consider what might be and be grateful.

THE British empire is having trouble with the free unities that make up its "far-flung" dominions. Britain says "our power protects you, so give preference to British trade." The colonies are cold to that idea. South Africa demands the right to draw any color line it pleases, especially against Hindus that are British subjects.

CANTON AUTHORITIES ADMIT PRISONER HAS MADE NO CONFESSION

WEBSTER CASE GOES TO JURY

CADIZ, O., Oct. 28.—After organizing and electing a foreman, the jury which will decide the fate of Mrs Harry Webster, formerly of Columbus, charged with the second degree murder of her husband, a dry raider, was taken to lunch early this afternoon. It had not deliberated on the case.

The defense announced it had completed its case when court reconvened this morning and that Mrs. Webster would not be called to the stand again. Arguments were submitted at once and the charge was begun at 11 o'clock.

M'DERMOTT KIN OFFER WIDOW $5,000 REWARD

Letter Mailed to Mrs. Don R. Mellett From Nanty Glo.

NANTY GLO, Pa., Oct. 28.—A letter from Thomas J. McDermott, brother of Patrick McDermott, so-called "key figure" in the Don R. Mellett murder, to Mrs. Mellett, widow of the Canton publisher, offering her the $5,000 reward he was entitled to receive for Pat's capture, was in the mails today, Thomas McDermott said at his home here.

The letter, addressed to Mrs. Mellett in care of the Canton News, asked her to accept the money, "if not for yourself, for the education of the children of Don R. Mellett," and expressed the sympathy of the McDermott family for the widow.

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 28.—Mrs. Don R. Mellett, widow of the slain Canton, O., publisher, today stated she had received no offer from a brother of Pat McDermott to accept the $5,000 he was entitled to receive for McDermott's return, to assist in the education of her children, as had been reported.

Mrs. Mellett said that the letter may be in the mails, but at yet she had received no such word.

SHEPHERD WINS ESTATE FIGHT

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 28.—William D. Shepherd of Chicago today won his fight for possession of the million dollar estate of "Billy" McClintock, when the state supreme court affirmed the verdict of the Cook county circuit court admitting McClintock's will to probate.

"Billy" McClintock died at Shepherd's home in Chicago following which Shepherd was tried and acquitted of a charge of poisoning the youth.

WARREN, O., MAN DIES ON TRAIN

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 28.—John D. Robertson, 50, an official of the Warren Tool and Forge company, Warren, Ohio, died on a train as it was arriving here today.

Apoplexy was given as the cause of his sudden death.

VALUABLE HINTS GIVEN, HOWEVER

By BEN STERN.

CANTON, O., Oct. 28.—"Pat McDermott has not confessed."

Despite all reports to the contrary, the alleged "triggerman" in the slaying of Don R. Mellett on the morning of July 16, has not divulged who killed Mellett or under what circumstances the crime was committed.

This was the flat statement made today by Prosecutor C. B. McClintock and Ora Slater, Ohio's detective ace.

Gives Important Information.

They also issued the following statement over their signatures:

"Pat McDermott has not confessed. He has, however, given some important information which cannot be divulged at this time. We are, however making satisfactory progress.

(Signed)

"C. B. McCLINTOCK.
"ORA SLATER."

Aroused to indignaiton over reports being disseminated that McDermott had confessed and incriminated Ben Rudner and Louis Mazer, both indicted on charges of first degree murder as a result of the Mellett slaying together with an unnamed former member of the Canton police department, Slater and McClintock asked that the statement that such reports were absolutely untrue be published.

"Publication of false reports of this sort obstruct the course of justice and hinder us in our investigation," McClintock said

"We seem to have McDermott on the verge of talking and then by some grapevine intelligence system he learns of these stories and refuses to hold any further conversation, claiming that we are violating his confidences."

A legal battle took the stage today as Edward L. Mills, Canton attorney for Ben Rudner and Louis Mazer, facing trial with McDermott on first degree murder indictments, prepared to face Prosecutor McClintock before Judge A. W. Agler in a contest to decide whether Mills will be permitted to interview McDermott.

Mills today asked to see McDermott on the grounds that the latter is a witness material to Mazer's defense and that he had expressed a desire to talk to the attorney, who upon presenting himself at the Canton work-

60-DAY SENTENCE IS SUSPENDED

Judge Hanley today suspended a 60-day jail sentence meted out to Harry McArtor, of Minerva who was found guilty upon a charge of non-support.

McArtor was arrested upon an affidavit signed by his wife Mrs. Leota McArtor, of Salineville, who charged that the husband had failed to provide for the support of their 17-month-old daughter, Betty, since the child's birth. The husband was released upon payments of the costs in the case and his promise to contribute $4 weekly toward the support of the child.

PARIS DENIES BERLIN REPORT THAT RUMANIAN KING IS DYING

SON IN FRANCE

Hint Queen Marie May Cancel Her American Tour.

PARIS, Oct. 28.—Reports that King Ferdinand of Roumania is critically ill were emphatically denied here today.

Prince Carol's household denied flatly that the prince has been called to the bedside of his father.

VIENNA, Oct. 28.—The condition of King Ferdinand of Roumania is serious and Prince Carol, who renounced his rights to the throne, has been summoned to the king's bedside, according to dispatches published in the local press.

Suffers from Nervous Trouble.

BERLIN, Oct. 28.—The condition of King Ferdinand of Roumania has taken a sudden turn for the worse, and his death may be expected at any time, according to a dispatch today to the Lokal Anzeiger from its Bucharest correspondent.

This news, coming on the heels of the controversy over the reported request from the Bucharest foreign office for Queen Marie to cancel her American tour and return home immediately, revived speculation as to the length of the queen's sojourn in the United States.

It has been known that the king has been suffering for some time from nervous trouble, but it had not been estimated that his condition was critical.

Warning Against Rumors.

The Lokal Anzeiger report is contrary to reports which have been received from other sources, which would indicate that King Ferdinand's condition is not critical.

From the Roumanian foreign office and from the spokesmen for Queen Marie in this country there have come repeated warnings that sensational rumors purporting to come from Bucharest should be discounted.

The first report that King Ferdinand had cabled Queen Marie to come home were officially denied.

A later report was circulated, for which there is no apparent foundation, that the queen's physician had ordered her home.

Now comes the report of the critical illness of King Ferdinand which is received by a single European newspaper and is as yet unconfirmed from other sources.

Queen in Canadian Capital.

OTTAWA, ONT.—(Aboard Queen Marie's Special Train)—Oct. 28.—Facing her most strenuous program of entertaining since coming to America, Queen Marie of Roumania arrived in the Canadian capital today. It was the royal party's last day in the east before penetrating the scenic wonders of the west tomorrow with a 1,200-mile railroad "hop" to Winnipeg.

Dr. Edward Miskall Chosen City Health Commissioner

Resignation of Dr. John Fraser as city health commissioner, effective December 31, was accepted by the board of health last night.

Dr. Edward Miskall, graduate of Ohio State University, and a son of the late Postmaster M. E. Miskall, was named to fill the place. Dr. Miskall will assume his duties on January 1, 1927.

Dr. Fraser was appointed about three years ago, succeeding Dr. Thomas Rhodes, resigned. His practice has grown to such an extent, he explained in his resignation, that he finds it impossible to devote sufficient time to his health board duties.

Dr. Miskall, his successor, is now interne at a Springfield, Mass., hospital, but will return to this city before the first of the year.

Contagious disease report of Dr. Fraser showed three cases of diphtheria, one of scarlet fever and one of tuberculosis during October. Nine new cases were admitted to the public health clinic. Treatments given during the month totalled 152, of which 118 were for male patients and 34 for female.

Mrs. Alice Davidson, registrar of vital statistics, reported 54 births, 30 males and 24 females, and 31 deaths, of which 18 were male and 13 females.

SPEAKERS WILL VISIT THEATRES TONIGHT IN BOND ISSUE DRIVE

Support of City Building Proposal Will be Urged in Short Talks in Three Playhouses.

Speakers will invade local theatres tonight in the interests of the proposed $225,000 municipal building bond issue which will be submitted to the electors next Tuesday.

Attorney Ben L. Bennett will visit the Strand theatre on Monday evening. Members of city council and other municipal officers will discuss the proposal at a smoker to be given the same evening by the Northside civic association at the Northside fire station.

Mayor Ralph Benedum and President of Council N. P. Kerr spoke at a school levy rally in the Gardendale school building last evening. The proposed tax was explained by Superintendent C. S. McVay and School Board Members Wilhelm, Stevenson and Weaver. Mayor Benedum and Kerr have been invited to attend a meeting of the American Legion post Monday evening to discuss the city building movement.

Councils preparing an affidavit, to be signed by all members, pledging that the city building will be erected on the Taylor lot, West Sixth street, or the fire station site, St. Clair avenue and Broadway, if the proposed bond issue is approved.

LONDON PSYCHIC EXPERT CLAIMS RECEIPT OF MESSAGE FROM MARS

Geneva Astronomers Report Planet of Today is Quite Different From That of Two Years Ago.

LONDON, Oct. 28.—A message from Mars has been received on this sphere, according to Dr. Robinson, psychic expert, who yesterday paid commercial rates to have a message to Mars sent out by radio.

Further than this Dr. Robinson declined to go and would not translate his message to Mars, which read "Opesti nipitia secomba."

"Last year I had radio communication with the planet," Dr. Robinson said, "sending and receiving messages while I was in a trance. I understand the Martians' language, which is a language of the brain."

Heavy clouds interfered with the majority of astronomical observations from London and other parts of England during the night. Some dark markings on the surface of the distant planet were distinguished, but all lesser markings were indistinct or almost wholly invisible most of the time.

GENEVA, Oct. 28.—Astronomers report that the Mars of today is quite different from the Mars observed two years ago.

Professor Schaer of the Jungfrau Joch observatory reports that "Mars is a changed planet and now presents a very luminous pale yellow disc with its equatorial continents a dark brown color, while the polar cap, which was very small in August, has now nearly disappeared."

TROLLEY CAR RUNS AWAY ON STEEP GRADE AT WHEELING

MOTORMAN DIES

Conductor and One Passenger Seriously Injured.

WHEELING, W. VA., Oct. 28.—One man was killed, seven persons were seriously injured, two of whom may die, and a score of other passengers suffered slight injuries here early today when a street car, operating to Mozart park, ran away on a steep grade at the foot of the long hill and crashed through a store as it failed to negotiate a turn.

Two Others May Die.

Frank S. Eberlein, 65, motorman on the car, was dead when extricated from the wrecked vestibule.

Joseph Gaus, 46, conductor, suffered a broken leg and internal injuries. He is not expected to live.

... also suffered internal injuries and may die.

Fog Made Rails Slippery.

The trolley, carrying many to work, had slipped and skidded several times going down the hill, a heavy fog having made the rails slippery. As it struck the last steep grade, the car gathered momentum, careened as it swung around a sharp curve and then darted down the last 200 yards, a straight away stretch of track.

Traveling at terrific speed, it dashed across a bridge, hit the last turn toward the Leel road, reared on its side and crashed all the way through the Leo Peck grocery store, burying the vestibule of the car in the hill at the back of the store.

FIVE HURT AS AUTOS CRASH

Two Possibly Fatally Injured on Delaware River Bridge.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 28. — Five Philadelphia and Camden, N. J., persons were injured, two possibly fatally, early today when three automobiles crashed on the Delaware river bridge connecting Philadelphia and Camden.

The automobile driven by James Sperry, of Brooklyn, N. J., traveling toward Philadelphia, police said, struck the side of the bridge, veering into a second machine, overturning it and hurling it against a third car, which also was overturned. The occupants of the third machine were severely injured, but passengers of the second car escaped with minor injuries.

DEPUTY STATE SUPERVISORS OF ELECTIONS OIL MACHINERY FOR BALLOTING IN 105 PRECINCTS OF COLUMBIANA COUNTY ON TUESDAY

The election board machinery for Columbiana county's balloting on Tuesday, Nov. 2, when state, district and county officials will be chosen, a chief justice and two other judges of the supreme court, as well as one appellate jurist and one common pleas judge named and judgment passed upon a proposed state constitutional amendment and local issues, was oiled today.

With the exception of a few minor details, everything is in readiness for the battle, Chief Deputy J. S. Hilbert and Clerk J. W. Moore of the deputy state supervisors of elections announced at noon.

Ballots for the precincts in the northern part of the county will be packed tomorrow morning and distributed Saturday at the court house in Lisbon.

Supplies for the southern precincts will be packed Friday night and distributed Monday night at the election board's headquarters in the Betz building, Market street, East Liverpool, and the C. N. Brannan drug store, Main street, Wellsville.

The deputy state supervisors will be in session at the East Liverpool office from 1 until 2 p. m. Saturday and Monday to pass upon applications for special registration. East Liverpool electors who neglected to enroll for the presidential election in 1924 or a subsequent balloting, will be given certificates of registration if they were 50 miles distant from their home precinct on each of the four regular registration days—Sept. 30, Oct. 7, 15 and 16.

Registrars, who will receive supplies at the Betz building at 3 p. m. Monday, will be on duty in the city's 21 precincts from 5 to 9 p. m. that day to enroll persons who have been given special certificates and to issue and accept transfers.

More than 100 county voters have applied for ballots under the provisions of the absent elector's law. Time limit for voting under this measure expires Saturday night.

Instructions will be given the 105 presiding judges in the county relative to the counting of ballots Tuesday night. They will be advised to first count the state, district and county ticket, then the judicial and proposed state amendment. Local issues will be the last to be tabulated.

Upon completion of the respective counts, they will telephone the figures to district tabulators in East Liverpool, Wellsville, Salineville, East Rochester, Lisbon, East Palestine and Salem. District representatives, in turn, will forward totals to headquarters here.

GLITTER

BOOK FOUR—XV.

"Yes, come on, go with us, Yvonne," added Cecily.

"Can't," said Yvonnie. "Can't possibly. I'm dead for sleep, and I'm going back to bed as soon as you two leave." She dimpled down at Cecily. "I hate to give you away, honey, but the truth will out! She chattered about you all night, Jock."

"Don't tell him what I said!" begged Cecily.

("My God," thought Jock, "a girl who can blush!")

"Oh, I won't, I'll never tell him," promised Yvonne.

After this Cecily vanished into the bed room, muttering something about "safety pins," and Jock and Yvonne were alone. He kissed her gently, his hands framing her face. "I wish you'd come," he said.

"Honestly, my dear, I don't feel like it."

They exchanged a long look, Jock's quizzical, Yvonne's even and smiling. "What is the trouble?" she asked at last. "If a person just doesn't want any breakfast—"

She let the sentence hang there, and presently Jock opened a new topic. "What did you do about Cecily's mother?"

"Oh, I telephoned her after we got here last night, in my best drawing-room voice, and told her I was Mrs. Somebody-or-other — Cecily gave me the name—and that her daughter was spending the night with my daughter and would be home this morning some time. You'll have to drive her out there later on. And don't scold her too much, will you? She thinks you're simply going to lay her low, and she's worried to death. She explained it all to me at great length—said, 'you see I'm sort of a pupil of his'—" Yvonne broke off to laugh reminiscently. "Isn't she the cunningest?" she finished. "You know, I'm wild about her."

Then Cecily re-entered, looking down at the shortened skirt as she walked and kicking her legs forward to get the effect, somewhat in the manner of a goose-stepping soldier. "How is it?" she inquired. "I had to use plain pins in some places. And I borrowed a pair of stockings, Yvonne, and these pumps, because red ones look too ridic at breakfast time. Oh, and this hat, too. You don't mind, do you?"

Yvonne said that indeed she didn't mind, and Jock reflected that Yvonne really ought to give Cecily the hat as a present, so wonderfully it suited her. And he bundled her into her soft gray squirrel coat, and off they went, calling back good-byes to Yvonne from the hall.

"Good-bye!" echoed Yvonne gayly.

XVI.

"I'm going to bawl you out, as I said," began Jock, when they were face to face over two orange-juice wells sunk into two miniature icebergs. "But first I'm going to tell you that I think the transformation is—is miraculous. Duckling into swan, and all in one short year—I don't see how you did it."

"Year and two months," Cecily corrected him. "Well, you don't know how hard I've worked at it!"

"You must have."

"I've remembered every last thing you told me, Jock. Did you notice the dress I had on last night, for instance? 'Get red,' you said, 'something that knocks 'em in the eye.' Did it knock you in the eye, Jock? Say it did!"

But Jock had grown severe. "Right here," he asserted, "is where the fight starts. Did I, or did I not, tell you to run around with men like Loomis, who is one of the lower and lousier gutter-pups, as anybody can see at a glance—and did I ever tell you to go getting potted like you were last night?

"I'll tell you, Cecily," he went on, "the way I feel about it. I feel as though I'd met you up on the top of a nice little white hill, and I'd said, 'Here, here's a sled.' And you'd climbed aboard, and I'd given you a little push, and it turned out to be a big push after all and took you whizzing past where I wanted you to go. It's got me all worried, and I wish I'd left you just where you were."

Cecily sighed. "Oh, dear, I just knew you'r take it that way!"

"Well, sure! How else would I take it? When I was the egg who—

"Shoot."

Cecily put both elbows on the table and dug a determined small chin into the back of one hand. "I don't know just where to begin," she said, "but here's the way it was. This whole year and two months has been one long preparation for the time when I'd see you again. Not because it was you, particularly," she amended quickly, "but—well, you know. Like studying a lesson and then reciting. I wanted you to see how hard I'd tried and how—how well I'd got along, so you'd know that all your trouble wasn't just for nothing. You see what I mean, don't you?"

"That was why I blubbered and blubbered last night," Cecily went on. "You thought it was one of those weeping jags, didn't you? Well, it wasn't. It because, after all that waiting, I had to be intoxicated when you saw me again. Why, Jock—" Her voice rose to a sudden small wail—"I never was intoxicated in my life before! I never was! And I never was on a party with Perry Loomis, and I never would have been if he hadn't told me there were going to be ten of us or something. Jock, you—believe me, don't you?" she pleaded.

"I don't know what happened," Cecily said dismally. "I swear I don't. I've had a couple of drinks lots of evenings, and they've never affected me a bit. But we got to that Tavern place, and Perry said we'd have to wait a while till the others came in, and we waited and waited, and I had two drinks, that was all. And the first I knew everything was kind of floating in a funny way, and some man who looked exactly like you only a little fuzzy around the edges—you know how—was playing the banjo. And then, while I was trying to figure out whether it could be you and what you'd be doing playing the banjo—you see, Dopey's moved away from East Orange and I never see him now, so I didn't know—then Perry started saying that there weren't any others coming after all, and—and saying other things—"

She stopped, quite out of breath, and peered anxiously into Jock's face. "You're not still angry, are you?"

"Not at you. But if I ever see that—well, but go on."

The Improved Anchor Hot Blast Heater Has No Equal

Wherever heating stoves are used, the Anchor Hot Blast Heater proves its superiority—proves that in downright efficiency, in convenience, in actual economy, it is without an equal.

This superiority is not an accident, but is the result of many years of practical and scientific heating-stove manufacture and practical tests.

The features of construction in the Anchor Hot Blast Heater meet every requirement of heating-stove efficiency and long-time service. Highest quality materials, expert workmanship, and scientific design combine to give a heating result unequalled in this type of heater.

The Anchor Hot Blast wil burn any fuel—hard coal, soft coal, lignite, wood, or coke, giving a uniform heat under perfect control, and a slow, economical combustion. Because of the hot-blast feature, the gases from soft coal are completely burned, making a ton of soft coal about equal to a ton of the more expensive hard coal.

Careful attention has been applie dto every detail of construction. And it is mounted absolutely air-tight and remains air-tight, because these details have been perfected and made practical.

In addition to a fine appearance that will last the life of the stove, the Anchor Hot Blast offers real home comfort and a saving of 25% on your fuel bill.

Logical Gubernatorial Choice

Political campaigns never become what you would call hot until they get close to voting time. The present one seems now to be warming up, not in the matter of bitter attacks, but in the public's interest in the candidates. The whole thing so far has been very pleasingly decent. There have been no personal jibes of any sort. Mr. Donahey goes about talking of what he has done, Mr. Cooper of what he expects to do, and that certainly is fair enough.

The Republican candidate, who comes right out of the world of business rather than politics, has made some rather interesting statements. It has been stated as fact—and public records were used as the source of the information—that the state of Ohio has consumed enough gasoline in a twelve-month period to travel 3,000,000 miles. We own more automobiles, many of them pleasure cars, than any state in the union. If that charge is true, Mr. Donahey should receive only the votes of those families for which he has provided limousines and gasoline. It it isn't true, the governor should leave not the slightest shadow of doubt about its falsity.

Politics, at its very best, is one of the greatest evils of the greatest nation on earth. It may be a necessary evil, but we doubt very much if it need to be so terribly evil. Imagine taxpayers throughout the entire state, scraping together hard-earned money to pay their fair share of the cost of government without the hope of owning an automobile—and there are some left who do not have them. If pleasure cars are bought out of state funds for political job-holders then we certainly have had enough of machine politics.

Cooper looks like a new deal in state affairs. He has never been in politics, has never been a candidate before, and promises real business methods in managing the affairs of the state. Undoubtedly he is a capable man who has been successful, is thoroughly respected and is a solid, Christian citizen. That pretty well describes the kind of governor we ought to have.

The Review-Tribune has no fear in recommending Myers Cooper as the most logical gubernatorial choice on the ground that the state of Ohio needs a capable executive, schooled in the wide world of business affairs. Governor Donahey has certainly had no mistreatment in these columns. If he is re-elected, he may expect none. Praise and criticism will be unstinted according to the fairest possible analysis of his official conduct and methods. But, frankly, we believe the best interests of the state will be served by the election of Myers Cooper at the polls next Tuesday because, for one thing, we are sorely tired of politics, and we strongly urge the adoption of strict, honest, dollar-for-dollar business dealing in transacting the tremendously important affairs of Ohio. Let us, for a change, elect a governor on a pure platform of common-sense business administration, and then insist that he adhere to it strictly.

Man Wanted

Rosa Penselle, the American opera star, is advertising for an American husband. At least that is what it sounds like in a recent interview. Here, brethren, are the specifications:

"I don't want to marry anyone in my own profession." Evidently one artist in a family is enough. She doesn't want an artistic rival, but a man who would "admire her art." Which is one of the things husbands are for.

'A fine type of business man, or perhaps a great publisher or lawyer, would do." Tell that to the Rotary, Kiwanis and Lions clubs, and the bar and publishers' associatian.

She wants a man she "can trust and admire," preferably a blond. And most particularly, he must be a "big man." She is tired of little fellows.

Rosa says a woman ought to marry before 30, and so she is in a hurry.

Buried Treasure

Paul Oriakoski, a Pittsburgh convict, sentenced to death for kiling two prison guards, goes to his death "bearing with him the secret of where $100,000 loot is hidden." The money was gained in bank robberies.

Myths will grow up around that treasure. It may be sought for by thousands of men in hundreds of places. More money may be spent in hunting for it than the treasure itself amounts to.

It may be another Captain Kidd affair, on a smaller scale and with less picturesque trimmings. But let people cherish their romance. It is doubtful whether the great Captain Kidd himself ever buried any more treasure than Oriakoski. Human imagination magnifies the fame of picturesque rogues as the years pass, and there is no lure more powerful than that of "buried treasure."

Personally speaking, one of the things we're glad we don't have to worry about is the queen's cigarets.

Another wise provision of nature. "More boys than girls will be born," says an astrologer. They'll be needed to compete with the girls.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—It is estimated New York spends five millions a year on press agency. This enormous expenditure ranges from the theatrical press agent who averages $200 a week to those super "merchants of glory" who ballyhoo corporations for $50,000 a year.

The circusey methods of giving stage ladies milk baths or putting toothless lions in hotel rooms as pets are not recognized any more. The calling has grown a trifle more dignified. City editors often recognize men who furnish honest facts just as they recognize other news sources.

A law protects newspapers from spurious "hippodroming." Every shrewd observer who depends on the public for patronage knows that the only sure results are from straight away paid advertisements. No reader is induced to buy a diamond ring from the proprietor of a shop who, for instance, is mentioned as giving $50,000 to a charity bazaar.

Newspapers realize the only value of self glorification is a sop to one's personal vanity and this has little cash value. And it is for this reason that press agency has not been entirely routed. A "staged" publicity stunt these days receives a ha-ha.

There has, however, grown up in the publicity field a number of purely puff journals, simulating names of more honest contemporaries, whose livlihood depends entirely upon a weakness of vanity in those they victimize.

The victim is read a glowing tribute of himself by the representative and is asked casually if he would like 500 or a thousand copies for friends. If he does not give a substantial order the writeup does not appear.

The majority of press agents are attached to the stage and movie fields. Stories about players are a matter of public interest and require no duplicity to have them printed.

Outside of Anna Held's milk ablution the hotsy-totsiest theatrical press stunt was paving the street in front of Mrs. Pat Campbell's hotel with tan bark on her visit here. This was to deaden the noise and save her nerves from the dreadful jangle. Such a stunt today would not net a line.

As a slight indication of wasted publicity efforts I find in the mail today mimeographed praise for a new manicure parlor, an antique shop, seven night clubs, a patented milk bottle, a dancing academy, a private bank and a riding school.

The three halls of the pawnshop are disappearing save on the Bowery. In uptown centers the pawnshop has more of the air of a private bank with glass windows stained black and a small brass door plate reading "Loans." There are no window displays of unredeemed pledges and the word "pawn" never appears.

I know of no men so patient as those fishermen who angle for human souls in rescue missions of the East Side. Day after day the "converted" stray from the path and return trembling and weak and in search of spiritual solace. The mission men are always ready for them with words of hope and confidence. To them no sheep is ever lost. The rewards indeed seem few but they never give up and it is for this reason no doubt that now and then they meet with success.

Two smart hotels in the upper Fashionable Fifties have lifted the ban on dogs. The managers said they often lost patronage they desired by enforcing the rule.

HASKINS' LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Farm Education or Legislation.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 28.—Farm relief legislation is a problem that will worry congress again this winter, and there is a growing group of national leaders who are beginning to doubt that it will ever be solved with anything approaching general satisfaction. These leaders are saying that no legislative panacea can be devised that will cure the ills and troubles of the American farmer, of which so much has been heard in recent years.

The fundamental problem of agriculture, they point out, is how to farm successfully and profitably, and they profess the belief that there is more hope for the farmer in education than in all the laws that could be enacted. Good farming will pay even under adverse conditions, it is contended, and legislation can not make good farmers; education can and does.

This argument is supported by the results that have attended the new Farm Radio Service of the United States Department of Agriculture. This service, intended to give farmers throughout the country the broad practical principles of successful agriculture and at the same time to aid them in meeting daily emergencies and in overcoming daily difficulties, was inaugurated in an experimental way early last spring. It was received enthusiastically from the outset, and there were widespread demands for its continuation and enlargement.

Accordingly more comprehensive programs were worked out for the present season. Broadcasting was begun on October 4, to be continued until May 20, next, and hundreds of thousands of farm families are being afforded every day educational advantages which they could never enjoy if it were not for the radio, which is now recognized as the greatest aid to education since the invention of the printing press. Managers of broadcasting stations are reporting that the features of the Farm Radio Service are proving the most popular programs which they put on the air from day to day, and enthusiastic fan letters are being received by the hundreds and thousands.

Letters Prove Value of Service.

These letters attest the practical educational value of the service. A typical one came from the head of a farm family in a western state. It said that he had never had a book, a magazine, or a newspaper in his home because he and his family never had a chance to read; they had to work too hard ever to take time to try to learn anything. But he had chanced to be in a neighbor's home for a midday meal when, while they were eating, the radio had given them fifteen minutes of the Department's noon farm flashes, and he had been told that there were even better programs at supper-time. He wanted to tell the department that he thought that was the greatest thing he had ever heard of. He had secured a receiving set and already had had more benefit out of it than from anything he'd ever had on the place, and he had some tolerable good machinery, too!

Another letter from a middle west farmer said that he and his family had been barely scratching a living out of a small farm, and that no matter how hard they worked it seemed that nothing ever went right. They heard of the Farm Radio Service and went to a neighbor's where they listened in three or four times a week. Almost from the beginning they began to learn why things had gone wrong with them— they had wrong ideas about crops, etc., and used wrong methods. He had corrected some of his mistakes and could see where he would get better results, and he knew he would learn a lot more before the winter was over.

There are four sections of the Farm Radio Service, the first being the noon farm flashes, a fifteen-minute, five-day a week program of interest-holding dialogue between a farm and an agricultural expert. The listener hears both ends of an intelligent, instructive conversation—questions and answers bearing on the most timely current farm problems, as well as small talk, humor, and gossip.

For instance, the farmer wants to know about the potato crop and prospective prices. He is told that the crop now figures about seven per cent above last season's very light production, but that with 26,000,000 bushels more than last year, and with the good crop of almost all other long-keeping vegetables, the price might be expected to run somewhat lower, unless serious and widespread trouble from late freezing or decay should alter the situation. Or the farmer may want to know how to poison rabbits that threaten to ruin his orchard, and he is told that strychnine will do the work and that the Department has a bulletin giving detailed information of the subject.

Farm Radio School.

Next comes the Farm Radio School, for 15 minutes broadcast, Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, in the evening, covering all phases of livestock, poultry, and dairy problems. There are 24 courses of eight lessons, each 7½ minutes in length, each lesson given as a monologue.

My Favorite Stories

By IRVIN S. COBB

THE SOLE VIRTUE OF THE ABSENTEE

In these modern times when the moving picture industry offers openings to those who screen well before the camera, this story loses something of its original force. Even so, it has its merits as showing how a naturally kind hearted man will strive to make the best of a fellow-be'ng's shortcomings.

In a group of newspaper workers in Indianapolis the social imperfections of a certain unpopular individual were being discussed.

"Conceited puppy," said a second.

"Never pays a bill."

"Deserted his wife and children, I'm told."

"I never heard anybody who had a good word for him."

"That's because he hasn't any redeeming qualities," stated another, summing up the collective judgment of the party. "What could anybody say in his favor?"

Kin Hubbard, the Hoosier humorist, who up until this point had taken no part in the clinic, now spoke:

COSTIVE BOWELS, HEADACHE, COLDS TAKE "CASCARETS"

No Headache, Sour Stomach, Bad Cold or Constipation by morning

Furred Tongue, Bad Colds, Indigestion, Sallow Skin and Miserable Headaches come from a torpid liver and clogged bowels, which cause your stomach to become filled with undigested food, which sours and ferments like garbage in a swill barrel. That's the first step to untold misery—indigestion, foul gases, bad breath, yellow skin, mental fears, everything that is horrible and nauseating. A Cascaret tonight will give your constipated bowels a thorough cleansing and straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist will keep you feeling good for months. Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then to keep their stomach, liver and bowels regulated, and never know a miserable moment. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good, gentle cleansing, too.

CONTINUING PROSPERITY OR INDUSTRIAL CHAOS?

THE CONTRAST

1913-14	1926
Under a "Competitive Tariff."	Under the Coolidge Tariff.
Wages in Ohio $1.50 to $1.75 for a 9 or 10 hour day.	More men employed.
27 applicants in Cleveland for every position.	Higher Wages.
300,000 men out of work in Ohio.	Greater Prosperity for the average man than was ever before attained in any country in the world's history.

DO YOU WISH THE RETURN OF A "COMPETITIVE" TARIFF, SUCH AS BROUGHT THE INTOLERABLE CONDITIONS OF 1913-14, OR A CONTINUANCE OF THE CONDITIONS OF PROSPERITY EXISTING TODAY?

THIS IS THE QUESTION FACING THE VOTERS OF OHIO WHO SELECT A UNITED STATES SENATOR ON TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 2nd,

THE CONTRAST

AS A MEMBER OF THE SENATE:

The Democratic candidate voted 400 times against protection for the American workingman. Only on potash and peanuts, neither of which are produced in Ohio did he ever vote for protection for American labor and American standards of living. His party pledges him now to vote again as he did before, and in his party the caucus rules regardless of personal views.	Senator Frank B. Willis, Candidate for re-election, voted every time for the protection of American industry and American standards of life. He is pledged, both personally and by his party to continue this policy.

Let us not have a repetition of the Conditions when only 40% of the people of Ohio were working or had any chance to work.

THESE ARE THE BIG ISSUES IN THE SENATORIAL FIGHT:

Shall American Industry be protected from the $6 cent per day labor of Europe?

Shall the policies of President Coolidge be Sustained?

SENATOR FRANK B. WILLIS HAS BEEN AND IS A STAUNCH SUPPORTER of the policies of the President, under which the people of the United States have enjoyed for four years a prosperity unparalleled in the world's history. No President can achieve, unless the Congress sustains him. Ohio voted for Coolidge 700,000 strong. Let us now not tie his hands by electing a man who's every vote, judged by his past record, would be cast against the Presidential policies.

Senator Willis has voted three times for taxation reduction. His opponent, despite Ohio's 500,000 vote for Harding, voted "No" on the Harding taxation reduction bill of 1921.

The fight successfully waged by Senator Willis against the "Chicago Water Steal" is one of the greatest in recent Senatorial history, and of the utmost importance to the industrial life of Ohio.

Chairman of a most important Senate Committee, a member of three more big committees, Senator Willis, as recently stated by one of the country's great newspapers, "rightfully takes his place beside such illustrious Republican predecessors as John Sherman, Marcus A. Hanna, Joseph B. Foraker, Theodore E. Burton, and Warren G. Harding."

IF YOU BELIEVE IN OHIO AND THE NATION, IF YOU WISH TO CONTINUE THE ABUNDANT PROSPERITY YOU NOW ENJOY, VOTE AGAINST THE RETURN OF A "COMPETITIVE" TARIFF AND WAGE SCALES BELOW THE AMERICAN STANDARD OF LIVING. VOTE FOR A CONTINUANCE OF GREAT AMERICAN POLICIES BY HELPING TO RE-ELECT FRANK B. WILLIS AS UNITED STATES SENATOR ON NOVEMBER 2nd.

YOU CAN COUNT ON WILLIS!

experts. Students are given the results of Uncle Sam's recent investigations and recommendations which may be applied to their business. Laboratory assignments are given that call for putting into practice the lessons taught. Enrolled students are also furnished printed copies of the radio talks and a file of bulletins, and when they complete a course satisfactorily they are awarded certificates signed by the secretary of agriculture and respective chiefs of the bureaus sponsoring the courses.

The third section of the service is known as Housekeepers' Chat, an informal five-day a week fifteen-minute program featuring Backyard Gossip, Questions Women Are Asking, and What Shall We Have for Dinner, contributed by the Bureau of Home Economics. It covers answers to all questions of general interest to housewives; a suggestion as to what to cook expressed in terms of menus for the food requirements of an average family, and, last, an entertaining discussion of such important household subjects as nutrition, clothing, health, home decorating, and the like.

Special Farm Features, t ten-minute varied program for each week day, constitutes the final division of the service. Monday there is "The Weekly Letter to Dad," in which a farmer boy at college gives his family some of the high lights of his studies of agriculture which he believes might well be put into practice on the old home place. Tuesday comes "Autobiographies of Infamous Bugs and Rodents." The Weather Man talks on Wednesday. Thursday is given over to the Primer for Town Farmers." On Friday there is "An Inter-view with the Agricultural Economist" on such subjects as cooperative marketing, price trends, agricultural finance, warehousing, and farm management, and on Saturday the farmers get a summary of the important news items of the week that are of especial interest to them.

The Farm Radio Service is directed by Sam Pickard, whose official title is Chief of Radio, U. S. Department of Agriculture. He says he realizes he has a big job, and he solicits assistance in the way of questions and suggestions. He even welcomes complaints that are constructive, and although he does not say so, it may be mentioned that a friendly boost now and then is a big help in almost any line of endeavor.

TWO ESCAPE FROM WELLSVILLE DETENTION ROOM

HINT OUTSIDE AID IN FLIGHT OF PRISONERS

DRY LAW CASES

Clutter Was Awaiting Hearing; Companion Had Been Fined.

Dory Clutter, of McQueen's Run hollow, and Raymond Hertzen, whose habitat until recently was a houseboat below Boring's Crossing, escaped from the detention room in Wellsville city hall building Tuesday night, it developed today. Outside aid was given the prisoners, police believe.

Both Clutter and Hertzen made their getaway without leaving clues. Police are frankly baffled by the circumstances surrounding the escape.

There are but two means of egress from the room, one by a window overlooking Fifth street and the other, the door.

A heavy iron guard over the window bore evidence of having been tampered with, but apparently was not moved sufficiently to permit the prisoners to escape. If they had gone through the window, they would have been forced either to crawl along a narrow ledge to an adjoining window into the lavatory, or grab a nearby rain spout and slide to the pavement. The spout did not show any marks and there was no visible indication that the lavatory route had been used.

The key to the detention room was hanging on the wall, along with the other cell keys, just inside the door of police headquarters.

Clutter was arrested by police Monday on a charge of manufacturing liquor. His case had not been disposed of. Hertzen had been fined on a charge of transporting liquor approximately two weeks ago and had not been able to pay.

EDUCATION OF EACH STUDENT COSTING $58.90

Per Capita Rate Here Lower Than in Many Cities.

AVERAGE IS $75

Cuyahoga County Paying $114 for Each Pupil.

Wellsville taxpayers are paying a rate of $58.90 a year, under existing conditions, for the education of each child in the local public school, according to statistics compiled by the local board of education in its campaign for the approval of a four-mill levy at the polls next Tuesday.

While there is no definite standard of education costs, which vary with local conditions, the board has ascertained that the people of Cuyahoga county are expending $146 annually for every child enrolled in the public schools; the people of Franklin county are expending annually $108 per capita and $114 is deemed necessary in Hamilton county.

These figures, the board explains, are taken from progressive communities that feel a narrow curriculum of studies will not meet the demands of life in a complex civilization.

The average cost, per pupil, in the entire state, it is found, is $75 per capita.

Answering charges made in some instances that teachers' salaries should be reduced, the board points out that the hod carrier's daily wage is higher than that of the teacher's.

Figures produced by the board to show the comparative cost of public and private education show that, in the best of private schools, the tuition and board ranges from $750 to $1,000 per year. The man with three children in school, points out the board, would necessarily have to spend at least $2,000 annually if he wanted his children educated.

POLITICAL FOES FLAYED BY BOND

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Oct. 28.—In a scathing denunciation of personal enemies who, he said, sought to ruin him, John C. Bond, suspended state auditor, today charged that he was being made a political scapegoat on the eve of the West Virginia elections.

Bond, who filed a petition in bankruptcy here yesterday while a grand jury was considering evidence presented against him by Governor Howard Gore to determine whether criminal charges are to be filed, broke his silence for the first time since his name became linked with a political scandal here.

"The gang that has been fighting me first brought charges which caused the governor to remove me from office," Bond declared. "Now they would ruin me financially by making me defendant in a criminal case on the eve of election."

The deposed official declared that he had sought bankruptcy to protect his creditors after judgments were threatened against him on notes which he had endorsed.

Bond predicted that he would be indicted by the grand jury, "Because my enemies seek to make a showing."

STATE EDUCATOR BOOST SCHOOLS

The highest standard in instruction and scholarship is maintained in the counties of the northern panhandle of West Virginia, according to Robert Clarke, supervisor of teachers training of the state department of education.

The northern counties of the state were foremost in securing teachers of advanced ranking.

The state supervisor of teachers training believes that the best results are obtained in the counties which have been administered for period of years by the same men. His opinion is that a change in school administration is liable to prove harmful to school affairs, and for this reason advocates restraining school officials for long periods wherever possible.

GOSPEL POWER IS STRESSED BY EVANGELIST

Deprecating the tendency of many Christians to be seemingly ashamed of their religious convictions, Rev. Mel Morris eloquently stressed the need of constant loyalty to the bulwarks of their profession at the Baptist church service last evening. His subject was "Shame-faced Religion."

When worldly men about you belittle your belief or speak skeptically about it what do you do?" he asked. "Do you defend the basis of your spiritual activity or do you simply ignore the subject? I wonder if Jesus Christ is not ashamed at times of our defense of Him.

Following the sermon by Rev. Mr Morris, Marion Ball, accompanying singer, sang "The Name of Jesus is So Sweet." In the preliminary song service he sang "The End of the Road," and, with Mrs. Rev. A. H. O'Brien, "Nothing Between My Love and My Saviour.' Later, also by request of Rev. Mr. O'Brien, he repeated the solo, "The Old Fashioned Meeting." A duet by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Chilton, "Only a Sinner," concluded the pre-sermon musical program.

The invocation was made by Harvey Pickens, a layman of the church.

Announcement was made of two prayer services to precede tonight's service, one in the auditorium for the members of the congregation and the other in the class room by the board of deacons. Both will begin at 7 o'clock.

Paul's assertions to the Romans: 'I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ for it is the power of salvation to every one who believeth," formed Rev. Mr. Morris' text.

"The word gospel is one of the first words used in the New Testament," he said. "It heads the introductory statements of Mathew, Mark, Luke and John. All harmonize without contradiction. They form not four, but one gospel.

"The gospel was referred to in the final message of Christ before he ascended into heaven following His resurrection when He commanded: Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature.

"And the word gospel really means dynamite. It isthus the dynamite of God, a power able to save sinners into the uttermost.

"We have great power in the world now, that which causes ships to fly, others to move under sea, waves to scintillate in the air and carry speech to every clime on earth. Great has been scientific and engineering progress in recent years. But outstanding as those accomplishments are none has the capacity to save the human soul from its sin. Only the gospel, the glad tidings initiated by Jesus Christ and felt so strongly by Paul that he preached it can do that."

And this power of which Paul, once feeling it, was never thereafter ashamed, came to us by the spilling of blood under the cross. I love that blood for what it has done for me, for mankind everywhere in the past and for what it is destined to do in making every knee ultimely bend to Him. It is cleansing, purifying, sacrificing, justice-making power. I know scoffers deny this assertion and unbelievers ridicule similar statements but just the same this gospel of Jesus Christ remains what it has always been—the Alpha and the Omega, the beginning and the end, a Calvary as fresh now as when drawn from Immanuel's veins.

"Stephen Halcomb, a gambler, fatally wounded a friend who accused him of cheating. Acquitted in court he failed to find peace of mind. Succumbing to prayer he found surcease in the blood of Jesus Christ, the gospel, functioning, cleansed, washed and redeemed him."

TWO PERUVIAN UNDER-WATER VESSELS SAFE

Distress Call Picked Up at Coastal Station.

NEW YORK, Oct. 28. — The Peruvian submarines, R-1 and R-2, reported seriously disabled 130 miles off Cape May, N. J., did not send out an S. O. S, call last night and are in no danger of sinking, naval communications reported this morning. The R-1, carrying a crew of 22, accompanied by her sister ship with a crew of 21, left Newport, R. I., last Tuesday for Peru.

The distress call picked up at various coastal stations last night apparently was actuated by the fact that the R-2's engine was temporarily disabled and that she was being towed by her sister ship, the R-1 informed naval communications. The R-1 said the R-2 was in no danger and that her disabled engine was being repaired by the crew.

The S. O. S. call that the R-1 was in distress was believed to have been sent by the steamer Veendijk. The revenue cutters Gresham, Hammond and Seneca were standing by the submarine this morning after a quick dash out to sea, according to reports received at the coast guard base at Cape May, N. J.

Although the S. O. S. call was received at Boston and Philadelphia, the Cape May coast guard station and naval communications here did not pick it up. The message read:

"S. O. S. Peruvian R-1 with brake engines, latitude 38:24, longitude 71: 20. Sinking. Make every effort to tow. S. O. S."

A report that one of the submarines was sinking was dispelled when the R-1 sent a wireless asking for radio compass bearings, and at 6 o'clock this morning naval communications characterized the S. O. S. call as a "fluke."

Receipt of the S. O. S. call last evening resulted in a general suspension of radio broadcasting from 6:35 to 7:57 p. m.

Paris Denies Report

Queen Marie, Princess Ileana and Prince Nicolas awakened in excellent spirits. The prince, usually nervously bored, wore a smile as broad as the "wide open spaces" ahead of him. His youthful energy smothered beneath a never-ending wave of formal entertainments, the potential Heir to the Roumanian throne had his fling in Toronto and was happy. It was not much of a fling, merely an escape from the worshipping multitude to visit places and things he wanted to see—alone, or nearly so.

"I am tired of high hats," exploded the prince. "I have seen the best tables in the United States and Canada but nothing else."

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—For the first time in transportation history the volume of weekly freight traffic on American railroads exceeded 1,000,000 cars, according to the Railway association's report for October 16, issued today. This was the most important factor in the financial district in the early trading, causing further retreat of the bears in the speculative favorites.

The stock market was buoyant in the first hour, but only in isolated cases were price guns more than a point or two. Shorts in U. S. Steel and General Motors paid about a point more for stock than they could have purchased it for yesterday afternoon. On the other hand there were some conspicuous weak spots, both the railroad and industrial groups, Hudson Motors being the outstanding example in the latter group.

Wall Street was disposed to look for some more favorable announcements from the directors' meetings of important corporations today, including Bethlehem Steel, which is believed to be on the threshold of dividend resumption. Consolidated Gas of New York, and household products. Thus far this week the record has been excellent in the matter of dividend increases. Commodity markets were steady in the early trading and call money unchanged at 4½ per cent.

The market drifted into a reactionary trend in the second hour. Traders were ready to take profits on stocks bought yesterday and professionals to renew short selling in anticipation of a dull market over election day. Dupont, New York, graduating from the curb, was in good demand around 162, while cast iron pipe, General Electric and American Can reached slightly higher price levels in active trading. Oils were firm, coppers and sugars steady.

Royal Mounted Police Band Comes to Ceramic Theatre

The Royal Northwest Mounted Police band of Canada, a 12-man organization, attired in striking red coated uniforms, will appear as a special attraction with the motion picture hit, "Laddie," at the Ceramic theatre today, tomorrow and Saturday.

The name of Gene Stratton-Porter, for years the most widely read novelist of this or any other generation, is enough to insure the worth of a motion picture, basing that criterion on "The Girl of the Limberlost" and "The Keeper of the Bees." When, added to that name, a sterling cast enacts the roles and the clever direction of J. Lee Meehan, the late novelist's son-in-law makes the story stand out, the acme of entertainment is reached.

Such a picture is "Laddie." It is heralded as the most absorbing production F. B. O. has ever released.

Little Gene Stratton, who created such a sensation in "The Keeper of the Bees," again has an important role in the cast. The granddaughter of the celebrated author takes the part of "Little Sister," and repeats her triumph with accrued interest. John Bowers does splendidly in the titular role, while Bess Flowers, David Torrence, Eugenia Gilbert, Neil Neely, Fanny Midgely, Arthur Clayton and John Fox, Jr., are all fine in the characters assigned to them.

VOTE STRAIGHT G. O. P. TICKET, URGES MRS. HALLIE Q. BROWN

Electors were urged to "vote the straight Republican ticket" at next Tuesday's election by Mrs. Hallie Q. Brown, former chautauqua entertainer and a member of the state Republican speakers' bureau, in an address at G. O. P. headquarters in the Carmarda garage building, West Fifth street, last night. The rally, which was under the auspices of the Colored Women's Republican club, was largely attended.

Mrs. Mae Joseph, president of the East Liverpool Women's Republican club, presided. Mrs. Brown was introduced by Mrs. Ila Marshall Cronin. At the conclusion of the address, Mrs. Maude Good recited a poem of her own composition, "Ethiopia's Plea," written shortly after the signing of the Armistice.

Mrs. Joseph, one of the captains of the organization, urging ratification of the proposed 2.3 mill school levy, voiced a plea for support of the proposal at the polls. Mayor Ralph Benedum asked approval of the proposed $225,000 municipal building bond issue. Councilman George Hughes accompanied the mayor to the meeting.

Attorney W. H. Vodrey and Mrs. Mary Vodrey Nease also spoke briefly, urging that every one vote at Tuesday's election.

Court Will Hear Motion.

Charging that refusal to admit him to McDermott's cell is a violation of both state and federal constitutional provisions guaranteeing the defendant a fair trial, Mills asserted that unless the defense attorneys are permitted to talk with McDermott they will be unable to prepare their case for November 8, the date set for the trial of Mazer.

Prediction of defeat of the motion by Judge Agler who overruled Mills' motion, presented Tuesday, that he be permitted to see McDermott because the latter so desired, was freely made by Canton attorneys.

Filing of this motion marked the fifth attempt instigated by defense attorneys to gain access to witnesses, held incommunicado by the prosecution.

Slater and McClintock will question McDermott again sometime again today, they announced.

Find Cleveland Haven.

Acting upon a tip from Ora Slater, Mellett case detective, Detective Inspector Cornelius Cody and a squad of men raided the apartment, which turned out to be a modestly furnished four room flat, at 10414 Barrett avenue, on the east side. They found clothing with McDermott's laundry mark, and other articles which may reveal evidence invaluable in the Mellett investigation.

McDermott, they learned, lived in the place with a companion described by neighbors as a "black-haired man." The latter came and went frequently from the apartment, but McDermott kept closely inside, except at night, they said.

Hunt for Second Hangout.

A woman visited the apartment on one occasion, neighbors said, and police found a woman's undergarments in the place.

A squad of detectives, headed by Captain Emmett Potts, and inspector C. W. Cody this morning resumed the search for another apartment, believed to have been occupied by McDermott and his "dark-haired" companion after they moved from the first apartment.

The latest place occupied by the two men was believed to have been located on Kinsman road, according to information furnished the detectives by McDermott's brother.

KIWANIS HEARS HEALTH TALK

Periodic health examinations were urged by Dr. J. M. King, Wellsville physician, in an address before 60 members of the Kiwanis club and their guests in Larkins' annex, Market street, at noon today. His subject was "The Value of the Periodic Health Examination."

He was introduced by Dr. W. A. Hobbs, vice president. Clarence Cline presided. Chorus singing was in charge of Prof. H. F. Laughlin, Claire Chambers being the accompanist. The guests included Common Pleas Judge W. H. Spence, Lisbon.

Dr. King, who was a member of the draft board of Columbiana county, District No. 1, during the war, asserted that more than one-third of the youths registered were unable to pass the physical examination required for military service.

"Medicine's greatest objective is the preservation of disease," he said. "Doctors believe in the old saying that 'an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.'

"Most of your men are healthy and the purpose of the periodic physical examinations is to keep you healthy. Go to your physician for advice regarding health matters every few months.

"The average span of life during the past 50 years has been increased by 20 years. With the adoption of the periodic health examinations by all, this span can be increased. People in general fail to consult a physician soon enough and only seek medical aid when they are forced to take to their bed."

The physician stated that recently a large insurance company examined 16,000 men. Defects of a minor nature were found in a majority of these. Eighty per cent of these defects were cured and, as a result, lives of the men were prolonged.

Girl Gained 7 Pounds Nine Years An Invalid

That's just what McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets did for the Babcock Girl—and is doing as much for tens of thousands of thin, underweight, weak and discouraged people all over America.

These sugar coated, pleasant to take, tablets should be given to children instead of the vile stomach upsetting oil itself—they surely do help the frail, delicate little ones and 60 tablets cost but 60 cents at Mathews Med. store or any druggist.

Read this letter if you have a child that needs to gain health and strength:

"My little girl was stricken with infantile paralysis when she was 5 months old and was an invalid for 9 years—when I saw an ad in the paper that McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets would build up wasted tissues. I bought a box and she gained very slowly at first and after taking eight boxes, she gained seven pounds. Thanks to McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets, after trying almost everything else on the market. She is on the road to recovery and goes to school every day." Mrs. L. Babcock, Appleton, Wis.

Continuing Prosperity or Industrial Chaos?
For Which Does Ohio Stand?

Democratic Party pledged to destruction of the protective tariff and restoration of a "Competitive" tariff like the Underwood-Simmons bill which plunged Ohio and the Nation into two of its greatest depressions.

SELDOM in the history of the United States have our people been so universally prosperous as today. Not every person is employed, of course—there is no time, under ordinary conditions, when everyone can be employed as desired; but compared with other days and other countries, the United States is today the industrial and business paradise of the world. 1926 has produced a business record almost unprecented. Expenditures for homes, for household conveniences, for all the things that go to make life in the United States far different from what it is anywhere in the world, have increased beyond the fondest dreams of men a few years ago.

Bank resources are immense. Building and Loan assets are more than three times what they were ten years ago.

Automobile sales have mounted to undreamed of heights. And 95 per cent of the automobiles owned in the world are in the United States. In seven years the number of automobiles used in the United States has tripled.

The greatest railway day in the history of the world was in September, 1926. Capacity use of the car facilities of our great lines are not sufficient to meet the transportation demands.

The promise for 1927 is much greater than was the promise a year ago for 1926.

Nowhere in the world—save in isolated spots like Australia—is there, for the average man, employer or employee—anything approaching the conditions of life in the United States.

This is not wholly due to our great resources or the capabilities of our people. Others can duplicate us in the necessary production qualities. To protect ourselves, in our growing days, we have erected barriers that have enabled us to create the wonderful life we have on this continent.

And a fundamental feature of this system is the protective tariff we have created, giving our industry, and our workingmen just that margin of protection that eliminated the differences of production in European and Oriental countries and enables us to go ahead.

To sweep away these barriers now, would be to throw every American business and workingman open to the free competition of the world, with the vastly different conditions that prevail in other countries.

Every time we have done so, industrial chaos has ensued. Millions of our workingmen have walked the streets unemployed. Soup houses have furnished the only relief and life itself to many of these millions. Factories have everywhere been closed. The cheaper imports of Europe have poured in, but there has been no money to buy. American workingmen must be employed at American wage standards, American industries must be maintained on American standards, if our prosperity is to be maintained.

THE LEADERS of the Democratic party in the nation pledge their party, and their nominees for Senate and House in Ohio and elsewhere, to the restoration of the Underwood-Simmons or a similar tariff, if the next Congress is controlled by the Democratic party.

This picture, taken two weeks ago in Washington, shows Ohio's senior Senator in conference with President Coolidge, under whose leadership the nation has attained a degree of prosperity never before attained. The President has no more loyal or able supporter than Senator Willis. Ohio can show its approval of the President's policies, and help in their continuance, in no other way than by the return of Senator Willis and Republican Congressmen at the election on November 2nd.

OHIO HAS HAD ONE EXPERIENCE WITH THE UNDERWOOD-SIMMONS TARIFF.

It was enacted October 3, 1913, and was in force up to the beginning of the war. The then Democratic Senator from Ohio—who is now the candidate for re-election in Ohio—voted for every low duty schedule this tariff contained.

HERE ARE OHIO RESULTS as gleaned from the Ohio State Journal, the Cleveland Plain Dealer, and the Cincinnati Enquirer of the times:

November—Leetonia Steel Company, Leetonia, Ohio, went bankrupt.

November—Commercial Travelers report German cutlery crowding out American goods.

November—The Iron Trade Review of Cleveland "Seldom has the trade seen such stagnation as exists in pig iron markets."

November—Cincinnati Associated Charities reported a 80% increase in destitution over November, 1912.

November—Mahoning Valley Tin Plate started down grade.

December 24—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune published article showing that the clothing trade was severely feeling the effects of the tariff.

December 25—Christmas Day 7,000 men out of work in Columbus.

December 26—New York Sun said machinery and tool manufacturers in Ohio were "Almost paralyzed" by the Underwood Tariff.

December 26—The Columbus Iron & Sheet Company went on half time; Buckeye Steel Casting Company—only 500 were working out of a full force of 3,000.

One Columbus furnace out of six was running.

January 20—Continental Sugar Company at Fremont was ordered closed.

February 14—Youngstown Bar Works cut employees 50 per cent.

March 2—8,000 men out of work in Columbus.

May 1—Foundries at Cincinnati began half time.

May 4—2,000 men thrown out of Aetna Mills, Martins Ferry.

May—Cleveland issued $100,000 bonds to care for the unemployed.

June 15—Central Labor Union, Akron, reported that very recently 1,600 men were laid off in the rubber plants.

July—Perry County potteries all closed except two. 600 carloads of surplus products on hand.

July—In Zanesville, factories employed only 60% of their usual number of men and those for only four days a week.

July—Wages in Steubenville and throughout the county were from $1.50 to $1.75 for a 9 or 10 hour day.

July—Cleveland City Labor Exchange estimated that at one time between the passage of the Underwood Tariff and the beginning of the war, there were 61,000 men out of employment in Cleveland alone. There were 27 applicants for every job the Labor Exchange listed.

The war over, "war babies" were no longer the products of industry, and we slid quickly back to the 1913-1914 conditions.

In 1919-20, once again millions of men walked our streets. January, 1921, was a "blue day" in Ohio and throughout the nation.

But with the enactment of the emergency tariff, and the later enactment of the present tariff—both strenuously opposed by the then Democratic senator from Ohio—by January, 1922, these conditions were largely remedied and our factories again in almost full production employment.

WIPE OUT THE TARIFF, AS IS PLEDGED BY THE NATIONAL DEMOCRATIC LEADERS, AND YOU WIPE OUT THE INDUSTRIAL PROSPERITY OF OHIO, ONE OF THE GREATEST INDUSTRIAL CENTERS IN THE WORLD.

Senator Pomerene's Record on the Tariff ---Almost 400 Low Tariff Votes

DOCUMENT 556, 63rd Congress, Second Session, gives votes on the Underwood-Simmons Tariff Bill, which opened soup houses in every industrial city in Ohio. An examination of the record in this pamphlet shows that Senator Pomerene voted with but two exceptions for the low duties reported by the committee, made up largely of southerners, headed by Senator Simmons. He never voted once in favor of an amendment to increase any Ohio duties, although there were a large number of amendments offered proposing to increase the rates reported by the Committee.

Document 264, 67th Congress, Second Session, gives the Yea and Nay vote on the Fordney-McCumber Tariff Bill. An examination of the roll calls shows that Senator Pomerene was absent or paired 103 times. He voted 171 times. Every time he voted for the lowering of proposed duties — never once was he able to see his way clear to vote for an increase, no matter what duty was proposed.

In between these two Tariff Bills, there was passed the Emergency Tariff Bill. The record shows Senator Pomerene was for every lower duty proposed in connection with that bill. He voted, of course, against the Fordney-McCumber Bill and the Emergency Tariff Bill.

The record shows that he voted, also, against the Taxation Bill of 1921, under which the first large reduction in taxes was made by the Harding Administration. This, of course, was the only tax reduction upon which he had a chance to vote.

DOES OHIO GO AHEAD OR BACKWARD?

Because of our belief that the return of Senator Willis, who stands always staunchly for the protection of American industries and American standards of living, is absolutely essential to the continuance of the present conditions of unparalleled prosperity, this advertisement is inserted by business men of Ohio to call attention of our fellow citizens to the critical situation that exists, so far as our representation is concerned.

CHURCH EVENT BEING PLANNED

Centennial of Christian Church Will be Observed Next eYar.

The centennial of the organization of the Christian church in Columbiana county will be observed at Lisbon during 1927, according to preliminary announcement made by Rev. R. J. Bennett, pastor of the Lisbon Christian church.

The observance of this event will include all churches of this denomination. The program which is to be arranged later will be designed to cover a period of eight days, from one Sunday to and including the following. The month of August will likely be selected as the time of the centennial celebration.

It was in August, 1827, when the Mahoning Baptist association met at Lisbon, and as a result of a sermon delivered by Walter Scott that the congregation then called the Disciples of Christ was formed, those taking part in the meeting of the Baptist association, almost to a man agreeing to drop the name Baptist, and forming the new congregation.

Scott continued his work in Columbiana county, and he soon built up a congregation of about 1,000 men and women. Not a single congregation of this body was in existence when Elder Scott began his plea in 1827.

Sidney Rigdon, who came to Lisbon to take part in the meeting of the Baptist association later became the assistant to Joseph Smith, the founder of the Mormon church in the United States.

Unless preliminary plans miscarry representatives of the Christian church in all states will take part in the centennial services now proposed by the Lisbon congregation.

ROAD GRADING WORK INSPECTED

County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk, accompanied by Division Highway Engineer F. E. Swineford of Ravenna and Federal Highway Engineer Wilbur, with offices at Columbus, made an inspection of the grading work on the East Liverpool-Youngstown road Wednesday afternoon. On account of the heavy rains of late, the party was unable to go over the route in an automobile, and a team was secured for the inspection trip.

Both state and federal aid has been appropriated on this route, and both highway divisions have been keeping a rather close check upon the progress of the several contracts.

MANY DIVORCE ACTIONS FILED

So far this month an average of one divorce action per day has been filed in common pleas court, according to the present record for October as revealed by the docket in the office of Clerk of Courts Frank Ballantine. Up to the close of business Wednesday, 14 petitions in divorce had been filed within 23 business days.

In addition to these actions, 16 damage cases have been so far filed against the city of Salem, the total damages sought in these actions aggregating about $75,000. In all 69 cases have been filed with Clerk Ballantine up to Wednesday evening.

All Mash-Feeding Test at Experiment Station Successful

As a direct result of using an all-mash method of feeding hens for egg production, it has been explained by County Agent Floyd Lower, of the Farm Bureau, that experiments conducted at the Ohio experiment station with 2,500 layers during the last two years, egg production has been increased.

This information has been given Lower by D. C. Kennard and R. M. Bethke, who have been in charge of the test under the all-mash feeding.

As the all-mash method of feeding is such a radical departure from the customary practice of feeding scratch grain and mash, many poultry keepers may hesitate to change, it has been explained, from the traditional practice, even though they may have employed the new method with the young stock.

It is declared that by following the new method, laying hens eat clean feed from a feeder; whereas, when scratch grain is fed in the litter, the hens pick up some of the contaminated material along with the grain, especially when they are hungry and greedy. Mr. Lower has also pointed out that the litter is often damp and as it is difficult to feed just the correct amount of scratch grain, a surplus is sometimes left in the damp litter and becomes contaminated with must or mould before it is finally picked up by the hens. "The all-mash method of feeding for egg production promises to become a general practice among poultry raisers," Mr. Lower suggested.

MyersCooper was practically drafted into the primary campaign, although he never was a candidate before. He won in the primaries and should be elected because he knows how to handle business affairs as such. That's all we need in this great, prosperous state, and we need it a great deal more than we need a personal political machine, which Cooper doesn't understand and wouldn't have if he did. High Gridders to Renew Hostilities With Lisbon Saturday

Strength of Team Will be Saved for Important Clash With Red and Black; Locals Favorites in Game With County Seaters.

Still doubtful as to whether the Larkins-Bromby-McConville trio will be sufficiently recovered from injuries as to get into action Saturday, Coach George Kidder is putting his squad through the paces for its second county contest here on Saturday with Lisbon.

The Blue and White mentor is brushing up the team on its air attack this week, with other contests of the card in mind rather than this week's engagement with the county seaters.

The pass was about 50 percent effective in the Toronto battle and possibly would have been worth more to the team's chances had the receivers gotten out more rapidly than they did. End Dick McKee, who was shifted to a backfield berth, executed his heaves in unerring style but his receivers were slow in getting under them.

Unless strength has been recruited in the last few days the Lisbon eleven of 1926 will bear no resemblance to the Blue and White machine of bygone years that held rule over county scholastic teams. Only last Saturday the county seat lads were forced to take the short end of a 10-0 count at East Palestine and the locals were one touchdown better, in actuality, than East Palestine, and probably two in theory.

In the event that Center Larkins, and halves Bromby and McConville are in shape, it is hardly possible that Kidder will risk them Saturday with the Salem game looming on November 6. The clash with the Red and Black which a week ago rolled up a 29-0 count at Wellsville, will be staged at Salem.

With this trio back in harness there is little question that the locals can hold their own on straight football but the north countians have a very elaborate pass system which they use to good advantage and this is the threat for which the Blue and White must be prepared.

DEMPSEY SET FOR COMEBACK

Will Fight in Rickard's Heavyweight Campaign.

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—There will be plenty of bozos on the heavyweight hoof doing their buck and wing for local diversion within the ensuing ten months and Jack Dempsey will be in there elevating the instep with the best or the worst of them.

This is the deep, conniving plan of Tex Rickard as outlined to the writer today for the greatest heavyweight campaign in the history of boxing. Before he is through, Mr. Rickard will have approximately $2,500,000 of the customers' money and the customers will have approximately all they wish to see of men who were intended to be piano movers but thought better of it. The main idea is to build Dempsey back to where he was in 1919. The customer, ever on the alert in an emergency, will do the rest.

Three Bouts for Jack.

Dempsey, as I understand it, will take part in possibly three matches before October next and one of them will be with Gene Tunney, the man who made him what he is today. Of course, John or Jack, as he is sometimes known, first must clear a hurdle or so before he can presume again to know our Mr. Tunney professionally. In this way, John may be able to convince himself and, at the same time, incite the customers to rioting at the turnstiles. The latter consideration is merely mentioned; it is highly unimportant.

The first victim, or maybe the next champion for all I know, will be Harry Persson, the Swede with a bald head and a general idea. Rickard says Persson is the best looking prospect among the heavyweight contenders. Dempsey agrees with him. That settles it. He's in—unless some unthinking lunkhead in a moment of abstraction knocks him out.

If and provided John gets by this Hombre, the next opponent will be either Jim Maloney or Jack Sharkey. This will be an outdoor shot, if it is held at all. So will any bout involving Dempsey and Berlenbach. All of these gentlemen have ideas and they run into thousands.

Will Do for the Garden.

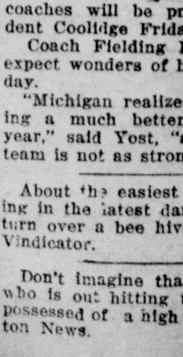

Persson will do for the garden, however. Being a bit naive or something, he probably will be willing to go there for $1.68 and carfare to the arena. This automatically makes Dempsey and Persson a very desirable indoor attraction. Any guy who will fight for the price of his breakfast ought to be indoors, according to the standards of pugilistica; in fact, they will tell you he ought to be in Mattewan.

Dempsey is scheduled to return to California next week to take stock of himself and see what he has. He says he will quit the ring if he finds he can't fight as he once did. That is plain, undiluted and unpalatable bunk, for the fighter doesn't live who thinks he can't fight, even at the age of 90. Dempsey will be back. So will the customers. More power to both of them, meaning Dempsey and the customers. Unfortunately, there will be more than two customers.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON, Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans.

If you demonstrate the back swing action, as described yesterday, you can next compare it with a start of the back swing in which the left arm moves out away from the body. This will reveal quickly the wrong actions that a shoving out of the left arm can bring about. The swing of the club is really simple and it is such seemingly unimportant details as these that keep many players from advancing greatly in the game. Of course the ball can be hit solidly even when the left arm is shoved outward at the start of the back swing, and often it makes as good a flight as you should want. Still, many of the fives and sixes you take could be turned into fours if the ball didn't fall just short of the green or did not go off direction just enough to drop into trouble. Correct arm action keeps the ball straight.

MICHIGAN OFF FOR NAVY GAME

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 28.—Thirty four football men, representing Michigan's threat to eastern intersectional supremacy will leave here this afternoon for Baltimore, Md., to engage the United States Naval academy eleven Saturday.

All of the squad members and coaches will be presented to President Coolidge Friday night.

"Michigan realizes that it is meeting a much better team than last year," said Yost, "and the Michigan team is not as strong as last year."

Breaks Deciding Factor In Case And Oberlin Tilt

Both Teams Expected to Seek Gains by Short Pass.

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 28.—The team which gets the breaks — and takes advantage of them — will win Saturday's contest between Oberlin and Case here in the outstanding Ohio conference clash, according to the gridiron experts.

It will be a case of two teams attempting to conquer with the same style, the short pass. Case has particular need of this type of offensive tactics as her backfield is weak and her attack somewhat impotent.

Art Winters, assistant coach at Case, mastered the short pass while playing at Oberlin. For the last two seasons he has dinned this style into his pupils.

But Coach Savage, of Oberlin, has not let down in perfecting the play at his institution hence an aerial contest is predicted.

While Case is attempting to master the conference-leading Oberlin team, Western Reserve will have its hands full with Cincinnati at Cleveland. Locke's men are said to have the edge in the early dope.

WELLSVILLE ELEVEN IDLE

Shattered Mingo Team Cancels Saturday Game.

With little more left of the original team than the uniforms, wrecked, morally and physically as a result of inroads within the last two weeks, Mingo Junction's high school football eleven, scheduled to play at Wellsville Saturday, has cancelled the engagement and, as a result, the Orange and Black gridders will enjoy a well earned rest.

Faculty Manager Trumbull has been negotiating for three days in an effort to line up a suitable opponent for Klinck's eleven, but the fact that practically all schedules are more or less settled at this stage of the proceedings precluded the booking of a good attraction.

ILLINOIS RING RULES BAR TWO

Sarmiento and McDermott Suspended and Fined.

CHICAGO, Oct. 28.—Pete Sarmiento and Jimmy McDermott, who were thrown out of the ring by Referee Davey Miller for their poor showing in the wind-up bout at Johnny Coulon's show Monday night, today stand suspended.

The Illinois state athletic commission banned the two fighters for six months following an investigation of Monday night's fiasco.

Sarmiento was fined $500 by the commission, and McDermott will forfeit $166.67. The fines, it is said, represent one third of the boxer's purse.

Mingo played four games this season and was unusually unlucky in the matter of injuries and misfortune of one kind or another. Several of the team's stars are suffering from injuries. Others have taken to their beds with attacks of illness, and still others within the last two weeks have withdrawn from school, according to the story of Mingo school authorities. Consequently, the school decided to call off this week's game and, possibly the remainder of the season's contests.

The enforced idleness, however, will not hurt the Orange and Black. One or two of Coach Klinck's mainstays are not in the best of condition as a result of the grueling battle with Salem last Saturday and the rest will do them good. Eschbacher, halfback, is nursing an injured leg and probably will not take part in any strenuous practice sessions until next week.

The next game will take the Wellsville eleven to East Palestine on Saturday, November 6.

SMITH WINNER IN CUE MATCH

Elmer Smith defeated Grant Trout in last night's match in the American billiard tournament. The score was 100 to 72.

Lester Herbert and Bart Shevers are scheduled to play tonight at 8:30.

Big Green Handicapped.

HANOVER, N. H., Oct. 28.—Dartmouth's chances of defeating Brown were further decreased today by an injury to Eddie Dooley's hand, which probably will keep him out of the game. This misfortune upsets the Green's passing attack, in which Dooley was the most imporant cog.

Chester Facing Hard Battle With Toronto

Playing Toronto Saturday afternoon at Chester and taking a layoff on the following week-end, Coach Ray Wilde's Chester eleven has two weeks more of grace before it reaches the crucial game stage of the present campaign.

The West Virginians are hitting their stride, as evidenced in their showing last week against Wellsburg. The Brooke countians were trampled under a rush of touchdowns that netted the Chesterites a 32 to 0 victory and gave the down staters one of their biggest surprises in years.

If they can maintain that pace against Toronto day after tomorrow, this game will be worth seeing, for the Torontoans were good enough to beat the Blue and White of East Liverpool last week by a 6-0 count, although Kidder sent his squad into action minus the services of Captain Larkins at center, and Halfbacks Bromby and McConville.

The November 6 date on the Chester card is open and will remain open, Coach Wilde announced today, unless an easy opponent can be picked up for a practice session. Wilde hesitates to take chances of injuries at this stage of the season with two important contests looking at the fag end of the card.

The first of these two games will be played at East Liverpool and the constantly growing rivalry between the two foes will make the battle a high spot of the scholastic season here.

Another week and a half of rest for the Wilde eleven will follow and then the Purple and Gold will reach the top of its climb at New Cumberland in the contest that will determine the Hancock county scholastic championship.

Both Chester and New Cumberland have triumphed over Weirton, the other member of the triumvirate and, consequently, the Thanksgiving clash will mark the end of the race.

Brick Muller Looms as Pro Rival of Famous Red Grange

CHICAGO, Oct. 28.—Sun-kissed "Brick" Muller, the former university of California star, is looming as a genuine rival of "Red" Grange in America's professional football ranks.

Wide interest in Muller and his Los Angeles Nationals or Buccaneers has been shown in early season play of the pros.

Muller is the stocky California end who made history on the slopes of the Pacific in 1921 when he forward-passed to victory the Golden Bear eleven over the powerful Ohio State team.

The game was played in Pasadena's poinsettia-decked Rose Bowl and when Muller was through throwing 50 yard passes the Bears had hung up a 28 to 0 win.

Five years have rolled by since Muller was in his prime but he has kept in condition to some extent by playing club football on the coast. He also has been active as a coach since he graduated at Berkeley and his knowledge of the game is thorough.

With Muller is "Tut" Imlay, the former University of California halfback, a sensation in coast ranks in recent years. He also has another California back in Young and Maul, fullback, formerly played at Berkeley.

Nolan and McArthur, the Los Angeles guards, played their college days at Santa Clara university, the California school long noted as a producer of star football players.

Newmeyer, Maul and Hufford and other former Californians are with the Muller outfit.

Greenwich Village Follies Comes To Ceramic Tuesday

Mail Orders Now Being Received for New York Revue Headed by McIntyre and Heath.

Mail orders are now being received and filled in order of their receipt for the "Greenwich Village Follies" which is scheduled for the local presentation at the Ceramic theatre, Tuesday, Nov. 2.

The latest all new edition of the "Greenwich Village Follies" is as usual, a gorgeous spectacle, overflowing with beautiful girls, brilliant, dazzling and gay. It is a typical John Murray Anderson revue, skillfully assembled and produced with a touch of glamour that is satisfying.

It is one of the most expensive organizations to visit this city in years. Two acts and some 35 scenes being required to reveal its gorgeous splendor.

The "Follies" has plenty of good comedy, excellent comedians and specialty dancers and a stunning chorus of 40 vivacious dancing beauties who contribute much to the success of perennial spectacle.

The cast is headed by McIntyre and Heath, two of the best known comedians on the American stage. Other revue notables are Janet Winters, Leonard Silliman Bob Brandies, Bud Williamson, Miriam Meade, James Cushman, Elsbeth Holman, Dorothy Cadwell, Elsie James, Rosemary Farmar, Eva Scase and others.

LADIES!

Don't wave your hair daily—or even every week. Here's a way to keep it wavy for days at a time. BEFORE you use your iron, or curlers, DAMPEN the hair with DANDERINE. Just a few DROPS on comb or towel. Your locks will then behave for a MONTH! Of course, you know what Danderine does to dandruff; dissolves every speck, within five minutes of rubbing into the scalp. But as a wave-preserver on the hair itself, Danderine is a JOY. The best dressing in the world because it doesn't show. Any permanent wave or water wave lasts much longer and looks much nicer when Danderine is used instead of water to "set" the wave.

Ask Your Druggist

Get a bottle of Danderine and start its benefits today. Every drugstore in America has it, for only 35c. For the finest dressing you could find, and the best aid to hair health yet discovered, just try—

Woman Loves Housework, Has Good Time

"I had stomach gas so bad that work was a burden and I was always drowsy. Adlerika is the best medicine I ever took. Since taking it, I feel like doing my work and enjoy life again."—Mrs. W. H. Clintsman.

Adlerika gives the system a REAL cleansing and brings out old poisons which may have caused trouble for a long time. Unlike most medicines, it acts upon BOTH upper and lower bowel. Just one spoonful relieves GAS and takes away that full, bloated feeling so that you can eat better and sleep better. Even if bowels move daily, Adlerika brings out much additional poison which you never thought was in your system and which caused sour, gassy stomach, nervousness, headache. No matter what you have tried for your stomach and bowels, Adlerika will surprise you. At druggists. In East Liverpool at the Economy Drug Store, and other Druggists.

By Edna Wallace Hopper

That fluff, that curl, that sheen? Then go use what I use to get it—a hair dress which great experts made especially for me. I have no time for a hairdresser, never have a Marcel wave. I simply apply this dressing of mine twice a week.

It is a wonderful thing in summer. Hair always looks tidy and curly. It looks abundant. It doubles the beauty of my hair in an hour.

All toilet counters supply this dressing at 75c a bottle. It is called Edna Wallace Hopper's Wave and Sheen. My guarantee comes with each bottle. Go try it now and learn what I did. You will be delighted. It's a find.

COLLEEN MOORE AT AMERICAN

"We Moderns," a story of the younger British generation, with the ever ebullient Colleen Moore as the star, will prove a surprise to patrons of the American theatre, where it will begin a two-day run tomorrow.

Pitched against a canvas that fairly palpitates with the din and bustle of London life, photographed in the actuality, Miss Moore is seen not only in an entirely new frame, but presents a distinctly British after-the-war development, in her characterization of Mary Sundale.

The play is adapted from an Israel Zangwell novel, with June Mathias responsible for the screen version. It was directed by John Francis Dillon, who gave screen fans those two flapper epics, "The Perfect Flapper" and "Flaming Youth," by means of which Colleen originally climbed to steller heights on the screen.

Do Your Gums Bleed and Recede from the Teeth?

Tender, sore or bleeding gums, or gums fissured or receding from the teeth, indicate DEADLY PYORRHEA—the teeth's worst enemy. The disease first attacks the gums, later the tooth structure. As the gums recede from the teeth, pus pockets are formed, in which toxic poisons develop to be absorbed by the system and become the possible sources of other dangerous diseases. Don't let Pyorrhea endanger your health. The ravages of this terrible disease can be stopped, the gums healed and the poison the system has been absorbing checked, by the use of VINCENT'S PYORRHEA TREATMENT. For further particulars write,
